63-Year Task of Establishing The Oregonian Described by Edgar B. Piper.

BIG BANQUET IS HELD

Visitors Are Taken Through Eugene on Automobile Trip and Inspect Methods of Teaching That Are in Vogue at University.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, May 10.—(Special.)—H. L. Pitcock, the man who has stuck to one job for 63 years—the job of making The Oregonian the great newspaper of the Oregon country—today for the first time met and was met by the students of a school of journalism.

Edgar B. Piper Is Spoken.

The history of The Oregonian was given for Mr. Pitcock by Edgar B. Piper, the editor.

Mr. Piper described the equipment, the news sources, the policy, the terrific handicaps of the original Weekly Oregonian when Mr. Pitcock was connected with it as an employee of Thomas J. Dryer in the early 60s.

Mr. Piper then made a plea for the paper because he persistently made application, but he received only his board of compensation, and his sleeping place was a bench in the office.

That the vaudeville shows have a worse effect upon the young than the picture shows was the statement of Dr. William T. Foster, who said he participated in an investigation into this question two years ago.

The convention opened yesterday morning with the address of Professor Edward S. Conklin, of the University of Oregon, who spoke after prayer was offered by Rev. John H. Matthews, of Seattle. He made a plea for a higher

MISS WILL SING IN CONCERT AT THE OAKS AUDITORIUM.

BY ADDISON BENNETT. MOUNT ANGEL, Or., May 10.—(Special.)—Mount Angel is usually spoken of as the site of the college of the Benedictine Brothers, but really the activities of the brothers are carried on about two miles east of the town of Mount Angel, where there is a post-office called St. Benedict.

The great college stands on a commanding eminence which overlooks the country for miles and miles around. It would be difficult to find a finer location in the state. I understand there are accommodations in the main building for 400 students, but the number now attending is less than that.

The work of the brothers was first begun in the Fall of 1852 at Gervais, by Father Adolphus, who was later in the latter '80s the purchase was made of 1200 acres of the splendid farm land which now embraces the great farm, and some 2000 or 3000 acres of timber and timber land in the hills to the east.

I think it was Father Wilhelm, who is so well known in Oregon, who took charge of the work here. He is still living but the Father Abbot is Right Reverend Placidus Forest.

Printing Office is Operated. The brothers have one of the finest equipped printing offices in Oregon, aside from a few in Portland. It has a modern web press, a fine letter setting machine, an Optimus cylinder press, job presses—in fact, it is a fine plant and occupies a spacious building wherein all of its work is done.

The brothers issue several publications, the best known being the St. Joseph's Blast, which is printed in German. It has a large circulation which, it is said, reaches every civilized country on the globe. Brother Celestine is the editor of the Blast, but publications and he is said to be a very able man.

Coming back to the town of Mount Angel, a beautiful little city of about 1000 inhabitants, let it first be said that it is in Marion County—and in one of the very best parts of that county, so far as land is concerned. That statement, however, ought to be somewhat amended by saying that the lands are cut up into farms which will increase in every way with the best farms in the country. Remember this is a thickly settled section.

Towns Are Close Together. The towns here are close together, this place being only five miles from Silverton, which lies to the south, five miles to the north, and Woodburn, Salem is only 12 miles distant and Molalla only a mile or so more than that.

To sustain all of these towns, one of them, Salem, being the second city in the state, it is evident that this is a good and prosperous section. It has a good rail service, being the present terminus of the Willamette Valley Southern and on the Vancouver branch of the Southern Pacific. So it has about eight passenger trains a day. And it is also connected with the surrounding country by about a dozen wagon roads as there are in Oregon.

Perhaps no better illustration could be given of the prosperity of the place than to tell about the bank, the Bank of Mount Angel. It is rather a new institution and yet it has deposits of $214,726.99, nearly $100,000 of the sum being savings deposits.

Capital is Only $20,000. And yet it only has a capital of $20,000. It has, however, already added to this $1,826.99 in surplus and undivided profits. It is really a Mount Angel institution, the stock being about all held by the merchants of the town and the farmers nearby. J. W. Eber is the president. He is one of the principal merchants of the place. Joseph J. Eber is cashier.

In looking at these figures you must remember the size of the town and the proximity of the neighboring towns. You see by going from less than three miles to about six miles you bump into the territory of other towns.

One of the important institutions of the place is the co-operative creamery, which is doing a good business and turning out a fine product. J. Peterson is president and C. A. Rice manager. There are two hotels here, the Marion House, kept by L. G. Seifer and the Hotel Mount Angel, managed by Jacob Berthold. The latter is said to be a good stopping place—I know the Marion is for I registered there and about all held by the merchants of the town and the farmers nearby. J. W. Eber is the president. He is one of the principal merchants of the place. Joseph J. Eber is cashier.

Catholic Church Fine Edifice. One of the sights in the town is the Catholic Church, recently built which is one of the finest edifices owned by any congregation in the county. It is built of stone and is architecturally a splendid piece of work and well worth a visit.

The extent of the propagandist is definitely outlined in a comprehensive report now being sent out for circulation among the county Granges by George P. Larson, secretary of Spokane County Pomona Grange No. 4.

The legislative programme toward which the Grange is working is as follows: Restricting the initiative, restricting the recall, known as the "initiative bill," referring to electors, and the Post-Commission bill.

A permanent legislative committee has been appointed, consisting of George J. Cannon, Half Moon Grange, Buckeye; Edward Olson, Freeman Grange; Freeman and Preston Wood, Rodan Grange; Rodan, to carry out the above programme, and all subordinate Granges have been instructed to appoint committees to see to it that every voter in the districts registers at one for the Fall election.

New Gresham Foundry Starts. GRESHAM, Or., May 10.—(Special.)—The Beaver State Auto Company is now using the new foundry which was built for them. It is equipped for the making of iron castings and, being the only malleable iron foundry west of Minneapolis, except the one operated by the Northern Pacific at Tacoma, it is expected that it will be run to its full capacity. Already a number of large orders for malleable castings have been offered.

BISHOPS PURCHASE MILL

MARYSVILLE WOOLLEN FACTORY IN CALIFORNIA TAKEN OVER. Some of Machinery Will Be Installed in Mills at Pendleton and in Washougal.

PENDLETON, Or., May 10.—(Special.)—Confirmation of the purchase of the Marysville, Cal., Woollen Mills by the Bishop brothers, who own the Pendleton Woollen Mills and the Washougal, Wash., mills, was obtained today. Roy T. Bishop is now in Marysville closing the transaction.

The new mill was up to the time of its closing seven years ago the largest and best established mill on the Pacific Coast. It was closed down at the death of Joseph T. Bishop, who was a competent manager could be found. It was this mill which was largely responsible for the making of California blankets broad given to the finer grade of blankets sold in the East. The object in purchasing the mill was to secure additional machinery for the Pendleton and Washougal mills. There is a possibility the California mill will be operated with the remaining machinery.

The Bishops are related to the late Thomas Kay, pioneer manufacturer of Oregon. The taking over of the California mill by Bishop brothers marks the complete supremacy of Oregon over California in the wool industry. C. P. Bishop, of Salem, father of Roy T. Bishop and C. M. Bishop, of Pendleton, and Chauncey Bishop, of Salem, is president of the concern.

GRANGES SUGGEST LAW

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAMME OUTLINED IN SPOKANE COUNTY.

Comprehensive Campaign for Spread of Propaganda Will Be Carried on Until Fall Election.

SPOKANE, Wash., May 10.—(Special.)—In the most concerted and extensive movement on record in Spokane County, the men and women outside of the cities and towns have banded together this year in a comprehensive campaign for the spreading of propaganda of education and legislation.

The 1500 members of the Grange have laid down a definite legislative and educational programme toward which they will work until the election this Fall.
