CARDS IN POOLHALLS PROHIBITED.—To correct an impression which has gone the rounds of pool and billiard-halls that the City Council has lifted the ban from card games in these places, City Attorney LaRoche yesterday issued a statement in which he says the anti-card game ordinance still is effective. The Council is passing an ordinance a few days ago provided that no minors shall be in the pool and billiard-halls. It was planned at first to exclude card games, but this provision was cut out. City Attorney LaRoche has dug up an ordinance already in effect prohibiting the card games.

FIRE MARSHAL TO GUARD DEMONSTRATION.—In spite of his opposition to the demonstration in Portland of new types of oil burning stoves and lamps, Fire Marshal Stevens was instructed yesterday by the City Council to supervise the installation and manner of demonstrating one of the new devices the owner of which was given a permit to demonstrate for one month. Blair, 10619 Foster road, is the secretary.

BOULEVARD NAMED TERWILLIGER.—By unanimous vote the City Council yesterday adopted a resolution officially fixing the name Terwilliger boulevard on the boulevard skirting the crest of the hills in South Portland. CAMPAIGN COVERS STATE Organizations of Women and Other Bodies in City and Throughout Oregon Are Co-operating With Chamber of Commerce.

Every home in Portland, every office building, every hotel and apartment-house is to be swung into the enthusiasm of the movement called "Letter-Writing Week," which will be in full force January 17-22, and which has for its aim the attraction of 250,000 tourists to Portland next Summer.

These tourists are to be reached by personal letters from Portland people, and this means that every resident of Portland who has friends, relatives or business acquaintances in the Eastern states, will be a potent factor in making the campaign a success.

To interest the families throughout Portland in the plan, folders containing an outline of the plan and examples of the prize-winning letters secured from the contest last week, will be circulated.

A huge edition of this folder is preparing and will soon be circulated. There are 40,000 homes in Portland and a folder is to be placed in every one of them.

Every city in the state is to be similarly canvassed, and the commercial and civic bodies of the whole state are co-operating with the Portland Chamber of Commerce in the plan.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union members have pledged themselves to see that letters reach all members in the United States.

Parent-Teacher circles and women's clubs will send representatives to a meeting at 2 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce today to consider plans.

Calvin Heilig and the other theatrical men of the city have taken it on themselves to see that theatrical men in the East get personal letters.

To arouse local interest in the plan, Julius L. Meier, chairman of the committee and originator of the plan, is developing a gallery of photographs of Oregon scenery to be displayed next week at Meier & Frank's store.
