"MILKMAN'S MATINEE," EASTERN FAD, WILL BE INTRODUCED HERE.

In the East a new fad has become popular. It is known as the "milkman's matinee," and Portland will have its first event of this kind next Saturday morning. A matinee performance of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," which was presented by the Baker Players all last week, will be given for the benefit of thousands of school children and others who were unable to get in to see any of the matinee performances before. This performance will be given Saturday morning at 11 o'clock sharp. It is these morning matinees that have been dubbed by newspaper critics in the East "milkman's matinees." The novelty of an extra morning performance has caught on immensely and wherever a play makes a successful hit in matinee is given. This matinee bill will not interfere with the regular afternoon performance of "Baby Mine," which will go as usual at 2:15 P. M.

BOTH ARE RETIRED.

"Why we didn't want it announced yet," she said, confused and hesitant, when asked yesterday when the ceremony would be held. "We really don't know when we will be married, for Mr. Peterson is still ill, but it will be several days yet. Picture? Oh, my, no!" "Can you wait until it's over?" begged Mr. Peterson. "I don't want to be bothered by all my friends yet."

MOLE PELTS ARE WANTED

Chicago Fur Concern Asks State Game Warden for Information.

Opportunity, that fickle dame, has taken the trouble to come clear out West and is giving the farmers of Oregon another chance to reap the silver dollar, according to Carl D. Shoemaker, state game warden.

Mr. Shoemaker received a letter from a fur concern in Chicago yesterday, which concerned that it would be glad to purchase the pelts of the common ground mole at the top market price. Mr. Shoemaker is of the opinion that anyone with a little dexterity could reap an abundant mole harvest on the ordinary Oregon farm.

The funeral services of Emil G. Gustafson were held yesterday at 2:30 o'clock P. M. at Finley's chapel, under the auspices of the Electrical Workers' Union. Interment was in Lone Fir Cemetery.

and patient ripened into real affection, and "Lucky Jack" finally came to the conclusion that life might be worth living with the particular young woman about. His proposal was accepted and he began to improve in health from that moment.

Dr. E. E. Fierco, who has been in attendance upon Mr. Peterson, predicts complete recovery before long.

Record Is Sensational.

"Lucky Jack" Peterson has written several sensational incidents into Oregon history. He is widely known, numbering his friends among the hundreds.

He came to Oregon from Wisconsin about 30 years ago, entering into the employ of a lumber company as a sawyer. He made a little money in that and then went into the logging business for himself. Later he sold his business to J. B. Yeon, and began speculation in real estate. He was unusually fortunate in this and became moderately wealthy.

Always a lover of fine homes, when automobiles came into being he "went in" for the best of the power machine. A daredevil driver, he figured in many narrow escapes at the wheel of his car.

Steamer Exploit Famous.

A particularly famous exploit of Mr. Peterson's was the raising of the steamer Elder from the rocks on which she foundered near Coles. He was 18 months in saving the steamer, which others had given up, but, with the aid of a wrecker from Detroit, at last succeeded. He sold the ship to the North Pacific Steamship Company with a profit estimated at $75,000.

At one time in his career Mr. Peterson was rated at $250,000, but his investments suffered from recent financial depression.

Mr. Peterson was divorced a year and a half ago from his first wife, formerly Miss Ora Ruth Watson. She has married again. Attorney P. E. Eakins has been Mr. Peterson's legal adviser.

CITY TO HAVE MANAGER

MILWAUKIE COMBINES ALL OFFICES IN ONE.

Sole Official Hereafter Will Be Police Bureau, Water Director and Street Commissioner.

Milwaukie is to have a general manager from about June 1, according to the action taken at the special meeting of the City Council Saturday night, which had been called to open bids for the completion of the Bull Run municipal water system. His services will begin June 1, at which time the municipal plant will be completed and the city takes over the property of the Milwaukee Water Company, Glebach & Toplin, Portland contractors, submitted a bid of $15,800, the lowest of three, and were awarded the contract.

In the interest of economy the Council voted to dispose of the services of the single policeman and consolidate the offices of water superintendent, street commissioner and chief of police and make the official general manager. He will have the management of the water plant, look after the collections and see that the plant is operated economically. Between $500 and $700 will be collected monthly. The general manager will look after the streets and see that they are kept in order. He will have police power and can make arrests.

BOAT OWNERS WIN SUIT

Decision Against Royal Exchange Confirmed on Appeal.

The burden of proof lies with the appellant, held Circuit Judge Gatson yesterday when he sustained the judgment of the lower court in the appeal of the suit of E. L. McKern and M. S. Hughes against the Royal Exchange Assurance Corporation, without any evidence being offered by either side.

The insurance company, represented by Fulton & Bowerman, did not put on any witnesses to prove that the motorboat on which the plaintiffs desired inurance money had been unseaworthy, and the court held that it was not up to the plaintiffs to prove the seaworthiness of the craft.
