

ALLIES START NEW DARDANELLES DRIVE

Violent Fighting Already Reported

SERBS MAKING FINAL STAND

War Zone Around Greece May Force Nation to Action.

FOE ADVANCES IN SERBIA

Army of Defenders Said to Be 150,000 and Diminishing at Rate of 3000 Daily—Prisina Is Center of New Battleground.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The start of a great new offensive movement by the allies at the Dardanelles, in which violent fighting is already reported from the Turkish War Office; reports of an "informal commercial blockade" against Greece, with a view of forcing Greece to take part in the war on the side of the allies, by establishing a war zone around Greece and cutting off supplies, and bitter fighting in Serbia, where the Serbians are reported to be making a final stand against the Austro-German invaders. In reports of further successes by the central allies, constitute the chief events in today's operations in Southeast Europe.

From Constantinople comes the first report of the actual start of the great drive at the Dardanelles, violent fighting in the vicinity of Sedd-i Bahr, on the tip of the Gallipoli Peninsula being reported.

Artillery Duel Begins. The official report from Constantinople is an artillery duel in progress on the Dardanelles front. Violent fighting with bombs is taking place near Sedd-i Bahr.

To the recent presence of Field Marshal Kitchener on the Gallipoli Peninsula probably will be attributed the resumption of activity on the Dardanelles front. Reports of German and Turkish success came reports of violent fighting on the tip of the peninsula in the neighborhood of Sedd-i Bahr. The Cologne Gazette characterizes the new operations as "a great offensive movement."

Serbs Offer Resistance. The armies of the central powers are still pressing the defending forces hard in Western Serbia, but the Serbs and Montenegrins are offering the strongest resistance. The Montenegrins are giving battle to the invaders along the Drina and Lim rivers and at several points are said to have repulsed them. While in the Thar Valley Serbian rear guards assumed the offensive.

The Austro-Hungarians, as they approached the Kosovo Plain in the region of Prisina, are being met by the Serbs, frequently in hand-to-hand encounters, but they still continue to push forward and are now declared to be approaching Prisina both from the north and east. Although both the Berlin and Vienna combinations daily announce relatively large captures of men, a dispatch from Austrian headquarters states that the Serb army numbers between 120,000 and 150,000 men.

British Push Aid. It is reported that the Serbs at Monastir are receiving reinforcements and that the British are sending up men to the front through which the Austrians had hoped to drive the Serbs across the border into Greece or westward into Albania. Additional forces of men and munitions are being landed daily by the entente allies at Salonika.

Hard fighting is still in progress on the Austro-Italian front with the big guns of the Italians working hard on Gorizia and adjacent sectors. According to Vienna the Austrians have driven the Italians from all the positions they had captured around Oulava, and also ejected the Italians who entered the Austrian lines in the district of San Maritano.

Greece's position, according to all reports, is hourly becoming more acute. Following is a report from Salonika: "It is rumored here that the entente allies have decided to carry the commercial blockade to the extent of establishing a war zone around Greece and cutting off all supplies. Greeks express the hope that no such drastic action will be taken."

France Demands Action. The Associated Press has learned, however, that the French authorities officially made the strongest representations to the throne respecting the necessity that Greece give assurance of more active co-operation with the allies.

Denys Cochin, French Minister without portfolio, who has been conferring with Greek officials, has gone to the front.

The entente allies demanded that Greece either join with them and fulfill her treaty obligations to Serbia, or Semobilitate, and to impress King Constantine that they mean what they say have declared a blockade of the Hellespont.

Kitchener Takes Stand. Lord Kitchener, the British War Secretary, who had an hour's audience with the King of Greece, and afterward saw Premier Skoufopoulos, took a firm stand and told them what the allies could and would do unless the demands were conceded. He declared a declaration of a commercial block.

CORRUPTION TALE ROILS SUFFRAGISTS

WOMEN SAID TO HAVE SOLD VOTES FOR SHOW TICKETS.

Speech of Representative Meeker Brings Storm of Protest and Arguers Block His Exit.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22.—Representative Jacob E. Meeker, of St. Louis, in addressing a suffrage luncheon here today, said that in Denver, so he had been told, women sold their votes for $50 each, and that the votes of society women there could be bought with theater tickets.

The remarks created an uproar, and several women sprang to their feet to answer him.

Miss Mary Bulkley quitted the women by saying: "Let Mr. Meeker continue his able exposition of Mr. Meeker."

When Mr. Meeker tried to leave the room, several women blocked his path and hurled suffrage arguments at him. Mrs. Kate O'Hara said the woman who sold her vote for $50 showed more ignorance than the man who sold his vote for a glass of beer.

Representative Meeker said there was danger in giving women the ballot, for they would go to greater lengths than men in pushing the policies they favored. Men were better friends of women, he said, than were women, and men could be trusted to legislate for women.

The district superintendent appealed to the board of church extension for help, but it was not till Bishop Cranston asked for the money to save the property that the board telegraphed the amount the day before the sale of the property.

STORM STILL RAGES IN WESTERN OREGON

Heaviest Rains of Season Are Recorded.

WIND 90 MILES AT NEWPORT

Weather Bureau Gives Warning of Flood Danger.

STORM SIGNALS DISPLAYED

Portland Has Thoroughly Wet Day, Records Showing Fall of .71 of Inch and Worst Comes as Office Workers Go Home.

All Western Oregon was storm-swept yesterday. Rain in torrents and winds approximating the velocity, in some sections, of a gale, were reported.

Another day of heavy rain like yesterday and Sunday will precipitate the flood danger in Western Oregon, particularly in the Willamette Valley.

The United States Weather Bureau last night announced that the ground had absorbed the heavy downpours of the last several days, but that the limits of absorption had been reached.

Rivers Are Rising.

Rivers and streams throughout the western portion of the state, and especially in the Willamette Valley, have begun to rise perceptibly, and the Willamette River in Portland is carrying evidence of the rise throughout the Valley.

There is no relief from the rain in sight. The prediction for today throughout this section is continued rain.

The rainfall yesterday was .71 inch. It was general throughout this district and nearly wiped out the deficiency which has existed since September. At 5 o'clock last night there was still a deficiency of .45 of an inch.

Newport Has 90-Mile Gale.

The wind yesterday attained a high velocity at the mouth of the Columbia River. The official instruments registered a gale of 72 miles an hour. Bands reported an 89-mile gale and it reached 90 miles at Newport.

Storm warnings have been displayed, and the weather bureau is emphasizing the danger from floods.

The downpour in Portland was almost continuous yesterday afternoon and was particularly heavy just as the shops and offices began to close. It caught many unprepared, as earlier in the day the indications were for only a normally "misty" day.

TURKEYS ON HAND BELIEVED AMPLE

SELLING PRICE IS EXPECTED TO BE 25 CENTS.

Puget Sound Buyers Make Liberal Purchases From Thanksgiving Stock in Portland.

Puget Sound buyers yesterday received the larger part of their Thanksgiving turkeys, and they believe the supply will be ample for all requirements.

Most of the shipments were from Southern Oregon and the Willamette Valley. A quantity also arrived from Idaho points.

Selling prices were not established, as the retail business will not open up fully until this afternoon, but the impression prevailed that it would be a 25-cent market. The dealers would like to set a higher price, in view of the strong prices demanded by turkey raisers throughout the country, but more than a quarter would check retail business, as other kinds of poultry are cheaper than usual this year, and most meats are 15 to 20 per cent lower in price than a year ago. The 25-cent price is for the best turkeys. There is the usual proportion of ordinary and poor birds, which can be bought for less.

Puget Sound buyers were in the city on Sunday and made liberal purchases from commission men, but their wants were soon filled, and no shipping business was reported yesterday.

COFFEEHOUSE LAW PENDS

Ordinance Barring Women and Girls Goes Before Council Tomorrow.

Mayor Albee's proposed ordinance barring girls and women from coffee houses in Portland will be before the city Council tomorrow. The measure probably will go over for two weeks before final passage.

Under its provisions the ordinance would prohibit girls or women from working in or frequenting any place where men gather for drinking or loitering. It is aimed primarily, it is said, at the coffee-houses of foreigners.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Residents of western and northwestern suburbs of Paris were alarmed yesterday by a violent explosion. The shock rattled windows at points 40 miles apart. The authorities thus far have been unable to ascertain the point at which the explosion occurred.

It is suggested that the noise may have been due to the bursting of a meteor.

SON, ONCE THOUGHT DEAD, HOME AGAIN

Canby Family of Eugene.

OREGON CITY, Or., Nov. 22.—(Special.)—Given up for dead for months by his parents, who buried at Canby a body supposed by them to have been his, Charles Sturgis, aged 42, tonight rapped at the door of his old home and entered. He was welcomed by his sister, who broke the news as gently as she could to the parents. Both of them collapsed, and up to a late hour were in a critical condition.

BOTH PARENTS COLLAPSE

Sister Answers Rap as Wanderer Returns.

CASE MOST PUZZLING ONE

After Funeral at Canby on May 17, Mrs. Oscar Sturgis Continually Spoke of Possibility of Mistake in Identification.

The case is the most puzzling one. Sturgis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Sturgis, aged 75 and 81, respectively, retired farming family who have made their residence in Canby for several years.

Two years ago the younger Sturgis was admitted to the State Hospital at Salem for mental treatment, and early in April escaped.

In May a body, on which was clothing similar to that worn by Sturgis when he last was seen, was found on the outskirts of Eugene. Word was sent to the young man's parents and A. J. Burdette, a relative of the family, went to the university city and there identified the body as that of Charles Sturgis. He returned to Canby with the body and the funeral services were performed on May 17 over the body supposed to be that of the lost son.

Today Charles Sturgis, bright, active, brown, fully clothed and in his right mind, returned to his home.

Rap at Door Answered by Sister. Tonight Mrs. G. Brookings and Mrs. Goetz, neighbors, called at the Sturgis home with Mrs. Bertha Hurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sturgis. Hardly had they been seated to enjoy a short call than there came a rap at the front door. Mrs. Hurst opened it and was dumfounded as she looked straight into the face of her brother, thought dead for eight months and buried in the little plot in the Canby cemetery on the hill.

When composed, Mrs. Hurst took her brother to his old room and he retired. Mrs. Hurst returning to the parlor to break the news to the mother, the arm of whom caused her to use

VANCOUVER DEPUTY KILLS MAN IN DUEL

OFFICER SEEKING HOLDUP MAN RETURNS STRANGER'S FIRE.

Dynamite and Supposed Safe-cracker's Tools Are Found in Bundle Among Victim's Effects.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Nov. 22.—(Special.)—An unidentified man was fatally shot in a revolver duel at 7:30 tonight by Deputy Sheriff George Johnson at the Armysby packing plant. He died an hour after the shooting. A bundle found in his possession contained several sticks of dynamite, electrical firing apparatus, lengths of wire, percussion caps and some tools. The authorities believe it is a safe-cracker's kit.

Three railroad employes, returning home from work about 6:30 P. M., were held up and robbed by a lone highway man near the Armysby plant. They reported the holdup to the Sheriff's office.

Deputy Sheriffs Johnson and Hoyt Blair went to the scene of the holdup. They separated and started around the building. Johnson saw a man sitting on the steps and demanded his name. The man replied "Sweden," and would give no other answer to questions. When commanded to get up he drew a revolver as he rose and fired twice at Johnson. The officer threw his electric flashlight at the man, and drawing his own revolver, emptied the weapon, two shots taking effect.

Some money was found on the dead man, but the Sheriff does not believe it is the man who held up the railroad men.

"California is determined to apply the law in the case of unemployed men from the influx of unemployed and unemployable."

According to Porter, Buelow seemed to know the location of all munition plants in the country.

TRUNK VICTIM MAY BE HARRY ROGERS

Picture Looks Like Lane County Man.

$700 HAD WHEN LAST SEEN

Missing Ranch Hand Acquainted With Bartholomew.

EX-EMPLOYER GIVES CLEW

Murder Suspect Said to Have Conducted Restaurant at Eugene.

New Phase Supports Boston Theory of John Linn.

The victim of the trunk murder in Portland last Friday night, who, until Sunday, was believed to have been John Linn, of Boston, may be a man who was known in Oregon as Harry Rogers, who left the ranch of W. J. Scharen, near Eugene, recently carrying about $700 in accumulated wages.

Mr. Scharen, according to information received from Eugene yesterday, said he had studied the printed photographs of the victim as published in The Oregonian and is reasonably certain the man is Rogers who worked for him two years.

Boston Theory Supported.

Mr. Scharen's belief bears out the dispatches from Boston that John Linn is alive back there.

"The picture of the trunk victim certainly does look like Rogers," said Mr. Scharen.

The victim of the murder appeared to have used second-hand clothes and it is possible he purchased the coat from the tramp who stole the living John Linn's coat in Boston.

Furthermore Mr. Scharen believes that Rogers was acquainted with a George Bartholomew, who two years ago ran a restaurant in Eugene and whose whereabouts is not known at the present time by restaurant men in Eugene.

Bartholomew is described by Eugene men as a huge, black-haired individual with a double chin. His portliness, his flat-footed, awkward, stoop-shouldered walk and his large water eyes are his striking characteristics that tally with those of the man of the same name sought by the Portland police. He is said by Eugene restaurant men to have been the victim of immoral habits.

After leaving Eugene Bartholomew went to Coburg, where he was employed in a laceshop until the patrons protested and he was discharged. His father, who lived near Coburg, recently died.

Mr. Scharen says that Rogers took his meals at Bartholomew's restaurant and that he delivered work there.

Ex-Partner Is Sought.

"Dad" Jensen was Bartholomew's former partner at Eugene. He is now being sought and may be able to shed some light on the mystery.

John Linn's name supposedly was sewed inside the coat purchased from the Charles Wagner Clothing Company, 173 Summer street, Boston, which was found with the body in the trunk murder mystery.

Portland police say Linn was the murdered man.

Boston authorities maintain that he was the John Linn who is alive and the present foreman of a box factory at Everett, Mass.

Before changing his belief that the man found dead was John Linn, though not the same John Linn as is alive in Boston, Detective Captain Baty, of Portland, demands more proof. It is not enough that the coat has been identified by Linn of Boston as one which he purchased and which was stolen by a tramp six months ago. The identification is not official, thinks Captain Baty, nor conclusive evidence that the man with whom the coat was found had adopted the name "Linn," by which he was known in Salem and Albany.

Boston Identification Not Proved.

This opinion is violently disagreed with in some quarters, where it is believed that the identification of the coat is satisfactory and proves that the name of Linn was assumed by the murdered man.

The Boston identification is not positive, for it is based on the assumption that the name "John Linn" was sewed in the lining of the coat found with the body of the murdered man. The maker's name remains on the coat, but where the owner's name had been sewed to the lining the cloth had been ripped. That the name Linn was assumed by the presence in the trunk of a strip of ribbon containing the only name found among any of the effects.

The name was "J. Linn," worked in yellow thread on blue silk ribbon, which was about seven inches long and two inches wide. The use of this ribbon is not known, but it at one time may have served as a husband or arm-band.

Several theories would account for the dead man coming into possession of the coat of John Linn, of Everett, Mass. One is that he was the tramp who stole the coat. The dead man did not have the appearance of a knight of the road, so the second conclusion is that he bought the coat at second-hand. It would be stretching the long arm
