CONTRIBUTIONS TO CHRISTMAS RELIEF FUND OF THE ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

Table listing contributions to the Christmas Relief Fund, including names like Mrs. C. Miller, Mrs. G. F. Phillips, and Overbeck & Cook Company.

Three gifts totaling $150, announced yesterday by the Associated Charities, swelled the Christmas relief fund to $219.17, and it is probable that the $1900 mark will be passed before Wednesday.

The largest gift of the three was $100 from the Eastern & Western Lumber Company, which consists of 250 each of the 4x4 and 4x6 sizes of lumber.

A carload of wood from G. G. Rempel, of Dallas, was received at the warehouse of the Associated Charities, and this will go toward solving the fuel problem, which has been a pressing one for the past few weeks.

MOVING PICTURE NEWS

Scene from 'Inspiration' featuring Audrey Munson at the Majestic Theatre this week.

MOVING-PICTURE MEN, from manufacturer to exhibitor, point to press censorship as the ultimate outcome of what they characterize as the arbitrary and unjust method of "manhandling" motion-picture films.

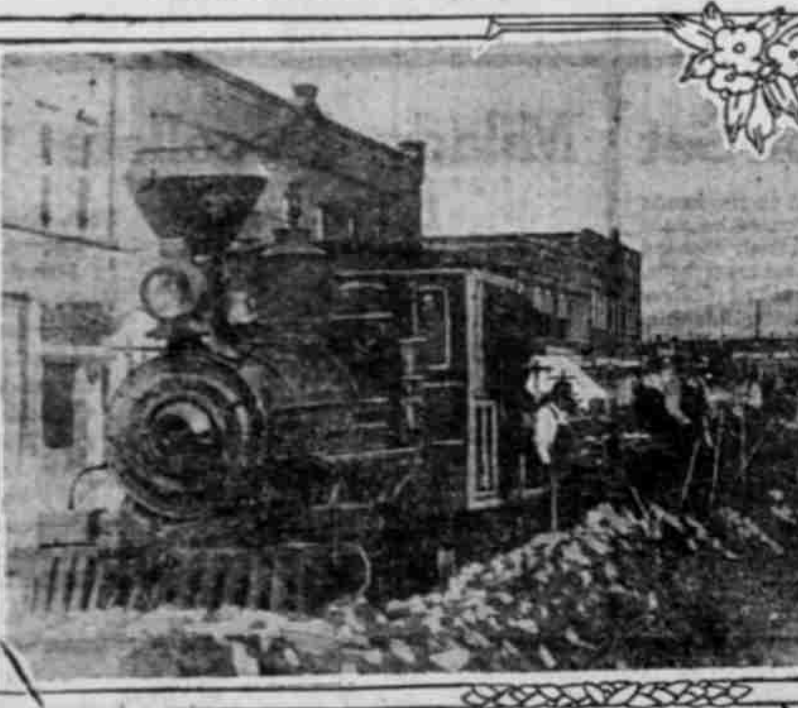

L. A. Todd, Portland branch manager for the General Film Company, recently promoted from the Spokane office of that company, returned yesterday morning from a branch managers' convention at San Francisco.

A. E. Kirkpatrick, known in the motion-picture "trade" as the "Original Boy Scout," has just been appointed manager of the Metro Picture Corporation's branch in Portland.

"He who doesn't enjoy the 'Prince and the Pauper' has lost all sense of the sympathetic and humorous, the romantic and adventurous," writes Peter Milne, critic for Motion Picture News.

The special music which Manager James of the Majestic Theatre, is providing for his patrons is receiving much commendation from visitors.

FREIGHT TRAIN ON CITY STREETS SURPRISES MEDFORD RESIDENTS.

MEDFORD, Or., Dec. 6.—(Special.)—Medford citizens were amazed early on morning this week to find a life-sized freight train, puffing up the center of Main street, with the old Barnum locomotive leading the train.

Majestic THEATRE

This Week Only MISS

AUDREY MUNSON

The Famous New York Model The Modern Venus The Woman With a Perfect Form In the Most Daring of All Photo-Plays

Inspiration

Although Miss Munson appears in the nude, no offense can be taken on account of the extreme artistic and educational value of this masterpiece.

Theda Bara, the Parisian actress who is seen in so many splendid productions at the Majestic Theatre, is a warm personal friend of Isadora Duncan.

"My idea has always been," says Miss Bara, "that the gestures and walk of a person must be influenced by their character. My idea of this woman is that she is pantherish in her every pose and action, as well as in mind."

"The Heart of a Mermaid," Mary Fuller's latest play, will be one well worth seeing. Miss Fuller is very hopeful of its success, for she has waited five years to play a mermaid.

Earl Williams and Anita Stewart are not married, and have no intention of so being, despite romantic-minded "fans." Just good friends.

Marjorie Daw, the dainty little 14-year-old of the Laaky studio, who will be remembered in "Out of Darkness," played at the Peoples in Portland with Charlotte Walkover as the featured, has grand opera aspirations.

Dorothy Kelly is one of those delightful beings who radiate the "joy of being." She was born in Philadelphia in 1894, is five feet three inches tall, with the high heels—has played with no other company than the Vitagraph, and is unmarried.

Phillip Smalley, the director whose "Hippocrites" caused country-wide discussion, with his wife, the charming Lois Weber, enjoys for a home one of the most beautiful bungalows in Los Angeles.
