

SON CONTESTS WILL WHICH HITS WIFE

Mother Is Said to Have Been Insanely Jealous of Her Daughter-in-Law.

MAN GETS ESTATE INCOME

Property Will Pass to Other Relatives Unless Young Woman Dies or Is Divorced—Court Action Is Begun.

Jealous of the affection her son lavished on his wife, Sarah A. Ryman, the mother of the late Dayton Ryman, who died last week, has secured a divorce from Nellie Ryman, or his wife dead.

In her will, Mrs. Ryman set forth that she gave her property into the care of the Portland Trust & Savings Bank, to be held for her son, for the express purpose that her daughter-in-law "should not receive a penny."

His mother was insanely jealous when she made this will, charges Ryman, in the petition filed by attorneys Malarky, Seabrook & Dibble. The dead woman was under the delusion that she had been mistreated by his wife, asserts Ryman. The will was to prevent Mrs. Ryman or her people from participating in the estate, and that the property that Ryman would so use the income of the estate that his wife will not enjoy it.

The mother died May 21, 1915. The will, filed May 28, 1915, provided that the Portland Trust & Savings Bank was to act as trustee, of a life estate, and that the property at the death of Ryman was to go to Addie Garfield and LeRoy Garfield, niece and nephew of the dead woman, unless Mrs. Ryman died or was divorced from her husband. Ryman sets forth in his petition that after the death of his father he lived with his mother for a long while, and up to the time of his marriage, which was delayed out of love for his mother. He maintains that his mother had no particle of affection for her niece or nephew, and that the extraordinary will was the result of an insane delusion of ill-treatment on the part of the daughter-in-law.

Erratic Conduct Related. To carry out his contention that his mother was insane at the time the will was drawn, Ryman tells of erratic actions of the woman. She was fond of wandering alone in the early morning, he said, and was found at one time sitting alone on the steps of a church at an early hour. She frequently asked people if they thought she was going crazy, he said, and often wandered in her conversation.

The dead woman also had a habit of having her horoscope read, and of consulting fortune tellers with a view to finding out when her son's wife would die, charges her son.

The petition asks that the will be declared invalid, that Mrs. Ryman be adjudged to have died insane, and that an administrator be appointed for the estate. Judge Cleston set the hour for a hearing at 9:30 A. M. June 7.

CHRISTIANITY TRUST URGED

John D., Jr., Proposes Forming Great Organization to Work for All.

CLEVELAND, O., May 19.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., major-general Leonard Wood and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt were speakers at a meeting of the international Y. M. C. A. convention here.

Mr. Rockefeller spoke on "Every Christian at Fort Belknap," and Mr. Wood on "The Heavens Opened." He held the delegates how to organize a Christianity "trust," which he declared would sweep the forces of evil out of competition. He rapped partisan denominationalism and took a fling at business men who are fattening their bank accounts on the war in Europe, declaring "the selfish materialism of our country stands in marked contrast to the spirit of the men and women in Europe pouring out their all on the altar of devotion."

He outlined his "trust" plan by suggesting the appointment of a special international secretary.

Moving Picture News

Dorothy Gish in 'Susan Rocks the Boat,' at Columbia Theater.

TODAY'S FILM FEATURES. T & D—'Salvation Joan,' 'Gloria's Romance.' Columbia—'Susan Rocks the Boat,' 'The Lion and the Girl,' 'Maestros,' 'Feathertop,' 'Snow Stuff.' Peoples—'Pasquale,' 'Pickford—'The Half Million Bribe.'

Peoples. GEORGE BEBAN scores a personal triumph in 'Pasquale,' a Morosco-Panama photodrama, which was flashed on the screen at the Peoples Theater yesterday for a four-day engagement. 'Pasquale' is a picture to touch the heart, possessing a sympathetic appeal which takes the spectator to that borderland between smiles and tears. Sacrifice and love—the love for dumb animals as well as for human beings—are the keynotes of the drama of the life of an Italian in far-away America.

The story presents Beban as a hard-headed, small-town grocer, devoted to Julie, an orphan, and Colombo, his horse. Around Colombo Beban weaves the psychology of love for dumb animals, and around Julie psychology just as keen, for Pasquale loves her, and silently bears his sorrow when she chooses to marry a worthless young man of the village.

When the grocer, broken-hearted but strong in the loss of the ward he would have married, is stricken with a fatal disease, the long arm of the Italian government reaches across the sea and claims him for war against the Austrians. A number of realistic battle scenes, including some Alpine climbing, are introduced. Then the reservist is wounded, returns home to surprise the lovers, and discovers that his business is going to ruin, his horse a frame of many bones and his ward's dream of love rudely awakened.

A sub-plot, introducing the banker of the town, and his wife (Myrtle Stedman), who is involved in an affair with a young society butterfly, provides the main story. The banker accompanies Pasquale to Europe, returns with him and turns his back on his home when he discovers her infidelity. An automobile accident, realistic in the extreme, kills an unworthy husband and lover, and thus the lovers are reunited.

'Paramount pictographs and a Bray cartoon comedy, "Bobby Bumps and His Goat-obile," conclude the bill.

T & D Theater. The week-end programme at the T & D Theater will have a decided Billie Burke flavor for Manager Leonhart announces that commencing today he is presenting a feature of exceptional strength. The story deals with life in the slums as well as in high society. Miss May appearing as a Salvation Army lassie, ministering to the needs of the masses, and as a wealthy woman of the smart set, involved in a diplomatic intrigue. An acquaintance of the slums appears in the guise of a society man, but unmasking as a secret service man and saves the secrets of his country.

The Jack Daniels comedy, "Mr. Jack, Doctor by Proxy," is another number of the bill, while special numbers by the big ten-piece orchestra will feature all films.

Pickford. "The Half-Million Bride," with Hamilton Revelle and Marguerite Snow as co-stars, is the Metro "wonderplay," which will open at the Pickford today. The story is one of mystery, with a startling climax which forces the spectator to revise all previous notions of the leading characters in the plot.

The drama is constructed about a half million dollars, given to a district attorney by a doctor, who in a district attorney promises that for this sum of money he will free the husband, charged with murder. Challenged, an idle society man, who is charged with killing a prominent sportsman in a gambling house. The prosecutor secures a conviction against Challenor and the wife exposes him, but her story is discredited. Then the prosecutor secures the release of the convicted man, alleging that she had a faked confession. The released man awakens to his responsibilities in life through the strength of the wife, and then comes the startling denouement.

Lee, who created such a sensation in De Wolf Hopper's latest production, "Susan Rocks the Boat" takes its name from the revolutionary antics of one Susan, for his daughter's possession of an immense fortune and no responsibility, suddenly conceived the idea that she was a modern Joan of Arc, with a mission of uplifting the masses. Hence, her performance took the old family boat of wealth and tradition. Susan goes down into the slums, leases a building from a divekeeper, and is well on the "uplift" path when she runs into a snag in the person of this same divekeeper, and is rescued by Larry O'Neill, son of the ward's political boss, who is not in sympathy with the girl's mission, but falls madly in love with her.

Majestic. "Feathertop," a five-reel Mutual Masterpiece dealing satirically with high society, replaces William Farnum at the Majestic Theater today. Marguerite Courtet, the dainty Mutual star, is featured in the production. A three-reel comedy, "Snow Stuff," a picture-in-picture, by Van Loan's well-known Buck Parvin staff, and Pathe Weekly will be other numbers on the programme.

The May Festival pictures filmed on Multnomah Field last week will be continued until Saturday night, thousands of school children taking advantage of the opportunity at reduced prices to see themselves in the evolutions directed by Robert Krohn.

The Buck Parvin picture is said to be the funniest of the series of Mutual comedy releases which deal with life in a moving picture camp.

Screen Gossip. Our own movie press agent staff: Florine Fitzgibbon, the movie star, lost all her jewels, valued at $16,887.41, while making the role of Miss Mudd, in the gripping film drama "The Purple Snowball."

A new photographer at the Morosco studio received a shock when he learned that "extra" whom he had asked to carry his camera up to a mountain location was George Beban. On going out to take an exterior for "Pasquale" the cameraman requested that Mr. Beban carry some of his paraphernalia. The star seeing the humor of the incident obeyed all commands until one of the prop boys whispered into the ear of the photographer, who had several shades of red with confusion.

Filming of five fine arts subjects has been completed within the last few days, and will shortly be ready for release. Of this number, three have been named. "Casey at the Bat," with DeWolf Hopper, Marguerite Marsh, Frank Bennett, Kate Toncray, William Brown, Carl Stockdale and Loyola O'Connor; "Going Straight," starring a series of artistic dances; "The Assassins," with Douglas Fairbanks as star and a supporting cast which includes A. D. Sears, Lewis and W. E. Lawrence. One of the other subjects has Lillian Gish as star and the other Max Mouch, Robert Harron and Wilfred Lucas.

Lola Weber, Universal director, has been flooded with manuscripts lately. She has summarized one which she regards as a masterpiece. First, a girl disguises as a messenger boy.

Second—She goes as a reporter to a millionaire's home.

Third—She discovers that the millionaire is her father.

Viola Dana, the newest of Metro stars, who will shortly begin work on her first production for that programme will entertain a number of friends at the Narragansett Hotel, at Broadway and Ninety-third street, when she is in the city. She began her career as a professional dancer when she was 5 years old, and she still keeps up her work in that art at private entertainments.

A private performance of "La Boheme," the latest World picture in which Alice Brady stars, will be given in the projection room of that company's Metropolitan Opera-House on May 28. It was at the suggestion of a number of Brady's friends that she had "La Boheme" visualized and assumed the role of Mimì and now that the picture has been completed, Miss Brady deems it but proper to give her friends among the opera stars a view of the finished product.

MYSTERY IS SOLVED

Finding of Hunter's Skeleton Clears Companion.

MAN LOST 18 YEARS AGO Harrisburg Resident Identifies Remains of Friend and Rejoices When Bones Show No Mark of Violence.

EUGENE, Or., May 24.—(Special).—A skeleton found in the forest bordering Cash Creek, above Mabel, 49 miles from Eugene, yesterday afternoon, was today identified by C. A. Morris, of Harrisburg, as that of J. R. Buckman, lost 18 years ago while hunting November 18, 1898, the two men left Harrisburg together. Buckman never returned. Morris was suspected of his murder. He was never charged with the crime.

A slight which was gruesome in itself brought joy to the heart of Morris when he entered the Sheriff's office yesterday to view the skeleton. He was convinced that it was Buckman's. There were no marks of violence on the bones. This year, his good name had been cleared.

Men Separate in Storm. Morris said that on November 17, 1898, early in the morning, he and Buckman had left Harrisburg. There was 16 inches of snow on the ground at the time they entered the mountains to hunt. The following day, when they separated, the weather was squally and it was still snowing. He never saw Buckman again. His wife said his friend lost his way and died of starvation.

Following the disappearance of Buckman, who had resided with his family in Harrisburg, where he was one of the owners of the Harrisburg Sawmill Company, a reward of $250 was offered for the recovery of his body. Big searching parties were out for 11 weeks.

Morris continues search. Morris was one of the searchers. For days and days after the search was given up hope he hunted for the body of his friend. For 13 weeks he continued his search, in vain.

Belongings Are Identified. Morris, who is now in business at Harrisburg, was notified. He came at once to Eugene, where he identified the skeleton by means of a watch, a lumberman's rule, a rifle of odd caliber, some coins, none of which bore a date later than 1898, and a knife with the insignia of the Woodmen of the World. The dead man had been a member of that order. There was also a beer check on a saloon formerly in business at Harrisburg. The identification was regarded as conclusive.

The spot where the skeleton was found is about three and one-half miles from the point where the men had made their camp, at an almost inaccessible point on the bank of Cash Creek. In recent years it had been almost covered by undergrowth.

Says we will both look and feel clean, sweet and fresh and avoid illness.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides with results that are of untold blessing to humanity. The latest application of this scientific research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the drains of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, constipation, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnation matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a pinch of Epsom's salt and a dash of lemon juice. This cleanses, sweetens and purifies the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and Epsom's salt on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, wastes and acids, and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the phosphate of lime you are quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.
