"How does he do it?" That is the all-absorbing question concerning Clayton, who is giving his puszling performance of answering all questions asked him by members of the audience this week. It is the ancient art of crystal gazing as explained by the mystic, crystals of this kind evidently having been in use thousands of years before Christ. The performance given by Clayton this week is one of mystery. Anyone writing a question concerning lost articles, mystery. Anyone writing a ques-tion concerning lost articles, missing relatives, affairs of love or business, or in fact anything whatever of a personal nature has his name called out and a reply given to same that is little short of marvelous. Clayton and his company will be seen at the Baker all this week with a daily matinee at 2:20 and evening per-formance at 8:20. Friday mati-nee will be for women only.

Preparedness Attitude of This Country Declared Faulty.

YELLOW PERIL HELD MYTH

"It is not a wise thing to speak of a friendly nation as a possible enemy. If America wants to develop greater military preparedness, why not appeal to the people in its behalf and say 'We want it,' without saying 'We want it because we must prepare against Japan?"

"There exists no great Japanese problem in the United States, such as we have heard talked about. After the 'gentleman's agreement' between Japan and the United States in 1907, immigration was stopped, and between 1907 and 1911 more than 4000 Japanese returned to Japan. Students were prohibited by our government from coming to America to work their way through college, and only those who could afford to pay their way were allowed to come.

Collegians Declared Friends.

Mr. Kasal was introduced by B. Taktan, and adopted in Portland. Many prominent Japanese merchants, who are members of the Chamber of Commerce, attended the luncheon. Before Mr. Kasal's address, the Chamber heard a discussion of the municipal golf links plan, and adopted resolutions indorsing the links.

Collegians Declared Friends.

"Many of the men who have risen to high places in Japan and are doing the greatest work in public service and in strengthening the bonds of friendship between these countries are students who came over before that time and worked their way through the colleges of America, but this can be no more.

"There is no 'growing Oriental menace' in the West. The Japanese population is diminishing steadily and been a member. Pallbearers were Collegians Declared Friends.

today there are only 95,000 Japanese in the United States.

"The City of Buffalo alone has a larger population of Italians than the entire Japanese population in the United States."

Mr. Kasai ridiculed the "stories persistently circulated by Hearst and his newspapers indicating that the Japanese are trying to gain a foothold at Turtle Bay and other places in Mexcio.

"I am glad that no Japanese naval commander is so foolish as Hearst would have the Americans believe them to be," he said.

"Japan respects the Monroe doctrine and recognizes the United States to preserve the peace and integrity of the nations of the Western Hemisphere.

She Says She Does:

The average woman gets more for her money than the average man-her dollar has a greater purchas-ing power.

Women are the best readers of advertising we have. Is there not a direct connection of cause and effect between these two facts?

Woman has proved for herself that it pays to know what is being offered before she buys. She knows what her dollar is worth, and she means to get the most for it.

She finds the advertising one of the most interesting and helpful features of her daily newspaper.
