

MACKENSEN'S ARMY CRUSHES SERBIANS

Little Remnant of Defenders Offers Almost No Resistance to German Onrush.

PRISONERS NEARLY 100,000

Last Chapters of Serbian Army Now Being Written at Prishtina—Hope of Aid From Allies Fades and Doom Seems Sure.

BY OSWALD F. SCHUTTE.
(Correspondent of Chicago Daily News.)
BERLIN, Nov. 21.—(Special)—The latest graphic proof of the crushing campaign of the central powers against Serbia is furnished by the junction near Prishtina of the army of Field Marshal von Mackensen, which in six weeks swept 200 miles from the Danube, and the Bulgaria-Macedonian army, which marched 150 miles across

These two forces reached Prishtina at the same time, after having conquered more and more of the enemy's country. Both fought against the terrific obstacles presented by mountain rivers and storms; and now stand on the heights, looking Prishtina over. That they may fall at any moment, possibly before this dispatch finds its way through Germany, Holland and England, and under the ocean to the United States.

The right wing of Field Marshal von Mackensen's army has already taken the forts of Novi Varos, Sjenica and Novidazar as though it met with no resistance. The speedy fall of these strongholds bears testimony to the crippled condition of the Serbian main army, which had been driven back into the mud. The allies have now hemmed about the entire Serbian army against the mountains on the border of Montenegro.

The Serbian prisoners number almost 100,000, and the dead and wounded must be in excess of that number, all of which were taken from the remnants left of the Serbian army which was driven from the Danube across the Moava, and which made a desperate stand in the mountains at Central Serbia.

So far as the Serbian army is concerned, the last chapter is being written. Help from the allies for the time being is impossible. The chances of aid from Albania have vanished. The allies who have landed at Salonic, even if still advancing, could not hope to reach the shattered army left in the tiny strip between Prishtina and Novi-Bazaar. It is doubtful whether the allies can even save Monastir.

STORM IS STILL RAGING

continued in the lower river district during the past week still continues. The wind today was strong, but not nearly so severe as that of Sunday morning, and the damage was less. The bar is rough however, with heavy seas running outside and shipping is being delayed.

Outgoing vessels waiting in the harbor for better weather conditions are the tug Navigator, with the lumber Wagoner in tow, the steam-powered freighter Harbor, the French bark Home, the schooners Forest Home and Maurema, and the gasoline schooners Delta and Mirene.

Word was received today that during the gale yesterday the steamer of the Columbia Contract Company's stock-laden barges en route to Fort Clatsop lost part of its load near Port Columbia and a portion of the house was carried away.

MAN KILLED AT HOOD RIVER

Wind Succeeded by Heavy Rain That Swells Streams.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Nov. 21.—A huge tree standing beside the West Fork lumber camp of the Oregon Lumber Company has been uprooted and falling on a Japanese bunk car of the lumber company, killing one of the Japanese laborers, J. Katajima. The tree also struck a bunk-house occupied by white laborers, and O. H. Hall sustained sprained ankle and wounds of the scalp.

The wind abated today, but a downpour of rain has prevailed over the valley, the records showing a precipitation of more than three-quarters of an inch since the storm began. The streets of the city have been flowing streams today, and every river of the county has risen, but because of the deep canyons no damage has resulted.

DRAWBRIDGE IS BLOWN OPEN

Telephone Poles Between Corvallis and Independence Razored.

CORVALLIS, Or., Nov. 22.—(Special)—The storm did damage to the telephone line in this county, but no other damage was done. The telephone line which was down on the state road between Corvallis and Monroe, where between 50 and 70 poles of the Corvallis Independent Telephone Company are down. Workmen are replacing the poles, and it is expected the line will be in full operation again.

The Bell line between Corvallis and Peoria suffered slightly from the wind.

The drawbridge across the Williamette here was blown open and the bridge-tender was obliged to take a mackinaw to the draw pier to turn it back. The bridge was opened once before by a storm.

SCARCITY OF HAY PROBABLE

Early Snowfall Around Baker Makes Cattle Feeding Necessary.

BAKER, Or., Nov. 22.—(Special)—Because of the earliest heavy snow in years ranchers have begun the feeding of cattle in many parts of this district. Unless there is a sudden change in the weather, there will be a scarcity of hay and prices will rise. This has already become a reality in the Hamilton country of Grant County, where hay is now selling for $12 a ton. Hay was scarce in the fall—only this year, so that the shortage came earlier than in other districts.

Practically all the ranges have been under snow the last two weeks, and thousands of cattle are being fed.

SNOW COVERS HOOD RIVER

Sleet, Rain and Rainbow Spanning Columbia Are Diversions.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Nov. 22.—(Special)—The stormy weather of the past 24 hours has been record-breaking. Sleet, rain and snow have fallen alternately, and heavy snow accumulates upon the surrounding range tops, although the snow of the lower levels quickly melts.

sun pierced the heavy clouds as mixed rain and snow were falling heavily, making a perfect rainbow that bridged the Columbia.

WEEKS' RAINFALL 4.1 INCHES

VANCOUVER Still Below Normal, but May Overcome Deficit.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Nov. 22.—(Special)—The total rainfall for the week ended last night was 4.1 inches, which is a record for the year. On Monday 1.31 inch fell. Saturday was the wettest with 1.16 inch. However, there is a slight deficiency in the rainfall beginning with the fiscal year, September 1, to date.

There is a strong indication that this will be overcome, judging by the heavy rainfall today and the forecast for continued rain.

McMinnville Has Downpour.

MCMINNVILLE, Or., Nov. 22.—(Special)—A heavy wind and rain started through this section of the Willamette Valley this morning and today. As far as known no damage has been reported.

About 2:30 P. M. today rain poured down in torrents. Yesterday's storm was felt more than today's, due to heavy winds.

Wind 80 Miles an Hour.

BANDON, Or., Nov. 22.—(Special)—The worst storm of the season has been raging along this part of the Coast since early morning. Rain has accompanied a 30-mile an hour gale. Blown the wind is reported at 85 miles. No great damage is yet reported. The sea is very rough and shipping at a standstill.

Railroad Snowplows at Work.

SEATTLE, Nov. 22.—Snowfall is heavy in the Cascades and railroads crossing the mountains have snowplows in service. Great Northern rotarys began work last Saturday, the earliest date since the Autumn of 1899.

474 MORE OFFICERS DIE

TOTAL DEAD IN BRITISH LINE NOW NUMBER 6033.

Casualties in Fortnight Ending Oct. 22 are 1458 Commanders; Two Generals Killed.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Officers' casualties for the fortnight ending October 25 show that the British army, in all theaters of the war, lost 474 officers killed, 837 wounded and 147 missing, a total of 1458, which brings the cumulative losses to 6033. Of the 1458, 11,357 were killed, 11,357 wounded and 1632 recorded as missing.

Losses have again been heavy among officers of high rank. Major-General Frederick D. V. Wing and Brigadier-General Wormald, being killed, while the names of four Colonels and Lieutenant-Colonels are among the killed.

The drawbridge across the Williamette here was blown open and the bridge-tender was obliged to take a mackinaw to the draw pier to turn it back. The bridge was opened once before by a storm.

OFFER IS MADE ROUMANIA

Tensions Would Grant Concessions for Aid in War.

ROME, Nov. 22.—Germany and Austria-Hungary are understood to be asking Roumania to preserve her neutrality. At the same time they are said to be offering certain concessions to her if she will intervene in the war on the side of the central powers, according to information received here today from reliable sources.

Fame

Because Henry Ford is world-famous as a manufacturer, it overshadows the fact that he is also a great inventor and ornithologist.

Similarly, because the Butterick publications are preeminent in fashion, the breadth of their general scope and influence may be overlooked.

The following partial list of famous contributors testifies to that breadth and to the desire of earnest protagonists to enlist the influence of our readers:

Woodrow Wilson
Madame Curie
Sir Oliver Lodge
John D. Rockefeller
Clara Barton
Theodore Roosevelt
Mrs. William Howard Taft
Rabindranath Tagore
Sir Gilbert Parker
John Galsworthy
Robert Hichens
Hon. John J. Freschi

Mary Stewart Cutting
Margaret Mayo
Arthur Stringer
Lady Gregory
Rudyard Kipling
Richard Le Gallienne
Princess Eulalia
E. Temple Thurston
Alice Brown
Gertrude Atherton
Ellen Terry
Ernest Poole
Charles W. Eliot
William J. Locke

Less than half of these are professional writers. The others wished for the understanding or support of our readers.
