Shearing Will Be General in Wil- changed. famette Valley in Coming Week. Wool Buyers Waiting for Yakima Season to Open.

There is very little interest shown yet in but the buyers, apparently, are making no effort to get in touch with growers here. Only a little mobair is being offered, however, as abscaring has been done in only a few localities. If the weather continues favorable, goat shearing should be more of less award in the valley next week.

E. Smith Livestock Company. The price was not amounced, but was said to be the same pald for other clips in that section.

Shearing in the Willamette Valley will not be general for a month yet. Inquiry is lacking, but the price range will be in line with values in the Eastern counties, allowance being made for the lighter shrinkage of the Valley product.

In its weekly review of foreign wool market conditions, the Commercial Bulletin, of Boston, rays:

"Sales have been beld this week in Melbourne and in Rydney. Prices have been firmly maintained there for any good wools and about on the hash of 850-85 cants for any wools that could be called good combins, although this class of wools is practically not to be had in the markets down below at the present time. Really good top-making wools are being bought at about 78 oanis and some importers figure that they can land them at slightly less money. Poor wools in Melbourne are protty irregular in price and not very keenly sought. American competition for good wools was fairly keen. England was also buying more freely.

"The situation at the Caps is firm and efferings on good wools are made at underlying and country Produce.
