Four-Master Carelmapu Storm Victim.

VANCOUVER COAST IS SCENE

Canadian Vessel Unable to Aid as Victims Drown.

RESCUE ATTEMPT FUTILE

Railroad Steamer Loses Gear and Watches Tremendous Seas Pound Doomed Craft to Pieces and Wash Men to Death.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—A rescue attempt for the Chilean full-rigged four-masted iron ship Carelmapu has been lost.

All hands, numbering about 25, are reported lost. The Carelmapu drove ashore before a terrific southwest gale one mile east of Gowland Rock, Schooner Cove, on the west coast of Vancouver Island. The vessel was pounded to pieces after several hours of battering on the rocks, the big windmill being an easy mark for the gigantic breakers sweeping over her.

At great risk to herself, the Canadian Pacific Railroad steamer Princess Maquinna, Captain Gilliam, attempted to go to the rescue of the seamen clinging to various parts of the wrecked craft. Owing to the tremendous seas running inside she was unable to approach and the crew of the Chilean vessel were washed off and drowned one by one in sight of the men on the Princess Maquinna, helplessly to aid.

Captain Gilliam only abandoned his efforts when it was seen that all on the Carelmapu were lost. His ship lost an anchor and 89 fathoms of chain and smashed her windlass.

The Carelmapu was commanded by Captain Deslandes, was bound from Calata Bona via Honolulu to Puget Sound in ballast. She was built at Liverpool in 1877. She was formerly the British ship Kinross and was a vessel of 1262 net tons. She was owned by Compania Hermanos and registered at Valparaiso.

COMEDY OF ERRORS DELAYS WEDDING

LICENSE THROWN AWAY BY SERVANTS, RING MISSING.

Deputy Clerk Routed Out at Last Moment, Then Circuit Is Recovered and Ceremony Goes On.

STOCKTON, Cal., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—A comedy of errors marked the marriage here today of Miss Julia Webber, a well-known young woman of this city, and Leon Matthews, a railroad clerk.

After the minister had arrived and the party guests were eagerly awaiting the bride's appearance, it was discovered that the license had been lost. Some one recalled that it had been placed among a pile of papers which servants had thrown away.

As the County Clerk's office was closed, the young couple did not know whether to hire an army of small boys to ransack the city dumps or to try to raise a Deputy County Clerk. The latter course was taken and proved successful.

When the second license was secured, the ring could not be found. Miss Webber had hidden it so well that she could not find it. It was found, however, and following the ceremony and wedding breakfast the couple left for San Francisco.

Grief Over Ban on Movie Is Dispersed by Entertainers.

An afternoon of extreme pleasure slipped in where gloom had threatened to prevail at the Multnomah County Old Folks' Home. The disappointment became known to Mrs. Ferdinand Reed and she and Jay Hurley got busy arranging a program.

The programme of music, instrumental and vocal, went off without a hitch. The entertainers were: Bobby Bayne, Mrs. Frits Boyesen, Miss Doris Cedres, Miss Jean Clow and Miss Leah Cohn.

PEKIN, Nov. 25.—The Chinese newspapers, commenting on the suggestion of the entente powers that China join them and thus solidify the Far East, urge President Yuan Shi Kai to proceed slowly, declaring that China's fate hangs in the balance.

The newspapers say that China probably could not assist the entente powers in a military way and that her obligations under an alliance with the sea powers would forever and German and Austrian commerce in the Far East.

PRISONER ACCUSES GERMANS OF PLOTS

Plot to Destroy Ships Bared at Tacoma.

SCOPE OF PLAN IS WIDE

Self-Styled Associate of Gangsters Talks in Jail.

MEMBERS OF GANG NAMED

Tacoma Prisoner Says Kaiser's Government Promised Funds for Destruction of Allies' Property on Coast.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—That an organized gang, financed by high representatives of the German government, is responsible for the destruction of Pier 14 and a barge of dynamite, both at Seattle, and attempts to destroy steamships and other property of the allies in this section of the country was the assertion made tonight by Raleigh Falconer, a Federal prisoner in the County Jail awaiting trial on a charge of smuggling.

Falconer asserted he was asked to assist in the burning of Pier 14 and that $500 was promised him for his work, but that he refused. He admitted having been on intimate terms with one of the leaders and was aware of the original date when the pier was to be destroyed. Falconer says he is willing to tell the authorities what he knows if he is guaranteed protection from the gang and immunity in his smuggling case.

Names of Plotters Given.

Falconer mentioned as members of the gang men named Tarmaake, Smith alias Brown, who was suspected of blowing up the barge and whose mysterious actions in Tacoma caused him to be put under police surveillance, and Tortus. Falconer refused tonight to name the leader, but says he will when he unfolds his information to the authorities.

Falconer is confident the leader is still on the coast, and added that within 30 days there will be other big jobs, either in Seattle, Tacoma, Vancouver, San Francisco or Los Angeles, unless the men are taken into custody.

"The original date for the burning of Pier 14 was set for November 4," said Falconer. "My arrest in Seattle caused the job to be rushed, the leader fearing I might come through. I was taken into custody October 23 and the burning of the pier occurred the following night. The leader wanted me to get in on this work, but I refused to become a participant. I have witness to prove that I speak the truth, for his proposition to me was overheard by a third party—a woman."

Woman Is in Case.

"I met this man in Spokane through a Miss Alice Johnson. I was acquainted with Miss Johnson, and when I read of her arrest in a raid on the Hotel (Continued on Page 4, Column 2.)

TRAGEDY IS SEQUEL TO HOLIDAY DINNER

HOWARD HILLMAN, OF AMITY, KILLS WIFE AND SELF.

Shooting Takes Place at Home Near McMinnville; Thanksgiving Guests Are Present.

McMINNVILLE, Or., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—Howard Hillman, well-known business man of Amity, shot his wife and then himself just after eating Thanksgiving dinner at their home near this city today. There is no apparent reason for the tragedy.

While the guests were in another room, Mr. Hillman seized a rifle in the hall and shot his wife. She fell, calling his name. He immediately turned the weapon on himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Marvin and family, of Amity, and other guests were at the Hillman home at the time.

Coroner Chapman, of Dallas, was called, but decided an inquest was not necessary. It is believed the slayer must have been temporarily mentally unbalanced.

Mr. Hillman came here about two and one-half years ago and purchased a farm, where he has resided ever since. Recently he bought the Palace Theater here.

Mr. Hillman formerly was in the drug business at Spokane. The family relations of the Hillmans always were pleasant.

The couple leave two daughters, Mildred Hillman and Neva Hillman. Mr. Hillman leaves considerable property.

OREGON TRIUMPHS OVER CLUB, 15-2

Eugene Eleven Plays Spectacular Game With Multnomah.

LONG RUNS GIVE THRILLS

University Uncovers Trick Plays and Takes Well-Deserved Victory, in Which Huntington and Monteith Are Stars.

BY ROSCOE FAWCETT.

After a long reign, the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club football team bowed to a decisive 15-2 defeat by the University of Oregon yesterday on "Winged 'M' field. It was Oregon's first victory over the club in this annual Thanksgiving day embroglio since 1909, and Bezdek's team made up for its job-like patience by doing the trick up brown.

From the spectators' standpoint the game was interesting, for not until the fourth quarter was the engagement decided. In the meantime, the programme on the muddy wadst-covered gridiron ran through the entire gamut, from the sublime to the ridiculous.

Approximately 3000 fans and fanettes were in the grandstand when the fun began.

Huntington Is Big Noise.

From the start the University boys had the much better veterans on the defensive, with this 180-pound half-back, Huntington, of The Dalles, the big gun for Oregon. Yet, the first half ended 0-0, and for a time in the second half it looked as if the club would win through an unusual and unexpected mental misadventure by Huntington.

On the kickoff at the start of the third quarter, the ball went over the goal line. Huntington walked out with it to the one-yard line and then deliberately retraced his steps and touched it down behind the goal. Of course, there was nothing for the officials to do but call it a safety, and this gave the Multnomah club two points.

Clubsman Make Dash.

With this 3-0 score in its favor Multnomah immediately perked up and began its first real offensive campaign of the game. After the safety, Oregon kicked from her own 20-yard line to Multnomah's 45-yard parallel, and then was begun a march down into Oregon's territory that should have won the game for the club.

By a succession of off tackle bucks and straight plunges in which Parsons, de Witt and Os Day starred, the clubmen finally bucked the ball to Oregon's six-yard line. Here came the break of the game. Captain Rupert, of the Multnomah Club, must have suffered a kick on the skull, for, instead of (Continued on Page 12, Column 5)

CHEER IS CARRIED TO GLOOMY HOMES

Hundreds Are Fed by Busy Workers.

MUTS LEND WILLING HAND

City Is Combed That None in Need Be Forgotten.

USE OF AUTOS IS DONATED

Charitable Organizations Co-operate in Providing Relief; Supplies Given to Last More Than Day.

Although fewer turkeys than is customary were eaten in Portland yesterday, in another way it was perhaps the finest Thanksgiving day this big town has ever had.

For the old adage that it is better to give than to receive was borne in mind by so many persons, who looked about them to aid those on whom fortune had bestowed fewer blessings.

That is why the unfortunate were remembered as on no previous Thanksgiving day and their needs relieved in a spirit of unselfish giving.

Harmony in Work Notable.

The charitable and relief organizations of the city co-operated as they have never done before. There was no working to cross-purposes. They divided their activities beforehand, each taking up that part of the relief work which it seemed best able to handle, the others lending a hand when needed.

They went about their business of cheering the weebegone, feeding the hungry and putting a big spark of brightness in many a home that wanted it sorely, with the same community of purpose and subordination of the individual that makes a good football team. It was real teamwork, too, and this city is vastly happier today because it happened.

"I firmly believe that every family known to be in need has been cared for," said Big "Bill" Strandberg, chief of the Muts, who, with their efficient organization, provided for the wants of 125 families.

Few Families in Need Missed.

"Some families may have been missed, but, if so, it was because they were too proud to let the Associated Charities, the People's Institute, the Muts or any of the other organizations who wanted to help them, know about it."

The Muts didn't have a very long time to get ready. They were asked last Tuesday night by the Associated Charities and the People's Institute, which were fairly swamped by the appeals for help, to look after 100 families. In 24 hours the Muts had perfected an organization that was sending out baskets of provisions from St. Johns to Lents, on the East Side, and from Guild's Lake to Fulton on the West Side.

When they finished up at 1 o'clock yesterday and closed their headquarters at 18 Broadway, they not only had helped the 100 families, but 25 others, including about a dozen who had not applied for help, but were known to be needy and deserving.

Assortment of Edibles Provided.

In each basket were edibles worth $2.25. They included condensed milk, rice, beans, a 10-pound sack of flour, two loaves of bread, butter, canned soup and other staple provisions. A 25 cent cut of good beef or veal also went with each basket.

The Muts went on the theory that there shouldn't be a feast for a family one day and famine the next, so each basket contained enough to keep the average family in comfortable circumstances, so far as eating is concerned, for the next three or four days.

The baskets were made possible by good fellows who gave money and supplies for the work.

One of the hardest problems confronting the Muts was that of transportation. But they solved that all right when some other good fellows came to the front with automobiles and themselves as drivers.

Automobiles Donated for Work.

T. E. Walling, N. G. Pike, S. C. Bratton and Dr. J. L. Manion gave their autos for this work, and Allen Lewis sent one of the regular delivery wagons of Allen & Lewis, with a driver who was willing and knew the town like a book, to help get the baskets where needed.

Those with the autos started out Wednesday morning and kept at it till late that night. And then they came down early yesterday morning and finished the job.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Abraham, in behalf of themselves and some of their friends, went to the Muts and said they would take care of 15 families, including the furnishing of the baskets and everything in them and their delivery.

They were assigned to the Lents district, about the hardest place in town, with its unpaved streets and no sidewalks in many places, to navigate in this kind of weather.

Work Carried Late Into Night.

Well, the Abrahams started out at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon on the deliveries and they didn't finish the work until 10 at night. Even then there was one more address they could not find, but the Associated Charities knew (Continued on Page 14, Column 2)
