Serious Loss Is Admitted. Shattered During Battle. The frankness of the Admiralty an-mouncement concerning the serious na-ture of the British losses and the ap-parently small losses of the Germans The frankness of the Admiralty an-nouncement concerning the serious na-ture of the British losses and the ap-parently small losses of the Germans in comparison led to the assumption in most minds that the British vessels must have been led into a mine field. Following quickly upon the Admiralty announcement came the German offi-cial version of the fight, which, in gen-eral, confirms the British account, but carries the claim that the battleship Warspite also was sunk and other Brit-ish battleships damaged. The German losses, according to the small cruiser Wiesbaden, sunk by gun-fire, and the battleship Pommern by a torpedo, while the cruiser Frauenlob and a number of torpedo-boats are missing.
