BY ROSCOE FAWCETT. With Manager Patterson under sus-pension and doing a periscope act through a knothole—stymied as it were behind the visitors' bench—the Vernon leaders went down to a 6-5 defeat by Portland yesterday in the opening game of the series.

It was a 10-inning affair—hotter than a Yucatan Summer outside and fairly quivering with excitement and managerial lookeving throughout most managerial jockeying throughout most managerial jockeying throughout most of its hectic meandering. Vaughn and Nixon batted in victory in the tenth.

The game was twice won by the Beavers, and, we presume from a knothole perspective, it was lost fully as many times. Patterson was so busy "panning" President Baum after the game that we plumb forgot to get the knothole angle of it.

in lieu of a pinch hitter in the sighth the score stood 3-2 in Vernon's favor, and, candidly, it looked like another win for the leaders.

After Wilie's drive through first base, however, Manager McCredie, of Portland, sent Billy Speas out to bat for Southworth, and this bit of strategy turned affairs topsy turvy. Speas knocked a two-bagger into right center and tied the score. Guisto followed and tied the score, Guisto followed with a screaming single to center, scor-

With the count of 5-3 against them the Vernons came back lashing their figurative Tigerish tails in the ninth. What they did to Byron Houck and what his successor Southpaw Keily almost did to himself would make interesting fodder for Veda the Vampire, or some such quivering masterpiece of silent drama.

Game Commission Decides to Make Exhibit at State Fair This Fall With Varied Features.

The late season experienced this Spring held back other crops besides the rose crop this year, as was ascer-tained yesterday at the meeting of the Oregon Fish and Game Commission. The fishing license crop, for instance. The income up to date from the sale of fishing licenses is $6000 less than it was last year. This is attributed to the high water and cold weather in May, which made fishing rather poor. With the advance of the season, however, the Commission believes that the number of licenses taken out will be restored to normal.
