MANY CONTESTS PROMISED

Woodrow Wilson for President Is Alone on Democratic Ticket. Republicans Have Four Candidates in Race.

cording to Governor Withycombe. In the Western Oregon district the contest is confined to two Republicans, Thomas K. Campbell, incumbent, and Fred G. Buchtel, present deputy sealer of weights and measures. No Democrats have appeared for Commissioner in either district.

Although there are but 17 State Senators to elect in November, 38 candidates are out for nomination at the primaries, four being Democrats. B. L. Eddy, of Roseburg, Fifth District; Frederick Steiwer, of Pendleton, Twenty Curry County: Republican—H. H. Dearmond, Bend, Democrat—Sunday, Bend, Democrat—Arthur Clarke, Coroxallis. Frederick Steiwer, of Pendleton, Twentieth District; Edward S. Widdle, of Island City, Twenty-first District, and John Gill, of Bortland, Thirteenth District, are certain of seats in the upper house next year, having no opposition at the primaries or general election.

A grand total of 141 candidates have listed themselves for nomination for the lower house of the Legislature; 15 are Democrats and the rest Republicandidates for representative, four being Democrats. Sixty must be elected next November. The roll of candidates for representatives shows 23 members of the 1915 House are again in the running. Four members of the last flouse are now candidates for State Senator. Three aspirants are women. In the state 17 Circuit Judges are to be nominated and elected. Fifteen in-cumbents are candidates for renomina-tion. In the First, Fifth and Ninth Judicial Districts, respectively, there is but one candidate.
in the 35 counties 106 attorneys have filed for nomination by their respect-ive parties for District Attorney; 26 are Democrats. Democrats have primary contests in only Baker, Harney, Jackon and Wallowa counties. There will e no Republican contest in Yambill, Sherman, Morrow, Linn, Jefferson, Hood River, Gilliam, Crook and Ben-ton counties. Incumbents are running for renomination in 23 countles.

Detective Testifies He Was so Drunk He Could Not Determine Effect of Liquors He Bought; Trial Is Third in 18 Months.

OREGON CITY, Or., April 14.—(Special.)—For the third time in a year and a half, Fritz Boysen, proprietor of the Hotel Belle in Milwaukie, today was convicted here on a liquor-selling charge. He was tried before Justice of the Peace Sievers without a jury, and will be sentenced tomorrow morning. So large was the crowd that attended the trial, the Justice of the Peace moved his court to the Willamette Hall. Many were here from Milwaukie, and included in the crowd were a number of members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

COURT HELD IN DANCE HALL

OREGON CITY, Or., April 14 .- (Spe-

Why Boysen did not ask for a jury trial is a mystery to local officials, as under the prohibition law, it is doubtful if an appeal can be taken. John Stevenson, until recently judge of the Municipal Court in Portland, appeared for Boysen and District Attorney Hedges and Deputy District Attorney Burke for the state.

Two detectives, F. A. Dillon and Fred Miller, who had frequented the Hotel Belle for weeks before the raid, testified for the state, but their evidence was weak. Miller said that he had visited the resort and had secured drinks, but each time was so intoxicated that he could not say whether the drinks were introvicating.

cated that he could not say whether the drinks were intoxicating.

Dillon, on the other hand, said that whisky could be secured by asking for "the best in the house."

It was principally on the testimony of Helen Sullivan, now serving a sentence in the Multnomah County Jail, that a conviction was secured. She said she was one of a party of four that visited the hotel March 15 and each one in the party, she said, had five drinks. Before departing they bought two bottles of liquor, she testified. The party went to Vancouver, Wash., where they were arrested.

Boysen's defense consisted for the most part of a general dental. The 40-odd bottles of assorted liquor introduced as evidence, he said, were not in his place to be sold. George Hislop and Ben Ginsberg, two of his employes, said part of the liquor was their personal property, while Boysen explained that a part of the remaining booze was his own private stock. Robert Bain, a piano player, also testified.

Auto was supreme over horse this morning and three hours after Milton Eddy, of Burnt River, had telephoned that a horse, together with saddle, bridle, chaps and mackinaw coat, had been stolen from there last night, Sheriff R. P. Anderson and Deputy Sheriff Robert Nelson arrested James Warren in Stice's Guich, 14 miles from here, and obtained a partial confession from the youth.

The officers came face to face with the fugitive before he realized how his pursuers so easily got the drop on him, He carried a five-shot 38-calibre revolver. He said he was 20 years old, is an orphan, had spent four years in the West after coming from New Jersey, and had been working a week on a ranch in the Burnt River country.
