Material Advance in Provision Against Rigors of Life in lcy Trenches.

WOMEN PROVIDE COMFORTS

Morale of Army Is Excellent and While All Are Confident of Victory All Realize It May Be Long Way Off.

BY PHILIP KERBY.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Throughout France there is great activity among all classes there is great grivity among all classes preparing for the Winter campaign. The government is sending warm overcouts and heavy underclothing to the men in the trenches, but has issued a spenial appeal to the warm of France in send their men any sort of warm woolen builted garments. The appeal was hardly necessary, to judge from the large quantity of bulky packages passing through the parcel past on passing through the parcel post or posts to the front ever since the colder weather han set in. "Yes, we expect it is going to be a Recently I claimed the barracks of regiment which was in the trenche during last Winter, and expects see the sent again to the front. After had made the rounds with an officer h asked me what I thought of the men I replied. Their condition is spiended They appear like a number of athletes They appear like a number of athleses, who, after pecsing through a long period of training, without becoming table, are now ready to enter any contest." He replied laughingly that of course none of them reliabed the prospect of five months' snow and sleet, but that their desire to be in at the but that their desire to be in at the

but that their desire to be in at the pleish, after anduring so much, caused them to be willing so much, caused them to be willing so much, caused them to be willing to pay any price.

"Besides," he solded, "we have made great advances since last year in providing for the comfort of our men. We hope this year that they will not be forced to stand knee deep in key water in the first line trenches. The shelters and dogmets have been reconstructed and dogmets have been reconstructed and provision has been made whereby the men on duty can be relieved more pedoed With Passengers Still he men on duty can be relieved more requently, thus allowing them lenger periods of rest.

Merude of Army Excellent.

The men themselves spake of going "up yender" with little dread. As one bean put it. "We are not half so badly off as you civilians think we are. As lang as we get enough to eat, drink and sumake we're all right. Our only werry is to keep from getting in the path of a cannon ball or rife builet. With a little sleep between times and an occasional newspaper, to read what the world is worrying about, we are quite content."

The morale of the French army is excellent. All are confident of bitimate victory, although they realize that it still is a long way off. From the men who have been at the front no disparaging criticism is heard of the opponent's fighting qualities. They will tell you that the German soldier is very heart and at the same time appreciate the fact that many of the men have been induced by misguided officers to reminitances they would not think of doing.
