MYERS' CAT GEIS

Secret of Postmaster's Disciplining by Senator Lane Is Breathed About.

Wails of Overslaughed Stalwarts, Reaching Washington, Rousing Ire. Bring Down Wrath on Bold Usurper's Pate.

Speaking of the Honorable Frank Stott Myers, which is to speak of Senator Harry Lane's ex-campaign man-ager, Portland's famous $6000-a-year postmaster, and the Democratic boss of Oregon in one and the same awestricken breath, speaking, nevertheless, of the Honorable Frank, there is still thusiastic rejection by the Senators and the Honorable Frank, and the Honorable Frank's "vacation Far be it from the Honorable Frank, now supposedly scurrying home from his "vacation trip" to Washington, to be known as "Boss" Myers for nothing. The Honorable Frank is a man of vigor and determination. When the Honorable Frank sets out to become postmaster, or boss, or to name the president of the Jackson Club, he does it, and you may lay to that.

of the Jackson Club, he could have and you may lay to that.

Of course there will be a regrettable accident now and then, as, for example, when the Honorable Frank tried to have his sister, Miss Minnie Myers, appointed postmaster at Forest Grove and falled, and when he tried to have Sontation of Brother-in-Law in-Law Veatch or Brother-in-Law Parker made postmaster at Grants Pass, and falled in that, too, owing to the unreasonable obstinacy of Senators

Mr. Flegel did not please the Honorable Frank. He didn't know parlia-mentary law, or something like that. Anyway he wasn't a fit man for president of the Jackson Club, that was

Well, then, how about Lester W. Humphreys, who managed Senator Chamberlain's successful campaign for possibility.

Nothing Doing Still. "I'll show Sam White that he can't be president of the Jackson Club," is the answer to this suggestion as at-tributed to the Honorable Frank.

Dr. Elof E. Hedlund and C. D. Ma-haffle were proposed, and each in turn disposed of, by the Honorable Frank. At this critical juncture, one Elton Watkins, a young attorney, had the

When he did later venture into the office of the great man, the story runs that he was ordered right out again, it being generally understood by Mr. Watkins that this was because he had become a candidate without first talking it over with the honorable

Of course, in the process the Honorable Frank had doubly endeared himself to Dr. C. J. Smith, Senator Claude C. McColloch, A. F. Flegel, Lester W. Humphreys, Dr. Elof T. Hedland, Senator Milton A. Miller and numerous and sundry others. Though much it worried him.

It appears, however, to have worried and to be worrying Senator Lane not a little. The fact of it is that copious reports of this episode were sent to the Senator by more than one of the brethren, and the Senator, after making inquiries, wrote a letter to the Honorable Frank that exuded wrath from every pore. from every pore.

The steps which the Honorable Frank took to gain this happy end show clearly his political genius. They show likewise how he has managed to endear so generally both himself and his patron. Senator Lane, to the admiring Democratic brethren of Portland and the state at large.

It seems that as the time for election drew nigh, there being a clause in the constitution of the Jackson Club which, like the lamented plank of the 1912 Democratic platform, piedzed the in the constitution of the Jackson Club which, like the lamented plank of the 1912 Democratic platform, pledged the President to a single term, some of the boys" went separately or together to consult the Honorable Frank relative to selecting a good president to succeed the Honorable Robert.

The Honorable Frank listened urbanely, as all good bosses do, to the various proposals and counter proposals. Some of the brethren went even so far as to suggest that the new president should be a young man who would attract the younger, and—ermore progressive element of the party. When all had been said and done they awaited with awe the verdigt of the Honorable Frank. Not a moment did the great man hesitate. "Bunk," he elaculated, or whatever he did elaculate. "Bunk! Francis Appleby Wins Opener of Title Tourney at New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—In the opening game of the fifteenth annual National amateur class A 18.2 billiard championship tournament here tonight Francis Appleby, of New York, defeated his brother, Edgar T. Appleby, by a score of 408 to 269. It was the first appearance of the Appleby brothers as competitors in a class A tourers as competitors in a class A tournament. Francis Appleby won the class B championship several weeks ago, at which time his brother was runner-up.

The tournament has an international touch this year, as Jacob Klinger, of Austria, the class B champion of Europe, is a contestant.

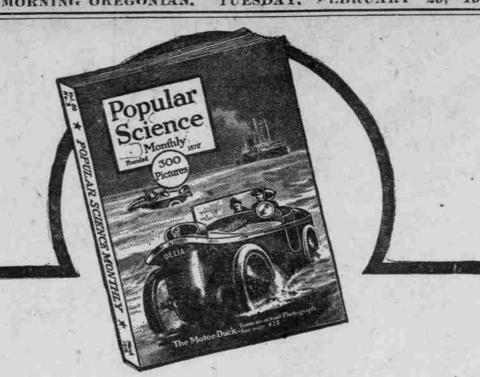

The scores were: Francis S. Appleby—400; average, 9:13-45; high runs, 46, 32, 26, Edgar T. Appleby—269; average, 6:11-42; high runs, 25, 25, 23.
