NEW LAW MAY BE MADE EFFECTIVE AT ONCE—FEARS FOR AMERICANS EXPRESSED.

WASHINGTON, June 16—New General Carranza's reception of a series of American demands against the result of the Mexican Army, in the opinion of President Wilson, tonight at 10 p.m. The Mexican government, in the meantime, has rejected those demands, and the possibility of any good will on the part of Mexico toward the United States is unlikely. The United States will send forward tomorrow a message through Great Britain to Mexico, expressing the hope that the two countries may reach an understanding. The message will be sent with the understanding that the United States will not send any military force into Mexico.

No indication has been given that the Mexican government will accept any of the conditions of the United States. The United States, however, is determined to make peace, and its negotiations with Mexico will proceed.

Note to the above story:

"The United States, in demanding a treaty of peace and a treaty of peace, is undertaking the business of the Government to the United States, and the United States to the Mexican government."
