Following the election and general responses made by the various officers, the afternoon was occupied by an exhibition of esthetic and fancy dancing by little students of Mrs. P. E. Harlow.

Contributing to the interesting programme of the afternoon Miss Jessie Jewett sang a couple of solos, accompanied by Miss Marie Delgard at the piano. Miss Marguerite Egbert gave two original monologues and Mrs. Nadyné Baker Metzger gave a charming reading.

The lawn surrounding the house was artistic with strings of gaily hued Chinese lanterns, bobbing merrily among the flowering shrubs and vines of the gardens, and the continuous stream of prettily attired guests added to the picturesque ensemble.

Dancing after the supper closed a charming affair, and a vote of appreciation was given to Mrs. Herick, chairman of the event, and to Mrs. Pierce, who graciously gave the use of her house and gardens.

According to the plans made yesterday at their meeting in the Library, those interested will have to get about 1000 signatures a day to their petition.

Mrs. Adah Wallace Urruh presided and gave a short talk in which she stated some of the arguments she said would be offered by those interested in what she termed "the brewers' amendment." Mrs. Urruh declared that "even for sacramental purposes liquor is not necessary and is contrary to Scriptures."

J. S. Fox told what the state committee of the Prohibition party is doing.

Miss Grace Amos is one of the active members working for the success of the new club. On the petition committee are Mrs. Emma H. S. Warren, Mrs. B. Lee Paget, Mrs. Alice M. Shearer, Mrs. H. L. Vorse and Mrs. Lillian Amos.

Here is an interesting outline of the career of Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, the new president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs: President local board, Los Angeles biennial, 1902; vice-president-at-large and chairman programme committee California Federation of Women's Clubs, 1904-5; chairman reception committee, St. Louis biennial, 1904; president California Federation, 1905-6; General Federation officers—Director, 1904-6; state secretary, 1906-7; chairman programme committee, St. Paul biennial, 1908; treasurer, 1908-9; first vice-president, 1908-12; member executive committee, 1908-12; chairman Pacific states, 1908-12; chairman peace committee, 1912-16; chairman biennial committee of the board, San Francisco biennial, 1910-12; charter member Friday Morning and Ebell clubs, Los Angeles; president Civic Association, two terms.

Mrs. Cowles' maiden name was Virginia Hill. She is a near relative of Samuel Hill.

At the regular meeting of the Palling Parent-Teacher Association, held May 31, the following officers were elected for the year: President, Mrs. R. R. Poucher; vice-president, Mrs. L. Layton; secretary, Miss Eva S. Rice.

At the country home of Mrs. Adelt Yergen, near Aurora, Mrs. J. W. Sadler and Mrs. Yergen were hostesses to the Aurora Woman's Club for a closing musical of the year. The guests motored out in cars provided by the committee which had the day in charge. The programme, under the able direction of Mrs. Guy N. Hickok and given wholly by club members, was well received by an appreciative audience. The numbers, which consisted principally of compositions by American composers, were interesting and comprehensive. The programme followed: "The Mardi Gras" (Kroegmann); Mrs. Frank L. Miller; "Twickenham Ferry" (Mrs. Diana Sadler) (MacDowell); Mrs. Guy N. Hickok; "Abt Vogler" (Brown); Mrs. Hickok; "Barchetta" (Nevin); Mrs. Sadler; "Serenade" (MacDowell); Mrs. Hickok; "Witcher Dance" (MacDowell); Mrs. Miller; "Pavane" (MacDowell); Mrs. Sadler; "Silver Spring" (Macdon); Mrs. Hickok.

From coats to suits and frocks the past-middle-aged woman will observe that this year she has the opportunity of her life to look as young as "she feels." Even quite gay sports suits are being sold to grandmothers who haven't been out of black, gray or brown for 10 years.

As soon as the sun comes out a number of women and girls may be seen on the street sans jacket or wrap. Just now sports coats are beginning to come down in price, and there is still a large supply on the local market. No matter if the sun does shine, as yet the weather has not been warm enough to warrant the discarding of wraps with any degree of safety to health. To meet the demand for light wraps light silk coats, which are just the thing for warm days and balmy evenings, are being displayed in the shops. They come in bright, attractive colors or in soft tones that will harmonize with most any frock. Jersey cloth sports coats, sweaters of wool and silk and innumerable other Summer wraps may be had for less than was even anticipated a short time ago.

Woodburn, Or., June 4.—Will you please give me a recipe on "how to can salmon eggs like the kind we buy in cans?" I tried to fix some but they are too watery inside and won't stay on a hook. I thank you for the information. A SUBSCRIBER.

I have no experience in canning salmon eggs. Perhaps some correspondent may kindly come to the rescue.

Portland, Or., April 24.—I am putting up a large number of eggs in silicate of soda solution and am not sure I have the proportions correct. Is it 10 parts of water to one part of soda? Thanking you for your answer. A. K.
The proportions 10 parts water to one part silicate of soda (water glass) is that recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. If the silicate of soda is in powdered form use one part powder to 30 parts water. Boil and cool the water before mixing. Use perfectly fresh, clean eggs and do not wash them. Keep covered in a cool place. Hot paraffin should be used for sealing the lids of stone crocks when large quantities are put up. Wooden containers, if used, should be coated with paraffin before the eggs and water glass solution are put in.

STYLE TIPS FROM PORTLAND STORES

OH, what has become of grand-mamma? A detour of the local shops shows that grandma, that venerable lady who was accustomed in former days to deck the fire in an old-fashioned drab garb with a coarse shawl across her shoulders, has ceased to exist. Nothing so loudly declares the customs of the feminine world as these shops, and, as a matter of fact, there is no provision for the "old lady." Youth has usurped her purple and gray, and nothing is left distinctly her own.

Grandma has been rejuvenated. She's a young thing now and she must wear the same sort of clothes as her daughter. When she promenades with her fashionable descendant she looks for all the world like her schoolgirl chum. Her jacket has the same chic flare and her skirts aren't a wee bit longer.

"I want to look at a lingerie dress suitable for myself," said an elderly, but not a very old, Portlander, about yesterday. Lingerie didn't come in gray or black, she was told, when she asked for it. Neither could she get brown. But what she did get was an adorable pink, which was beautiful with her masses of silver hair. The sleeves were long, the skirt was short and rolled, and the frivolous embroidered collar fairly made her beam. "I never was so happy in a dress before," she said.

"You see," the shop's buyer explained, "people have gotten over the idea that because a woman has passed certain milestones and has grand-children that she must look as sad and old as possible. They are making happy clothes for people to be young as yet, and innumerable possibilities."

DOMESTIC SCIENCE

PORTLAND, Or., April 24.—Kindly give a good recipe for ginger cookies. Thanking you. E. T.
IHOPE you will like the following:
Ginger cookies—One cup brown sugar, one cup molasses, three-quarters cup shortening, two eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon soda, one and one-half teaspoons ginger or one teaspoon ginger and one-half teaspoon each, cloves, cinnamon and Sassafras. Flour to roll, probably about six cups. Cream the butter and sugar, add the other ingredients and one cup flour, if making cake. Beat well. Add flour to make of a rolling consistency. Roll carefully so as not to make the cookies stick to the board and need more flour, since too much flour will give hard, uninteresting cookies. Roll out about one-eighth of an inch thick and bake in a moderate oven. They are less likely to burn if baked on an inverted bak-
