

PORTLAND PAUSES TO REMEMBER DEAD

Veterans of Four Wars Are in Parade, Escorted by National Guard.

FLAGS FLY ON HOMES

Graves Are Decorated and Talks Are Made Recalling Deeds of Service That Warriors Performed for Country.

The veterans of four wars straightened their bent shoulders yesterday as they marched once again to the strains of martial music. They marched with the soldiers of today and tomorrow, making one of the biggest Memorial day military parades Portland has seen.

For the Grand Army the event of the day, aside from the customary observances at the graves, was memorial services at the German House. Here, under a canopy of American flags and in a stirring military setting, several hundred of them sat side by side and enjoyed a programme of music and talks—the kind of talks they like.

Portland observed Memorial day in genuine memorial fashion. Throughout the residence section American flags waved cordially from house-tops or porches. Buildings were draped and the Stars and Stripes flew from every flagpole. Thousands of people were out to do their share in decorating the graves of the dead and thousands viewed the military parade and attended the memorial services.

National Guard Is Escort.

The parade was the forerunner of the services at the German House. With a big military escort the Grand Army Veterans and the veterans of the Spanish-American War, the Mexican War and the Indian Wars marched to their meeting place at the Courthouse down Fourth street to Yamhill, west on Yamhill to Thirteenth street and south on Thirteenth to the German House.

The parade was headed by a platoon of police under command of Police Lieutenant Hartman. Every member in the platoon was a Spanish War veteran. T. B. McDevitt was grand marshal of the parade, with J. W. Curran and L. Q. Durick as his aides. They marched behind the police platoon and carried the Grand Army and Spanish War veteran flags and banners.

The Oregon National Guard and the Oregon Naval Militia and the sons of veterans drum corps made up the military escort for the veterans. The Oregon National Guard was on hand with 31 companies from all parts of the state. The Third Regiment was led by its military band. The ambulance company brought up the rear.

Sons of Veterans Participate.

Behind the Third Regiment came the Coast Artillery band and members of this branch of the service, followed by Troop A of Cavalry and a division of the Oregon Naval Militia and the Naval Militia band. These companies were followed by the junior militia with a big representation.

The veterans' drum corps made its usual fine showing with a large turnout of drummers and lively martial airs. Behind the corps was the United Spanish War veterans contingent, several hundred strong, followed by the Sons of Veterans organization with its usual fine showing of the Elks' band at its head. Each one of the silver haired marchers carried a silk flag. At the rear of the parade a diminishing column was Russell Chamberlain bearing the colors. Following the marching veterans was a large contingent of the Women's Relief Corps. Fifteen automobiles brought up the rear and carried the veterans of all wars who were unable to march in the parade but were unable to walk.

Thousands Applaud Marchers.

The streets all along the course of the parade were lined with people, who gave the veterans a round of applause as they marched by waving their silk flags to the strains of the bands that preceded them.

On Thirteenth street the National Guard men came to a halt and stood at attention and salute while the veterans passed. The line extended along the side of Thirteenth street from Yamhill street to Main street. The veterans passed in front and proceeded directly into the German House, where seats had been reserved for them. The house was crowded to overflowing with the veterans and their friends.

Charles C. Barton, past commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, was the orator of the day at the German House exercises. He recounted the thrills of years from '61 to '65 and spoke at length on the duty of men and women past, present and future, when their country needs them. His talk was punctuated by applause and shouts from the enthused veterans who occupied the entire lower floor.

Tribute Is Paid Women.

Mrs. Minnie T. Hanson spoke for the Women's Relief Corps, paying a glowing tribute to the women who served in the war and to the organization which is now engaged in the work of assisting the Grand Army.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Daniel Drew, chaplain of the Grand Army. The Staples family rendered "Angels Serenade" as the offertory. The veteran quartet, comprising W. N. Morse, Dr. J. E. Hall, A. W. Mills and Professor Z. M. Burton, sang "Tenting With You," and Mrs. Fred L. Olson sang "The Star-Spangled Banner."

IF YOU WORRY, READ THIS

Worry never brought any good to anybody. But, you say, "I don't worry because I want to, I worry because I can't help it." Or, "I worry because I have so much to worry about."

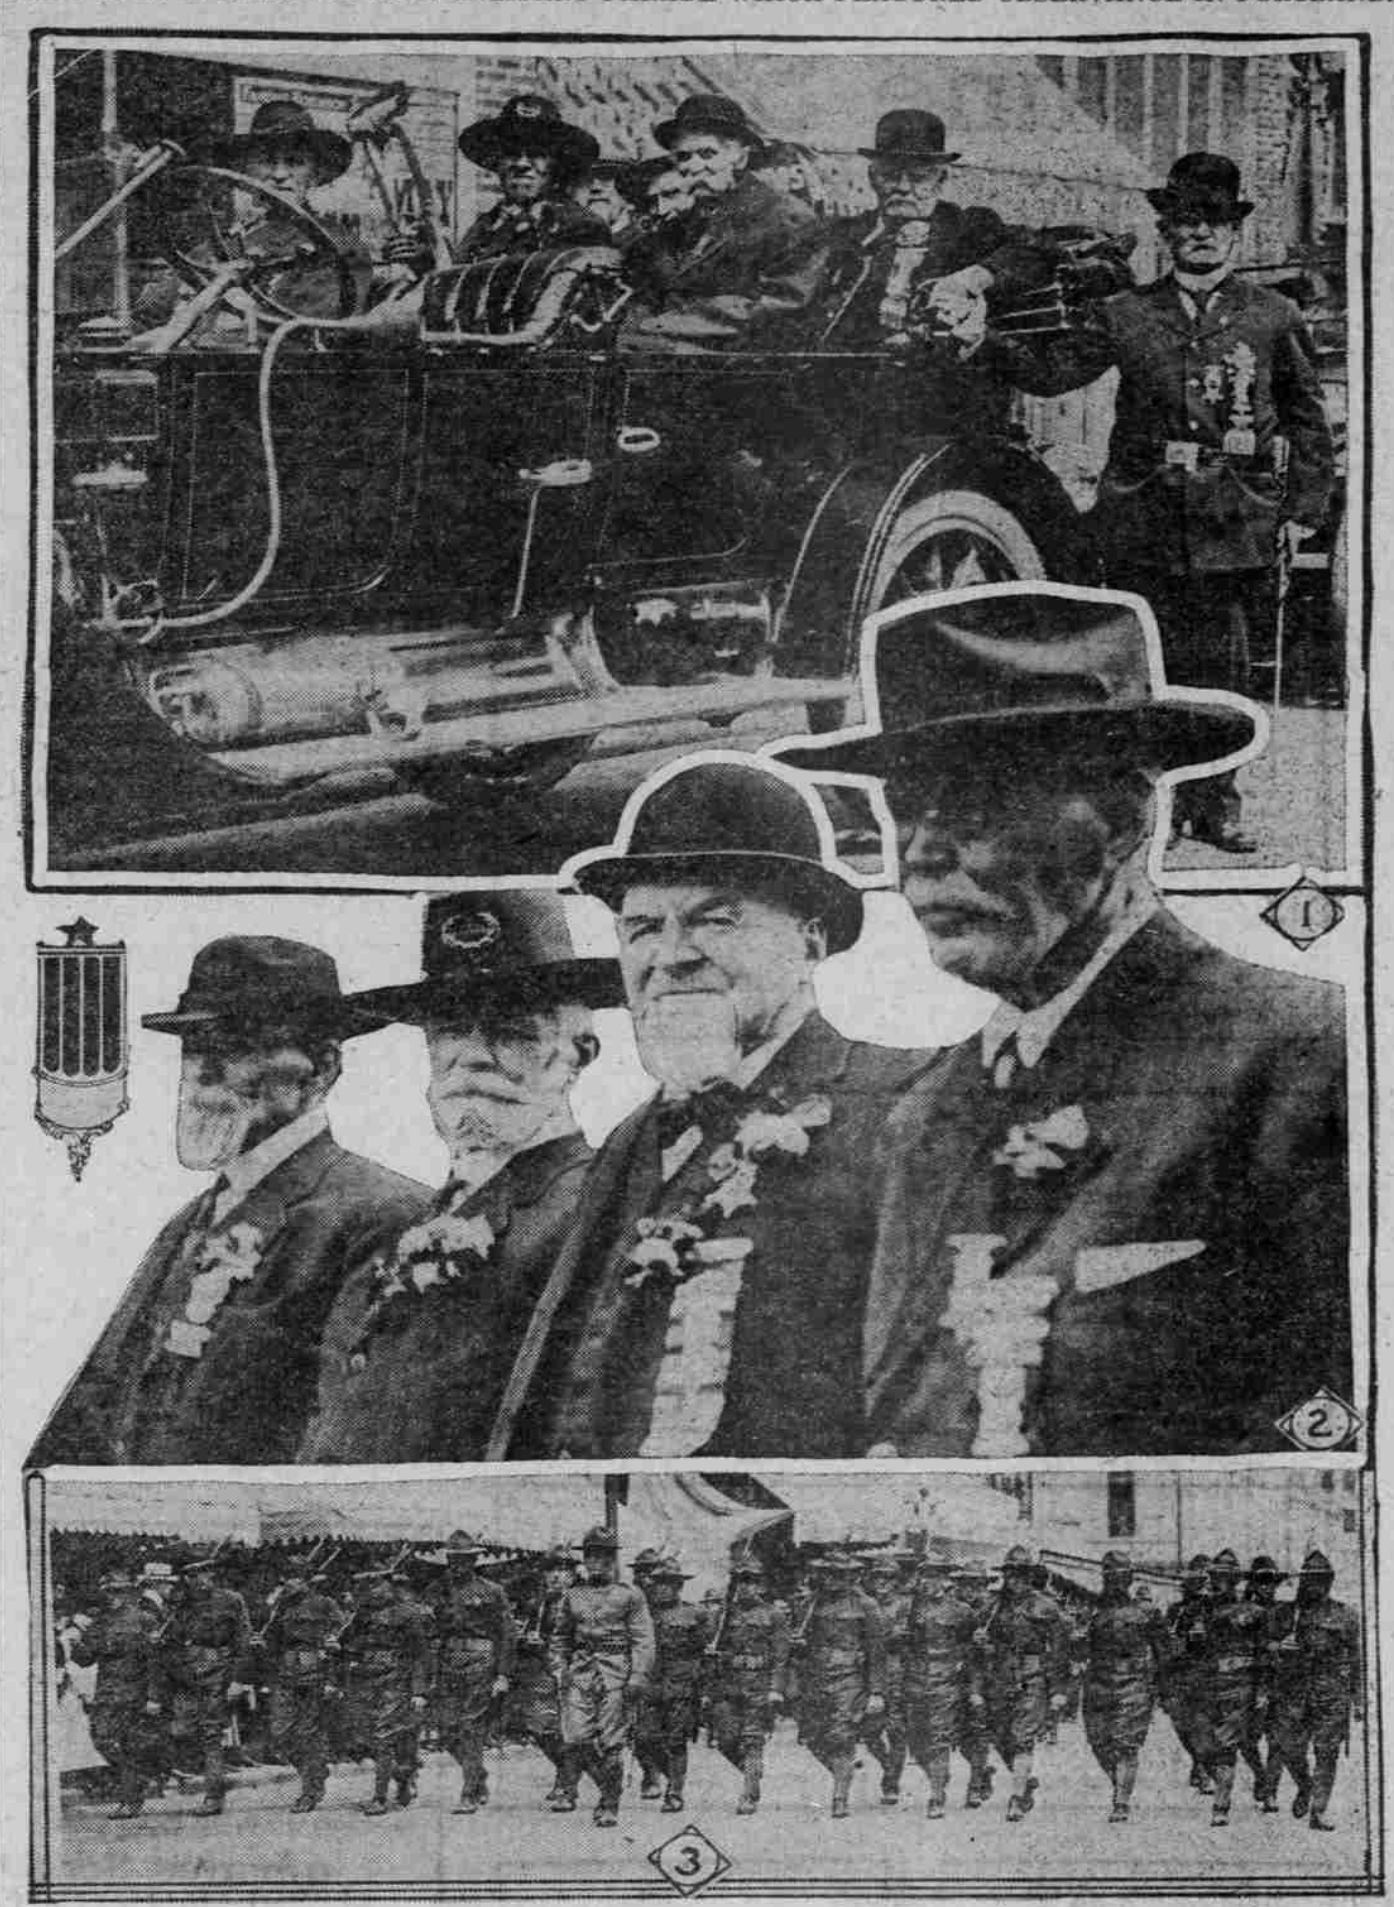

We all have our troubles and worry, of course, makes matters worse. The patient generally recognizes this fact without being able to profit by it.

The doctor who could meet this nervous condition and cure it would be the most popular medical man alive. But he cannot do it because the form of nervous exhaustion known as neurasthenia, of which worry is a characteristic symptom, must be cured by the patient himself.

That is why you should write today for the book "Diseases of the Nervous System" and read the chapter on "Neurasthenia." So many people have read it and written back, "This hits my case exactly, I am giving the treatment a trial and being benefited," that the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., has had a lot of these books printed and will send you a copy free on request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a non-alcoholic tonic, particularly suited for nervous, neurasthenic people. Your druggist sells them or they will be mailed postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50.

Elizabeth Hamilton Stowers sang "Under the Flag" and Commander Edmer Lundberg, of the United Spanish War Veterans, read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. At the close of the affair the entire assemblage joined in the singing of "America," and Edward Smith played "Taps" on the bugle.

REED COLLEGE HOLDS SERVICE Programme of Special Music and Address Is Given.

A commemorative Memorial day service was held in the Reed College chapel yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Portland Guild of Organists. Dr. T. L. Elliot, president of the board of trustees of Reed College, read the service and delivered an address in which he urged the continuation of observing Decoration day as sacred to the solemn memory of those who have died for the Nation.

The musical programme included an organ prelude from Guilman's third sonata, played by Miss Lamson; two vocal solos, "Angelus," by Mag-senet, and a "Festal Hymn," by Bartlett, played by E. Goodrich; a vocal solo, "Song of the Soul," by Brill, sung by Miss Le Page, and a Guilman organ prelude and an "American Fantasia," of his own composition by Karl Becker.

Services Held at Soldiers' Home.

ROSEBURG, Or., May 30.—(Special)—Memorial day was observed appropriately here by holding special services at the Old Soldiers Home in West Roseburg. The memorial address was delivered by Rev. R. E. Jope, pastor of the Christian Church. The programme also included musical numbers, flag drills and selections by the drum corps. The services were held under the direction of the Grand Army of the Republic, Women's Relief Corps, Spanish-American War Veterans, Boy Scouts and local company, Coast Artillery.

BAKER FOR PREPAREDNESS Plea Will Be Made by Special Section in Fourth of July Parade.

BAKER, Or., May 30.—(Special)—Baker business men and ex-members of old Company A, Third Infantry, Oregon National Guard, unwilling to be outdone by larger cities in advocating national preparedness, are planning for the formation of a preparedness section in the Fourth of July parade, which will be a feature of the celebration here. Those heading the scheme are City Attorney C. H. McCulloch, Deputy Sheriff George Herbert, Dr. H. J. Horton, W. E. Meacham, E. Moore, C. E. Bennett and George Jett.

A large number of citizens will march in the preparedness section, while as a subdivision the members of the disbanded militia company will be reunited.

Seattle Veteran Drops Dead.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 30.—(Special)—Frank F. Coffin, aged 73, who served through the Civil War in the Sixth Minnesota Infantry, dropped dead yesterday while addressing the children on patriotism at the public school Memorial day exercises at Duwamish, a suburb. Besides serving in the Union Army during the Civil War, Mr. Coffin fought the Sioux Indians with the Sibley expedition and later under Colonel William Crooks. He came to Seattle from Minneapolis in 1905.

GUARD PAYS TRIBUTE

Special Services Held for Heroes of Second Oregon.

CHAPLAIN GILBERT SPEAKS Programme Carried Out at Monument in Chapman Square Which Is Wreathed in Flowers That Are Later Taken to Graves.

The boys of the old Second Oregon platoon fitting tribute yesterday morning to the memory of their departed comrades. Several hundred of the veterans and their families and friends stood in the shadow of the Second Oregon monument in the present trying times when the nations of Europe are in the throes of the world's greatest struggle.

Chaplain W. S. Gilbert of the old Second Oregon and now of the Third Regiment of the Oregon National Guard, was the speaker for the occasion. He made an appeal for the men of today to dedicate themselves "to the great task for which those whose memory we are paying tribute today paid the last full measure of devotion—the task of protecting the honor of the Stars and Stripes and humanity."

Dr. Gilbert related a brief history of the struggles of the past and the problems which they solved for the Nation. He made an appeal for the citizens of the country to stand firm with the country in the present trying times when the nations of Europe are in the throes of the world's greatest struggle.

Great bouquets of flowers and set pieces, in the form of the Second Oregon badge, were placed on the monument before the commencement of the exercises. After the monument had been decorated and a piano moved into the square under the trees, the programme was started. Those who participated stood in a half circle about the monument, the base of which served as the speakers' stand.

H. M. Dukes presided at the exercises. He read off the rollcall of the departed comrades and in due military form a veteran announced each as absent. He then made a short talk. This was followed by a solo by Miss Beatha Fowler.

At the close of the services about the monument the veterans loaded flowers and set pieces into an automobile truck and sent them to Riverview Cemetery. The veterans and their friends went to the cemetery in autos and by streetcars and decorated the graves of the heroes of the Second Oregon, occupying a rectangular plot about a monument in the cemetery. The graves were all profusely decorated.

JOBBER RATES LOWERED

Walla Walla Distributors to Get 10 Per Cent Reduction.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., May 30.—(Special)—A reduction of fully 10 per cent on distributors' freight rates for all goods being wholesaled out of Walla Walla to points in this city's natural jobbing territory will be declared by the O. R. & N. Company in the immediate future, the new rates to go into effect about July 1, according to local wholesale men today. The new rates will be of great benefit to Walla Walla jobbing interests, and, it is believed, will lead to the establishment of additional wholesale houses here. The present rates, jobbers say, make it difficult for Walla Walla to compete with Spokane and Portland, even in this immediate territory.

The members of the transportation committee of the Commercial Club, of which Paul L. Voeberg, manager for Wadhams & Kerr, is chairman, are authorities for the statement that the 10 per cent reduction will be announced. As yet no official notification has been sent out by the railroad company, but this is expected in the near future.

Why Shouldn't the Standard Oil Company make the best oil?

Over 40 years experience in the refining of petroleum—plant equipment and refining methods that are unequalled—supervised by experts that have spent their lives in the manufacture of good lubricants—Why shouldn't Zerolene be the oil best suited to your motor?

ZEROLENE the Standard Oil for Motor Cars

is scientifically refined from selected California crude— asphalt-base. Engineers of the Packard and other automobile companies, Exposition Juries, a noted French chemist, U.S. government experts, — all have recently declared that, for motor-cylinder lubrication, an oil made from western asphalt-base crude can be made not only equal but superior to paraffine-base oils. And Zerolene is not only made from the right crude, but made right—the best oil the Standard Oil Company can make. When you empty the crank-case refill with Zerolene.

'MEMORY SHIP' SAILS

Tribute to Sailor and Soldier Dead Paid on Boston.

RELIEF CORPS TAKES PART

Impressive Programme and Strewing of Flowers on Water Feature by Innovation of Launching Miniature Flower Craft.

With spars and hull rose-hidden and a tiny silken American flag bravely waving from the mast-head, a "memory ship" set sail down the broad Willamette from beside the training ship Boston, at the conclusion of brief, impressive memorial services on the deck of the cruiser yesterday morning.

White-haired women from Summer Post, No. 21, Women's Relief Corps, and Scout Young Auxiliary of the Harbor Patrol, or boarded by gangplank on the port side from the east bank of the river.

"Nearer, My God, to Thee" was the opening song. There followed the ritual for the memorial led by Mrs. Mildred Newell, president of the Harbor Patrol, and the playing of the Star-Spangled Banner by the Scout Young Auxiliary of the Harbor Patrol.

Prayer by Rev. J. Richard Olson, chaplain for the Oregon Naval Militia, was followed by the singing of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," and the sounding of taps concluded the service.

The launching of the flowery "memory ship" was the feature and innovation of the service and occurred as the waters were being showered with roses. The ship was the handiwork of women of the Scout Young Auxiliary of the Spanish American War Veterans.

As the memory ship floated downstream, it was followed by the singing of "Tossing Flowers on the Billows," a song composed by Le Moine Raymond Clarke, of Sedgwick Relief Corps, No. 1, of Salem, and set to music by Z. M. Parvin, of Portland, member of Sedgwick Post, No. 19, G. A. R., of Salem. The concluding stanza was:

On the bright and sparkling waters Drop the flowers high and rare; Tribute to our hero martyrs, Loving hands doth drop them there; You're of those the dasher bravest, Give to country life and all; Talon and Old Glory, saving, Answering to the Nation's call; Comrades sleeping there alone; Everlasting sm'th' their pillow, Lifts to life, gives each a crown.

Prayer by Rev. J. Richard Olson, chaplain for the Oregon Naval Militia, was followed by the singing of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," and the sounding of taps concluded the service.

AFTER SIX YEARS OF SUFFERING

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

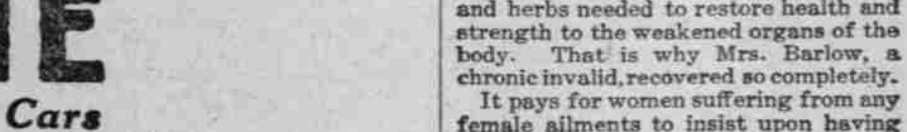

Columbus, Ohio.—"I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 173 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and it did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life."—Mrs. J. S. BARLOW, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains just the virtues of roots and herbs needed to restore health and strength to the weakened organs of the body. That is why Mrs. Barlow, a chronic invalid, recovered so completely. It pays for women suffering from any female ailments to insist upon having Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
