SOUTHERN MATRON WHO HAS BEEN VISITING HERE.

Mrs. J. P. Douglass

Mrs. and Mrs. Julia Louison presided last night at a charming dinner party in honor of Miss Strauss, of New York City, who is visiting her brother, Nathan Strauss, in this city. The table was adorned with an artistic arrangement of winter fruits piled high on a huge silver tray. Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Salling, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Ottensmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Irvine, Miss Strauss, Nathan Strauss, and the hostess.

Delta Gamma entertained with a formal dance at the chapter house in Eugene, Friday, December 2. Elaborate decorations suggestive of the approaching holiday season in red and green predominated. An original feature dance opened the program, each guest receiving a Christmas "package" from the large, ornamented Christmas tree. The affair was one of the most novel and attractive "formals" of the season. Several friends and Albany girls were the guests of the Delta Gamma for the week-end, including Myrtle Campbell, Gladys Hutchins, Lucile Morrow, Lisa Lomas, Mary Parker and Verdis Fugh of Brownsville. The guests for the dance included: Misses Helen and Lois Hall, Dora Francis, Anita Taylor, Lucille Calkins, Gordon Wood, Howard Bowler, Johnnie Beckett, Turner Nell, Lynn McCready, Walter Muthback, Russell Fitch, Don Belting, Francis Yerxa, Henry Sims, Don Campbell, Thurston Laraway, Walter Kirk, Everett George, C. K. Corbett and Leo Byrd.

The patrons and patronesses were Mrs. C. C. Page, Miss Amy Dunn, Mrs. L. C. Bean, Mrs. and Mrs. Frederic Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Hewitt, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Martin, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Calkins.

Mrs. June McMillan Ordway, formerly of 308 Crosby street, has leased her attractive home, "Rose Hedge," and is domiciled in apartments at Hammerly Court for the winter.

A benefit dance will be given this evening at the German house by the women's auxiliary of the German Red Cross. The proceeds will go to the families of Germans who are war prisoners in Canada.

A number of prominent women will act as patronesses.

Portland Chapter, No. 37, O. E. S., will give a benefit dance and card party tonight in Woodman's Hall, 324 Russell street.

Patronesses: Mrs. I. T. Mason, Mrs. J. A. Ribbes, Mrs. E. L. Barnett, Mrs. George W. Kendall, Mrs. Charles H. Miller, Mrs. M. E. Lake, Mrs. Charles Yelding and Mrs. Sarah Moore.

Mrs. J. P. Douglass, a charming visitor from Hingham, W. Va., who has been visiting at the home of Mrs. W. C. Wheeler in Mount Taber, left for her home in the South on Thursday. Mrs. Douglass was considerably entertained while in Portland.

The Women's Elks' Bridge Club held an enthusiastic meeting Wednesday, bridge being the game of the afternoon.

By a majority vote the meeting days have been changed to Thursday.

All Elks' wives, daughters, mothers and sisters are invited to the meetings.

Pan Hellenic Association will meet this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. H. L. Chapin, 623 Wasco street, with the Tri Delta sorority.

Arthur Feehan, who will leave on Sunday morning for New York, was honored with a surprise "shower" on Thursday night at his apartment in the Woodman Annex.

About 40 guests assembled for an informal musical and social evening in compliment to the popular bachelor.

Mrs. A. J. McDuffey will leave soon for a visit with relatives in Billings, Mont.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Griswold of this city, are registered at Oakland Hotel, Oakland, Cal.

The annual Christmas bazaar of the Troutdale Ladies' Aid Society was held last Saturday and was a big success. Supper was served and a wonderful program given, concluding with a ladies' minstrel show. Supper was in charge of Mrs. George Lundeen. The different booths were in charge of Mrs. C. L. Thomas, Mrs. Louise Sumner and Mrs. C. J. Baber, and their assistants, and Mrs. Lou Harlow had charge of the program. The sum of $111 was realized. This organization is doing good work in this community and is a valuable asset to the town.

Gifts for the Girl at a Desk. The hunt for Christmas gifts has begun for most of us. If we are not yet actually in the whirl of the shops, we are sitting, pencil in hand, considering what we shall give Mary and Jennie and Tom. Making out our list is with some of us about as strenuous an undertaking as shopping for gifts. It is usually an act merely to write as much as the other does physically.

If we have business friends on our list to whom we wish to give some little gift, a visit to a stationer's shop may be quite a revelation as to the numerous and most acceptable small articles that can be purchased for little.

The girl who types or uses ink much and thus is liable to have her fingers stained would undoubtedly welcome a little call brand in the form of a tiny scrubbing brush in the back of which is set a piece of pumice stone. Though a small gift, it would be one of the handiest little helps a business girl could have in the laundry of her office. In case she wishes to carry it about in her handbag, these little finger cleaners also come in small leather cases. They are only about two or three inches long and an inch or so wide and can easily find room in the average girl's handbag.

Letters that must be kept on file and which have been accidentally injured. Almost every business person has had the unpleasant experience of tearing cheques or letters when opening envelopes. An envelope opener is to be had so designed as to make such accidents impossible. As almost every one who does clerical work has to open envelopes, a gift would prove useful and undoubtedly welcome.

For pinning papers or bills or such things, a wedge-shaped pin comes with a triangular head. It is an improvement upon the ordinary pin in that it will not work out.

The one who uses a fountain pen that must be kept bright will welcome some pretty receptacle for holding it when not in use. One of these devices is of glass with a round bottom that balances itself. No matter how it may be accidentally shoved around on a crowded desk, it cannot be upset. But almost any pretty holder will be welcome to a fountain pen.

Old rose beds would be better if a coating of manure were applied and forked in. Probably the best way is to dig a shallow trench between the rows of bushes, fill this with manure and cover with soil.

In addition to the list given last week the following roses will be found satisfactory for planting:

Chateau De Cioa Vougeot, deep velvety red color, no mildew, grows slow and produces few blossoms.

Edward Mayer, beautiful buds, copper red and orange color, blooms freely, some mildew.

Lieutenant Chaura, rich red, fine blossoms of good shape, growth moderate, no mildew.

Mrs. Edmond Croftland, handsome pink flesh colored flowers, grows freely without mildew.

Lady Alice Stanley, fine pink flowers, large and full, deep pink on outside of leaf and pale flesh colored on inside.

Pharos, fine long buds opening in any weather, vigorous and flowers freely.

Mildred Grant, where it grows well produces wonderful large pale flesh-colored flowers, not recommended for beginners, as it grows poorly, has but few blossoms and mildews badly.

Mrs. Segond Weber, recommended as a nice garden rose of pale salmon color; grows vigorously and has no mildew.

Timely Advice on Rose Culture

BY E. B. McFARLAND, President Portland Rose Society.

IF YOU have not already done so, select your roses for planting now and plant them as soon as the soil is fit. If the soil is sticky, merely bury the roots of the plants and wait until the ground becomes friable.

Even the little schoolgirl has the keener appreciation of the beauty of the style. She draws her fluffy hair back from her face and forehead, fluffs it out a little about her ears, then makes a little roll on top of her head and braids the rest to hang down her back.

she has personally originated many of the ideas and took part in their execution herself. Since the opening of her spectacular career there has seemed no limit to her capacity for evolving ideas to harass the government. From the destruction of buildings and art treasures down to pulling the coat-tails of Cabinet ministers, her activities have ranged.

Under her leadership small armies of English women have charged bodies of policemen and secured admittance to the House of Commons. Once within its doors they have chained themselves to their chairs and have sometimes succeeded in breaking up the meetings. Mrs. Pankhurst has personally thrown petitions in the face of the King while on parade and her aids have poured acid into mail boxes, tripped the King's horse and thrown hammers through the windows of official residences or business buildings.

Mrs. Pankhurst's methods were often in question, but little doubt of her sincerity was entertained by her associates, especially when on repeated occasions she tried to die a martyr to her cause. Upon being thrown into prison she attempted to starve herself to death. When very near the point of exhaustion she was released under the "cat and mouse act." She seldom served more than two weeks of long sentences, and upon regaining her strength would go back to her warlike campaign.

Mrs. Pankhurst made two trips to America. An effort was made to forbid her entrance but Washington overruled the decision of the immigration officials in New York and she was permitted to enter, with the understanding that she complete her lecture tour and return without unlawful acts in America. Mrs. Pankhurst was not always welcomed by American suffragists, who doubted the wisdom of her methods. She was not received as a speaker by many clubs, as the members feared her effect would be detrimental to the cause.

Mrs. Pankhurst is the mother of four children. Three are living and of these two are constantly at her side. The first lives quietly. The famous suffragette became self-supporting at the death of her husband in 1882. She declared that her progress was hindered by her sex and set about a campaign that would bring about equal opportunity for men and women. Her organization was mildly military in the beginning, but as each new move failed to have the desired effect the organization became more and more violent in its methods.

The present campaign began in 1904. At that time the headquarters were in one small room. A dozen rooms are now occupied, with a staff of stenographers, bookkeepers and typewriters constantly at work. The woman now handles funds ranging from $10,000 to $50,000 a year. More than 100,000 persons are in the actual employ of this organization.

The personality in Mrs. Pankhurst belies her militancy. She is passionately fond of children, of music and art. She loves pretty and dainty clothing. She believes in the sanctity of the home and she is said to make the best jam in England. MARE DILLE.

COURT IS SEEKING LEWAY Judge Stevenson Wants Ordinance Legalizing Plan in Use.

By ordinance Municipal Judge Stevenson is going to try to preserve his right to impose fines on the installment plan and to remit fines after they are imposed. This system which has been in vogue in the court for some time was held to be illegal in an opinion written Thursday by City Attorney La Roche to City Auditor Barber.

Judge Stevenson says he thinks the system is good and that the legality of it can be cared for by an ordinance. He will confer with Mr. LaRoche.

IRON CUTTER TO BE TRIED Fire Department Gets Machine to Go Through Barred Places.

The Fire Bureau is to have a gasoline machine for the cutting of steel and iron bars on windows and doors. A demonstration of the machine will be given Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Portland Brazing & Machine Works.

The machine when purchased by the city will be used in getting into buildings through barred windows and doors where necessary for fire-fighting.
