

NAVY MAN SHOTS TAILOR; WIFE CAUSE

Aaron Goldstein Is in Hospital; Alexander Dranges Held at City Jail.

ASSAILANT TELLS STORY

Self-Defense Is Asserted—False Imprisonment and Allegation of Affections and Pictures in Nude Figure in Case.

After twice shooting Aaron Goldstein, father of 10 1/2 Jefferson street, inflicting jaw bullet wounds in the left thigh and hip, Alexander Dranges, first-class fireman of the United States ship St. Louis, serenely related and smoked a cigarette while awaiting arrest.

The wounded man was hurried to St. Vincent's hospital in an ambulance. Detective Keilhofer and Ackerman were but a few moments in reaching the scene. Dranges readily submitted to arrest.

Dranges leading up to the shooting over a period of several years. Dranges and his wife were formerly residents of Portland. Their domestic troubles were numerous. He said, but, above all, was the affection which Dranges alleged existed between Goldstein and Mrs. Dranges. The woman, he stated, at one time was a waitress in the Goldstein shop.

Dranges declares that at various times photographs of his wife in the nude, taken at the instigation of Goldstein and in the tailor's company, were shown to him. In several of these pictures the couple were posed together, devoid of clothing, he affirms. He stated, further, that he was induced to enter Waverley Sanitarium, an institution conducted by Dr. W. T. Williamson. Here he was detained for some time against his will, he stated, further complaining that he was forced to pay fees amounting to $1 per day.

When his release from the sanitarium, Mrs. Dranges secured a divorce. This was in 1911. His enlistment in the Navy followed.

Dranges sought the suggestion that his arrival in this city, upon leave of absence from his ship, the St. Louis, now at San Francisco, was the beginning of a trouble which he said necessitated his coming to Portland. He said, by his position as the complainant in a $10,000 damage suit against Dr. W. T. Williamson for false imprisonment in the sanitarium, the case is now pending in Circuit Court, he said.

Yet the memory of the trouble with Goldstein rankled. Yesterday he entered the tailor shop and demanded information concerning his divorced wife. "Where is Rosie?" he asked Goldstein. "How should I know? I haven't seen her for three years," he replied. Dranges verbally scolded the tailor for alienating the affections of Mrs. Dranges. Then he drew the revolver and shot Goldstein with two bullets in the left hip. Women who work in the shop hastily sought safety in the street.

Self-Defense Asserted. "He picked up his revolver and came far me," explained Dranges. "So I plugged him twice to stop him." Employees at the Goldstein shop disclaim any acquaintance with Dranges and state that she has worked there at any time within the past three years. Goldstein is a divorced man. His three children reside with him. The 17-year-old daughter did not know where her mother was, save that she is no longer in the city. Dranges will be arraigned in the Municipal Court this morning.

EX-PORTLAND GIRL IS WED

Miss Madge Thomas Is Bride of San Francisco Man.

News of the marriage of Miss Madge Thomas to Clifford Fox, associate editor of the bureau of the Southern Pacific Company, was received from San Francisco yesterday. Miss Thomas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Harry Thomas, of San Francisco, and a former Portland girl. The wedding took place January 26 and was a simple affair, with a few intimate friends and the family present. Superior Judge Graham read the service. Mrs. Fox is the possessor of an admirable voice, and has accompanied in many theatricals, having made her first appearance in Portland, where she has a wide circle of friends.

Goodfellows to Carry Relief to Ill and Destitute.

DOCTORS INVITED TO HELP

Meeting to Be Held at Hotel Oregon Between 10 and 10:30 This Morning—Use of Autos in Work Is Sought by Committee.

Attention, Mr. Goodfellow! You are wanted this morning at the Oregon Hotel between 10 and 10:20 o'clock.

There are numbers of poor and needy in the city—beyond the facilities of the city and the charitable organizations. You are wanted and will be drafted into service in relieving the situation brought on by the storm, and the destitution in its wake.

INDICTED CLERK ABSENT

OFFICIALS AND FAMILY BELIEVE G. L. WILLEY WILL RETURN.

Former Court Officer, Wanted for Using Public Funds, Thought to Be Detained by Storm.

Snowbound in Washington is the probable predicament of George L. Willey, former clerk of the District Court, who was indicted January 21 by the grand jury on a charge of larceny of public money. He was expected to appear voluntarily in the District Court on Monday, but, up to a late hour last night, had not arrived.

WATER SUIT NOW IS SET

Minthorn Springs Case Against Milwaukee Due Monday.

The case of the Minthorn Springs Water Company against the town of Milwaukee to procure a permanent injunction to prevent the city from extending its mains into the company's territory will be tried at Oregon City next Saturday. At present the water company is in the hands of a receiver, John R. Gibson, who is a party to the suit. The company has a temporary injunction against the city, which it seeks to have made permanent, the object of the suit being to compel the city to purchase the company's plant by arbitration or by condemnation proceedings. A decision is expected within a few days. B. G. Skulason, City Attorney, will represent Milwaukee in the trial.

HOTEL BILL $500 A DAY

PACIFIC TELEPHONE COMPANY SPENDS $250 A DAY ON TAXIS.

Luncheonrooms Are Installed at Substations for Employees Who Cannot Get Home in Snow.

Five hundred dollars a day is being spent by the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company in housing its employees who are unable to get to and from their homes during the storm and in buying toothbrushes and combs for those who are kept downtown. Half that amount additional is being spent daily in taxicab fees, other employees being sent to their homes in automobiles.

Yesterday the company purchased for the girls 15 dozen toothbrushes and seven dozen haircombs. The girls have been housed at the Seward and Cornwell hotels and during the day have been fed at the expense of the company at its own cafeteria, at the Hazelwood and at the Royal Bakery. More than 200 operators and employees are being housed in the hotels.

SCHOOL CLOSING IS LUCKY

Dangerous Wires Fall Where Children Usually Pass.

This is a story of what might have been. Out on Union avenue from Ainsworth avenue to Dekum avenue, where the Woodlawn school is, there are several blocks on which the telephone poles are down, and other wires, including dangerously-charged streetcar power lines are down.

TEACHER MARRIES AND RETAINS JOB

Evangeline McCoy's Name Is Changed on Payroll Without Comment by Directors.

SCHOOLS TO STAY CLOSED

Several New Instructors Chosen and Two Tender Resignations, Miss Minnie V. Blough Assigning Marriage as Reason.

DIRECTORS DECIDE SCHOOLS WILL REMAIN CLOSED TODAY

Members of the School Board decided yesterday that all city schools will not be opened today. Next Monday is the matter date upon which an effort will be made to hold school. Weather conditions then will determine what action will be taken.

Members of the School Board apparently have learned the lesson lately taught them by a Supreme Court decision that women teachers may marry and retain their positions, even though the contract the teacher signs provides that if she marry while employed as a teacher, the contract is broken automatically.

After fighting out the case brought in the courts by Maud L. Richards, and losing, the Directors sat calmly by at a regular Board meeting yesterday and received notice from a teacher, newly married, asking the Board kindly to take cognizance of the fact that she was married January 27 and requesting that her name be changed on the payroll to the newly acquired one.

Chairman Mullin, of the Board, read such a notification yesterday from Evangeline McCoy-Van Horne, assistant in the Peninsula School, and the Directors have been successful in lambasting her for the notice given. Instead of taking legal steps to dismiss the teacher, they agreed with Chairman Mullin's suggestion that the notification be placed on file.

Upon recommendation of the building committee, the Directors agreed to engage Folger Johnson as consulting engineer for the work on the Benson Polytechnic School. At the same time it was directed that bids submitted for the general work on the building be rejected and Clerk Thomas, of the Board, was directed to return them unopened. It was thought that the newly engaged architect may have ideas that he will want to carry out in the work and new specifications will be prepared under his direction.

FIGHT FOR FRY GOES ON

CREW AT HATCHERY NOW HOPES TO SAVE MILLIONS OF FISH.

Superintendent Telegraphs That so Far Endeavors to Keep Snow From Flumes Is Successful.

A telegram from R. E. Clanton, superintendent of hatcheries, who is in Bonneville with a crew of men trying to keep the snow from the flumes in which millions of salmon fry are being fed by the State Fish and Game Commission, yesterday was received by F. M. Warren, a member of the Commission. Mr. Clanton and his crew of men thus far have been successful in their endeavors, and if the storm grows no worse will be able to keep the snow from entering the flumes.

Yesterday's telegram was the first word received from Mr. Clanton since early Tuesday, when he telephoned for a new crew of men and provisions, so that the lives of millions of salmon fry might be saved. All day Wednesday and up until noon yesterday the wires between here and Bonneville were down and no word was received from Mr. Clanton. The crew of men that the Commission was sending as a relief crew to Mr. Clanton, probably will leave for Bonneville this morning. They will take with them a food supply for Mr. Clanton and his men.

ROBBER TAKEN IN CHASE

MAN WHO BROKE WINDOW AND GOT FURS DODGES SHOTS.

Prisoner of Several Aliases Values Hearing and Is Bound Over to Grand Jury.

Possessed of several aliases and several valuable furs, James Kelly, or John Kelly, or John Burk, was captured by Special Officer M. A. Hollinger, employed by the American District Telegraph Company, after a hard chase through the storm. Kelly had robbed the fur firm of S. Silverfield & Son, 285 Morrison street, and was detected when leaving the premises at 12:30 yesterday morning. Hollinger fired three shots to halt the fugitive.

Kelly sent a cake of ice crashing through the plate-glass window of the fur store, setting off a burglar alarm at the same time. He entered the store and bore forth an armload of blue fox fur. As he departed by way of the window Hollinger turned the corner, accompanied by J. C. Kitchin, night manager of the firm. The command to halt sent Kelly away on a run. Hollinger turned loose with his revolver, the bullet nipping Kelly's head and continuing its course through the window of Felix Bloch's diamond store just across the street. At Fourth and Alder streets he made Kelly captive.

The furs were abandoned by Kelly in his flight. Kelly, according to the police, has a record as gunman and burglar, operating from coast to coast.
