When Mrs. Jack Barde, of 70 Lucretia place, left her home 10 days ago to visit friends in San Francisco, she neglected to provide safe keeping for 11300 worth of diamonds and a gold watch. Tuesday she recalled the oversight and telegraphed her husband, of the firm of M. Barde & Sons, advising him that the jewelry had been left in a dresser drawer.

Mr. Barde hastened to see if they were safe and found the drawer where they had been was empty.

An investigation was conducted by Detectives Hyde and Abbott, but they found no trace of the missing valuables. The house was in orderly condition, and afforded no evidence of entrance or rifling. Other articles of value had been locked in her wardrobe by Mrs. Barde before departure.

Mr. Barde remembers that upon his return home Sunday night the kitchen door was open, but gave no thought to the firm of commission when some of the gears were operating over it and river traffic passing through yesterday.
