Neither the circus nor the chance for holiday outing yesterday could keep the hundreds of women interested in better foods away from the cooking school conducted by Mrs. Kate Vaughn in the Eleventh-Street Playhouse.

Today will be a banner day. The lecture will be for women only. So, let the men who have been attending and taking notes beware. They will not be allowed to enter. And no children between 6 and 12 years of age may attend. Mrs. Vaughn will give a con-fidential talk on the relation of foods to health and morals. Members of all to health and morals. Members of all parent-teacher associations are especially invited by the lecturer to hear this discourse. Portland Shakespeare Club. Delphians and Rose City Park Club women will share honors as guests. All housewives and others interested will be welcomed. Notebooks and pencils should be taken to all the lectures, says Mrs. Vaughn.

Yesterday Mrs. Vaughn gave the women some practical advice about economy and good management. She advocated the budget system for all families. "Don't go into debt to give wedding presents. The woman who gets a good husband is lucky. She doesn't need your unpaid-for present. Write her a nice, friendly little letter. One of the greatest curses to some women is the "charge account," de-

One of the greatest curses to some women is the "charge account," declared Mrs. Vaughn.

Yesterday a luncheon was cooked and served and today a dinner is on the programme. "Nutrition" will be the subject, the foundation of the lecture. After the articles are prepared Mrs. Vaughn will let everyone sample the dishes and later two beautifully decorated cakes will be given away.

Mrs. Vaughn suggests that house-keepers think over the following questions and see if their views accord with hers as given in her lecture this afternoon: The club season is almost at a closed the subject, the foundation of the lecture. After the articles are prepared Mrs. Vaughn will let everyone sample the dishes and later two beautifully decorated cakes will be given away.

Mrs. Vaughn suggests that house-keepers think over the following question and see if their views accord with hers as given in her lecture this afternoon:

1. What is food—how far does it control health and efficiency?

2. What care shall I give my body so that it will reflect its good condition in an airractive appearance?

3. What shall it each my child regarding its body?

4. What makes the home ideal?

5. How much do I know of labor-savins devices?
