CHARMING and artistic in every detail was the smart tea for which Mrs. George Atkinson Warren (Nan Robertson) was hostess yesterday, complimenting her adorable houseguest, Miss Rhoda Niebling, of San Francisco. More than 100 attractively gowned matrons and maids called to greet the clever little maid, who charmed the assemblage with her singing.

She chose a group of French, English and German songs, among them the exquisite aria from "Butterfly" and the aria from "Lakme" by Liebes. The dainty and charming little songbird was assisted at the piano by Miss Constance Piper, whose accompaniments were an inspiration that completed the artistry of the program.

Miss Niebling has many old friends here, made on her last visit to Portland several years ago. She will be the house-guest of Mrs. Warren for some time, and will be delightfully entertained by prominent social leaders.

Miss Mary Robertson assisted in receiving the trio making an attractive group. Miss Robertson was gowned in a stunning azure blue chiffon velvet frock, with silver lace embellishments, worn with a corsage of pink rosebuds. Miss Niebling, who is especially lovely and petite, wore a simple pink taffeta frock, with the trimmings and corsage of violets, and Miss Robertson was attractive in a smart gown of turquoise blue Georgette crepe with broad satin bands of the same shade as trimming. She also wore a corsage of pink buds.

The drawing-room was aglow with a profusion of roses, pink carnations and bowls of pink tulips and pink roses.

Presiding at the tea table, which was unusually attractive, having a bowl of exquisite Ophelia roses and ferns as a central decoration, were Mrs. Donald Hanney Munro, Mrs. Harry Robertson Fanning, Mrs. Joseph Andrews and Mrs. George Kirkham Smith. They were assisted by Misses Elizabeth Jones, Evelyn Carey, Barbara MacKenzie, Leney Smith, Marion Smith, Vera and Mildred Nichols, Mrs. Frank M. Warren, Mrs. Frank M. Warren, Jr., Miss Frances Warren and Mrs. William Edward Robertson assisted in the drawing-room.

Mrs. Ralph Charles Matson and Mrs. William Hurd Lines were stationed in the library and served tea.

was attended by about 100 people. The couple were unattended except for little Jane Cutlers, who acted as flower girl. The bride was attired in a lovely gown of ivory satin, made short and trimmed with tulle and silver motifs, and her tulle veil was long and adorned with motifs of real lace, fashioned in a cap of the rare lace, adorned with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

An aisle was formed from the stairway to an improvised altar in the drawing-room for the bridal couple, and the wedding march was played by Miss Maud Gesner.

Little Miss Cutlers wore a dainty frock of white net and pink bows and sash, and she carried a basket of pink roses. A general decorative scheme of green and white was developed with palms, ferns and lilies.

At the reception which followed the ceremony the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman, and Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Metcalf, uncle and aunt of the bridegroom, received with the bridal couple. A buffet supper was served, the table being presided over by Miss Celia Sigert, Mrs. Sydney Smith, Mrs. Harry Swart and Mrs. Wilbur Hayden. Assisting about the rooms were Misses Grace Landson, Ethel Mitchell, Doris Skeel, Jessie Beckwith and Bertha Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left for their new home in Madera, Cal.

Mrs. J. Vanleer Eichbaum has asked a number of the younger set to tea this afternoon to meet her sister, Miss Loretta Brady, of San Francisco, who is visiting here for several weeks.

Mrs. F. C. Malpas will entertain with a silver tea at her home, 212 Kenney street, Monday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock for the benefit of the Women's Guild of St. Stephen's Cathedral. An artistic musical programme and the sale of home-made candy will be part of the interesting affair. All interested in the guild and their friends are invited to attend.

The G. N. C. B. Girls will entertain tonight at Cottillon Hall with a dancing party. An special programme has been arranged.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the card party to be given on Saturday by the Coterie. The event will be held in the Masonic Temple. The games, 500 and bridge, will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Fred Krebs, chairman of arrangements, has planned many attractive details for the occasion. There will be a musical programme at 4 o'clock. Miss Nova Lawler will sing and Miss Barbara Lull will play two violin solos. Miss Frances Hansman will give dancing specialties. Among the attractive girls who will assist will be Miss Esther Maegley, Miss Sybil Brown, Miss Frances DeWaar, Miss Dorothy Terry, Miss Elizabeth Jones, Miss Hella Berger, Miss Anna Lee Miller, Miss Grace Miller and Mrs. Nancy Beals Van Dyke. Among those who will assist Mrs. Krebs in receiving will be Mrs. Gus C. Moser, Mrs. C. M. Kiggins, Mrs. Edward Aiden Beals, Mrs. Robert Berger, Mrs. J. H. Bristol, Mrs. F. O. Miller, Mrs. B. T. Soden, Mrs. Colista Dowling, Mrs. C. C. Covert and Mrs. J. H. Barbour.

The Final Hi-Jinks pre-Lenten dancing party will be given Friday night at Christensen's Hall. Both ballrooms will be used and attractive decorations and novelties will distinguish the affair.

The Cloverleaf Club will give a series of dances Saturdays at Myrtle Park Hall.

The 1916 Follies will entertain Friday evening at Christensen's Hall, with another dancing party. The event is creating much enthusiasm. Many of the students and frat members of the different schools and colleges will participate. Chaperones, patrons and patronesses include: Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Cash, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Snook, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Geisler.

Over 120 festively garbed men and women made merry last night at the pre-Lenten dance for which the management of Alexandra Court were hosts. The ballroom and dining-room were adorned with Spring flowers in a riot of pleasing coloring, combined with ferns, palms and Oregon grape.

Baskets of pink tulips and pink-shaded candles decked the supper table, presided over by Mrs. Walker and Mrs. E. W. Cornell.

Numerous dinner parties preceded the dance, which was given at the patroness of the house and their friends. Among those who entertained parties were Major and Mrs. G. C. von Eglowstein, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Zera Snow, Mrs. E. C. Cornell, Mrs. Tyler Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hemminghouse, Miss Bertha Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carms, Ned Poulson, Mrs. I. B. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Colton, A. J. McMillan and Mrs. Mrs. Frank C. Malpas.

Patronesses included a number of the debutantes and younger sachelors, and another group of young folk made up one of the merriest parties in the dining-room.

Many of the old-time residents of the coast attended the affair, which proved to be one of the most brilliant in the social history of the coast. The management plans to give a similar affair after the Lenten period.

Two weddings made yesterday, the first day of the month, notable in social circles. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon Miss Frances Dekum became the bride of John Robert Spence, of Vandine. The ceremony was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Dekum. Rev. M. L. Root officiated, and the young people were unattended.

The wedding march was played on the harp, with piano accompaniment. Only the relatively young couple were present at the ceremony and the supper following.

The drawing-room and dining-room were adorned with a profusion of pink sweet peas, bride roses, and carnations. The bride wore a smart tailleur of mauve cloth, with small hat to match, and her bouquet was of lilies of the valley and orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Spence left for their new home in Vancouver, B. C., where the bridegroom is connected with the American Can Company. Mrs. Spence is a clever artist, having accomplished creditable work in oil paintings. She is connected with the old Dekum family of Portland, and is socially popular. Mr. Spence formerly resided in Chicago, where he also is popular socially.

MY TIRED FEET ACHED FOR "TIZ"

Let Your Sore, Swollen, Aching Feet Spread Out in a Bath of "TIZ."

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "TIZ" bath. Your feet will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "TIZ" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "TIZ." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "TIZ." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25-cent box of "TIZ" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.—Adv.

A Breakfast Table Argument.
MARRY wanted to get some new furniture. The green plush of the sofa was worn on the edges. The carpetable was scratched. The children had scuffed the rug out. The living-room certainly looked shabby. Her soul longed for something bright and cheerful and new.

She diplomatically approached the subject as John disposed of his bacon and eggs.

"I see that Johnson's are going to have a furniture sale," she remarked

THE SANDMAN STORY BY MRS. F. A. WALKER

Bobby Duck Goes to Market.
BOBBY DUCK was a good little fellow most of the time, but once in a while he did like to have his own way and did not want to mind his mother, who, of course, being older, was wiser as well.

Madam Duck, Bobby's mother, said one morning: "Bobby, I think you will have to go to market this morning, because I have a pain in my foot and cannot walk to town."

Now, Bobby Duck was not glad that his mother had a pain in her foot, not at all; but he was very glad he could go to market, because he knew he would have to go through the woods, and Bobby Duck thought he might have an adventure.

Bobby had heard of Mr. Fox and Old Black Wolf, who lived in the woods, and he knew he would be braver than those who told stories of meeting these fellows and how frightened they had been of Old Black Wolf's growl and Mr. Fox's big mouth.

"It would not be frightened," thought Bobby Duck. "I carry a gun and I would make those fellows run from me. I hope I meet one of them; or both would be more fun."

"Now, Bobby," said his mother, as she gave him the market basket, "do not tattle on the way, and above all, do not talk to anyone you meet, especially in the woods."

"You never saw Old Black Wolf or Mr. Fox, and they might talk to you so nice and sweet that you would think them the kindest creatures in the world, and not knowing what would happen to you."

Bobby went to market and got all the nice things his mother told him to buy, and was on his way home, and still he had not met a single creature, and his gun, which he brought under his jacket, was still unused.

"Good morning, my little fellow," said someone, very sweetly.

Bobby looked in the direction from which the voice came and saw a big black bird and smiling face looking at

An Artificial Eye that doesn't fit is worse than no Artificial Eye at all. Not only is it offensive to those who see it, but it is positively injurious.

Our Expert Artificial Eye Maker will be in our store from March 11th to the 16th and can be seen by appointment only. Be safe and make your appointment now or you may be unable to see Mr. Kohler, and it is not likely that he will be here again for several years, if at all.

We guarantee every Eye made by Mr. Kohler to be absolutely satisfactory in every respect—if it does not please it will not cost you a cent. You take no chance whatever. Don't wear that old poorly fitting Eye another year—secure one you will be pleased with, and secure it now before the prices are advanced.

him from under a bush some distance from the path.

"Good morning," said Bobby, and then he stopped, forgetting all about what his mother said about not loitering.

Mr. Fox, for it was he, came toward Bobby and asked what he had in his basket.

Bobby told him he had been to market for his mother, and had carrots and raisins and sugar and spices and a bag of rice.

Mr. Fox was so pleased to hear that that he almost forgot to be polite and reached toward Bobby's basket as if to take it.

Then he drew back and said: "I really feel I should help you to carry such a heavy basket. You are such a little fellow."

"Oh! I am so strong," said Bobby Duck, puffing up as big as he could, "and I am brave too. See my gun, and he threw back his coat so Mr. Fox could see he had one."

Mr. Fox eyed the gun, and he did not seem very pleased, either, so he asked to look at the gun, telling Bobby that it was very handsome, and he would like to see it.

But what do you think that sly Mr. Fox did as soon as he had the gun in his hands? Why, he just pointed it right at poor little Bobby Duck and told him to march ahead of him or he would shoot him. Now, do not be alarmed, my children, for you remember I told you at the beginning it turned out all right. Bobby Duck was not harmed, but he almost was.

Poor Bobby Duck forgot all about being brave when wicked Mr. Fox spoke to him in such a gruff voice and he marched along as he was told to do. Just as they reached Mr. Fox's home and Mr. Fox was thinking he would have all the good things in the basket, as well as poor little Bobby Duck, someone came scampering through the bushes and there was a big dog from the farm over the hill.

My, how Mr. Fox ran when he saw that dog and how the dog ran when he saw Mr. Fox. Bobby Duck was all over for Bobby Duck, and he picked up his gun, which Mr. Fox dropped in his hurry, and off waddled Bobby Duck home.

WOMEN WHO LEAD THE WAY BY MARIE DILLE

Miss F. Pearl Mitchell, the First Woman Farmer of Missouri. THE things that can actually be accomplished by a woman who takes up farming as a serious profession have been demonstrated by Miss F. Pearl Mitchell, the first woman farmer of Missouri. Whereas the life of the average woman is dull and uninteresting, with much grinding work to do, this is not the case with the woman who undertakes the management of her own land, according to Miss Mitchell.

Miss Mitchell has been interested in farming all her life. She is a daughter of a farmer and was born on a 200-acre ranch in Boone County. Seventeen years ago, at the death of her father, she took possession of the land. Since then she has managed it.

To further her success in her profession, she made a complete study of soils, grain and animal husbandry. She specialized in the study of hog and this knowledge has led her to market vast numbers of fine animals. She has frequently been called "the hog woman of Missouri." It is in a great measure this product of her farm that has made her successful.

Miss Mitchell is especially interested in organization among women farmers and the wives of farmers. She is the founder of the organization, which is now known as the Missouri Women Farmers' Club, and which is comprised of all the women in the state who have followed Miss Mitchell's example in pursuing the farming profession.

She is interested in all forms of women's activities besides those which are closely allied to farming. She is secretary of the Missouri Home Makers' conference, vice-president of the Missouri Rural Life conference, regent of the Columbia Chapter of the Daughters of 1812 and chairman of the Industrial and social conditions department of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs. She holds a number of smaller offices among the clubs of the federation and is an officer in a number of agricultural societies besides the one founded by herself, of which she is president, and the National Women Farm Managers' Association, of which she is treasurer.

Miss Mitchell is a graduate of Stephens College and for many years was president of its alumnae association. The hospitable farmhouse in which Miss Mitchell makes her home is the favorite gathering place of students from the college which she attended and for conferences and meetings of various sorts among the societies of which she is a member. The house is in a way a social center of the rural community near Kansas City, and the result of it has been to promote a closer relationship and greater cooperation among the women in that section of the state.
