Following is a summary of the crop conditions in Oregon for the week ending June 6, 1916, as reported to the local office of the Westhern Bureau by special correspondents throughout the state:

In many respects the last week was the most favorable one of the season for growth, because it was slightly warrier and there was more sumshine than that prevailing heretofore. It was, however, too cool for rapid growth, and the season is still very backward. There were several frosty nights in the high, level counties east of the Cascada warrier of the conditions are better than in years.

REDMOND SUFFERS LOSSES

Plenty of Water and Lack of Wind Save Town From Greater Damage.

REDMOND, Or., June 7 .- (Special.)-Close to $20,000 worth of damage was done by fire here today when the general merchandise store of Tallaferro Brothers, Reynolds' barbershop and the J. D. Butler drug store suffered heavy The fire started in the rear of the barbershop from some unknown cause. The shop was unoccupied, as Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds were in Portland attending the Rose Festival.

The Redmond Hotel and the Lynch & Roberts department store were threatened for a time, but heroic work on the part of the volunteer fire de-partment saved them from destruction. A good supply of water and lack of wind saved these places.
