

HINDENBERG THINKS WAR WILL CONTINUE

German General Says Triumphant Entry Into Berlin Must Wait.

FRANCE TAKEN TO TASK

Allies Seem to Be Far From Ready for Peace, Soldier Says—Russian Army Said to Be Growing Power as Time Goes On.

VIENNA, via London, Dec. 6.—The News Press publishes an interview with the German Field Marshal, Von Hindenburg, at his quarters, which are described as being "in one of the most important points on the Russian-German front."

The Field Marshal began replying to a remark concerning his popularity and his eventual triumphant entry into Berlin by saying laughingly: "If I could have my way I would not enter Berlin at all, but would wear civilian clothing and come from Kassel. I do not like to be feted, celebrated, who returned to the show, is a beautiful figure. However, my entry into Berlin will come so quickly."

French Demands Criticized. "At present the enemy won't make peace. They are not yet weakened enough. We must therefore keep it up."

Field Marshal von Hindenburg criticized the French demands, particularly that relating to Alsace-Lorraine. "If they want it," he said, "they can come and get it."

"The British," he continued, "appear also to have decided to continue the war. It is true that reports come from India that ought to dampen the British lust for war somewhat, but one must wait and see whether the British are so much wiser. I am not referring alone to India. In Russia also the Emperor and government plainly desire the continuation of the war. The most remarkable thing is that all these nations do not see that they are only sacrificing themselves for the benefit of the United States."

The Field Marshal declared that every German would rejoice if an end were put to the terrible blood-letting, but that Germany must carry on the war which was forced on her.

Questioned concerning the military situation, the Field Marshal said: "Our tactical position is excellent. Especially in the east, the German army has reached the most favorable strategic position conceivable."

Russian Material Power. He asserted that the Russian human material was much poorer than the first year of the war, that Russia could fill the gaps with the reserves now mustered, but could not form new armies. The lack of officers was also a handicap.

The Russian assertions that their defeats in July and August were due to lack of ammunition were only poor excuses, said the Field Marshal, who added:

"There are no signs that the demoralization of the Russian army observed there has been overcome. It is said he did not expect another Russian offensive, but was ready for one; the nature of the warfare had made the war one of attrition. The demoralization of the Russian army was a danger for Napoleon and the reason of his fall, said the German commander, but he is not so stupid as to repeat the mistake because of modern railroad facilities. He concluded by saying:

"I should be especially pleased at the decisive defeat of the Italians. This war must not end without the three principal sinners, Great Britain, Serbia and Italy, receiving just punishment."

KING OF GREECE, WHO REFUSES FIRMLY DEMANDS OF ENTENTE POWERS.

CONSTANTINE I

GREEK KING IS FIRM

Ruler Says He Will Not Let Entente Force War.

DEFEAT IN BALKANS SEEN

Monarch Says Franco-British Undertaking Is Doomed to Failure and That He Will Insist on Defending Frontiers.

good-humored, almost youthful candor of an ideal soldier to whom diplomatic expedients or lack of frankness seemed repugnant or impossible.

Means Are Changeable. From time to time, emphasizing the earnestness and sincerity of what he was saying, he thumped the table with his clenched fist. Despite the seriousness of the message he was delivering, his gray eyes occasionally twinkled with raillery.

The fundamental cause of the entire threatening attitude of the entente powers towards Greece today and of the painful situation of my country," said the King, "is the entente's own assumption, without the slightest reason, that Greece is ready to betray the entente to Germany at the first favorable opportunity. It is reasonable to suppose such a thing."

From the very outset of hostilities in the Near East, Greece's neutrality has been stretched to the utmost to accommodate the entente powers, for whom we have always felt the keenest sympathy and the deepest gratitude.

King Gives Personal Word. The Dardanelles operations were directed from Greek islands occupied by allied troops. When Serbia was attacked by the combined Austro-German and Bulgarian attack, the allied troops landed unopposed on the Greek soil from which, with the cooperation of Greece as a base, they proceeded, not only unopposed, but aided in every way consistent with any sort of neutrality, their fruitless and too-late delayed campaign to rescue their ally.

"Finally, I myself, have given my personal word that Greek troops will never be used to attack the Franco-British forces in Macedonia, merely to ally unjustified suspicions.

Yet, despite all these evidences of the great faith of Greece, the entente powers now demand, in a form which is virtually an ultimatum, that the Greek troops be withdrawn from Macedonia—leaving our population unprotected against raids by Bulgarian comitadas or all the horrors of war which lay beyond the gates should the allies be driven back within our frontiers.

American Parallel Drawn. "Just suppose the Germans were in a position to demand that your country concede the use of Boston or Seattle as the base for an attack on Canada. What would you say? And if your military experts and the advice of your general staff told you that such a landing was doomed to failure because made with a landing force, and you realized that the British troops in Canada would pursue the retreating Germans across New England, destroying as they went, would you accept the prospect without a struggle?"

"But had not your Majesty German assurance that the integrity of Greek territory would be respected?" the King was asked.

"Of course, and entente assurance, too."

"And similar assurance from Bulgaria?"

"Germany," said the King, "has given assurance for herself and her allies. But that does not prevent the German-Bulgarian armies, as a measure of military necessity, from pursuing the retreating French and British into Greece, fighting in Greece, and turning Greece into a second Poland. I have that assurance, also."

"That the Greek frontiers will be re-occupied after the war does not rebuild towns or compensate my people for months, perhaps years, spent in living in misery as fugitives from their own land when their country is not at war and has nothing to gain by risking devastation."

War Is Not Wanted. "Why, the entente powers treat me as if I were the King of a Central African tribe, to whom the sufferings of his own people were a matter of indifference. I know what war is. I do not want any more if it can be honorably avoided. My people do not want any more, and they and I can help it we shall not have any more."

"Then your Majesty does not believe that the intervention policy of ex-Prin-

REICHTAG VIEWS AMERICAN MATTERS

German Relations With United States of Great Interest in Berlin Parliament.

WILSON'S SPEECH AWAITED

Chancellor's Talk, Which May Fix Terms of Peace, Is Also Looked On as Most Important-Entry of Greece to Be Topic.

BERLIN, via London, Dec. 6.—(Special.)—Germany was expected to give the Reichstag a speech which the imperial Chancellor will make in the Reichstag not later than Thursday. It will be by far the most important address expected to touch upon the topic of greatest interest to the world today, and particularly to America, the question of peace.

The Chancellor's speech will deal with important phases of Germany's foreign relations, and this, of course, will include great questions of peace. But even if he should lay aside the question for such consideration it is expected that he will present the government's position in reply to the formal interpellation of the Social Democratic members of the Reichstag asking for this particular information.

Other subjects on which statements are looked for are the violation of the neutrality of Greece by the allies and the freedom of the sea.

It is possible that in this connection the Reichstag will refer to the memorandum of the parcel post between the United States and Germany and the British interference with the mails between the countries.

The Reichstag adjourned until Thursday to enable the budget committee to consider various pending war bills, including measures to tax war profits and to forbid speculation and price juggling in foodstuffs.

Should this work be completed before Thursday, President Kapp has power to call for an earlier sitting. In this case the Chancellor's speech will be the first thing to be considered by the Reichstag.

Germany's relations with the United States is of great interest to the American Congress opens precisely at the same time. President Wilson's annual message to the Reichstag was particularly desired to learn the bearing which this session of Congress will have on the relations of the two countries.

EUGENE FLOOD - SWEPT

ACCESS TO BUILDING NEARLY CUT OFF BY WATER.

Point Terrace Students Obligated to Use Willamette-Pacific Tracks.

Railway Observes Precautions.

EUGENE, Or., Dec. 6.—(Special.)—Eugene High School students had difficulty in reaching school today, as the building was nearly entirely cut off by water. Water stood on South Willamette street to a depth that almost prevented motor cars from fording, and only on certain streets were the sidewalks above water, and these required a detour for students from the eastern part of the city.

The Willamette River is out of its banks, the road between Eugene and Springfield being under water so that traffic is suspended. The river rose only a few feet during the past 24 hours, and is still rising.

The Willamette-Pacific Railroad will not run trains over its busy Siskiyou road, at least near the Point Terrace schoolhouse, between the hours of 8 o'clock and 9 o'clock in the morning, and between 4 o'clock and 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The restriction has been made for the safety of school children who are forced to use the Willamette-Pacific right of way to reach school.

The railroad has further agreed to plank all trestles and bridges so that the children may walk along the right of way.

WHAT CAUSES COLDS? This question is asked every day. A cold is really a fever, not always caused by the weather but often due to disordered blood or lack of important food-elements. In changing seasons fat-foods are essential because they distribute heat by enriching the blood and so render the system better able to withstand the varying elements.
