THE SANDMAN STORY

By Mrs. F. A. Walker

How Mr. Fox Was Found Guilty.

MR. BEAR had missed his meat pie and cakes and many good things he had in his closet, so one night he thought he would watch and see who was stealing his food.

He had just cooked a nice fat pig and a piece of roast beef and put them on the shelf in his pantry, and he did not intend anyone should get them if watching could prevent them from being stolen.

So Mr. Bear sat down with his gun by the window to watch, but Mr. Bear blinked and blinked, and after a while he fell asleep and snored so loudly that he did not hear or see the thief.

When morning came he jumped up and looked in the pantry, and sure enough the food was gone and his basket as well.

So off trotted Mr. Bear to Judge Dog, who lived over the hill, and complained of Mr. Fox.

"We will arrest him at once," said Judge Dog, "and have him tried for stealing."

So Judge Dog sent Policeman Dog and Policeman Bear to arrest Mr. Fox. Mr. Fox was in bed when they reached his house and could not come to the door, he said, because he was sick and had a lame shoulder.

"Well, we will come in," said Policeman Dog, pushing the door open. "We just want to look about a bit."

"Come right in," said Mr. Fox with a loud groan. "I am sorry I am too sick to give you a better welcome, but I am a very sick fellow, I can tell you."

And then he groaned and groaned until Policeman Bear said: "He is really too sick to have been out last night. I guess we better be going. 'Don't be too sure of that,'" said Policeman Dog. "He is as 'sly' enough for anything."

Mr. Fox pulled the bedclothes up around his head and ears and groaned louder than ever, but he was watching the policeman all the time, and he was smiling, too.

"Let them hunt," he thought. "They'll not find a thing but the basket and that I painted red, and it must be dry by this time. Mr. Bear cannot swear it is his, so I am safe."

But Policeman Dog found some bones in the pantry, and the basket, and while it was red, and Mr. Bear had said his was just a plain basket, Policeman Dog noticed that Fox with a very fresh looking, and a little sticky, too.

"Well, Brother Fox, I guess you will have to come with me," Judge Dog wants to see you," he said. "But I am not able to walk, I am a sick fellow," groaned Mr. Fox.

"Oh! we will carry you," said Policeman Dog. "What have you to say to Mr. Bear's charge, Mr. Fox?" asked Judge Dog.

"Your honor, I am a sick fellow and not well enough to be here, but I must defend my good name," groaned Mr. Fox.

Hairs Quickly Vanish After this Treatment

(Helps to Beauty). Science has aided in simplifying the banishing of hairy growth from the face, and according to a beauty specialist, the most effective treatment yet devised consists of applying a delicate paste to the hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. When this paste is removed and the skin washed every trace of hair has vanished. Be sure to get real delatone.—Adv.
