

VALLEY MILLS TO HAVE PARITY RATES

Portland Gateway Is to Be Opened, Allowing Competition With Northern Plants.

3 LINES AGREE ON PLAN

Valley Lumber Shipments to Move on New Rate as Far as Minneapolis, With Only 3-Cent Charge on Local Haul.

Willamette Valley lumber manufacturers soon will have entrance to the markets of Minnesota and the Dakotas through a combination of rates to be applied by the Southern Pacific jointly with the Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

Traffic officials of the three affected lines recently met in Chicago and tentatively agreed on the plan, which substantially is as follows:

The Willamette Valley mills are to have a parity with the Portland mills on all shipments going to St. Paul, Minneapolis and points in Minnesota as far west as the Dakota line.

The valley mills must pay a differential of approximately 3 cents over the Portland mills on business in the Dakotas.

Advantage to Valley Mills Big. It is probable that some other concessions also will be made to the valley interests, but the foregoing seems to be the most important.

The advantage of this arrangement will give to the valley mills business apparent when it is pointed out that at present the valley mills must pay the full local rate from origin to Portland on business going into the Minnesota and Dakota territory.

Minnesota and the Dakotas offer a rich field for lumbermen of the Northwest, but under existing arrangements the mills in Portland, Puget Sound and Gray's Harbor have enjoyed this trade exclusively.

Northern Mills to Protest. That the Portland and Northern manufacturers will not allow the proposed rates to go into effect, a protest seems certain. However, they are not formally advised of the particulars in the case and are not prepared, therefore, for action.

The policy of the Portland mills and of the Puget Sound mills always has been to contend for the maintenance of a substantial differential over their competitors wherever they have an advantage in distance.

The contention of the valley mills, in this particular case, will be that the haul to Minnesota is so long that the difference in distance at this end is not sufficient to be material.

If the new rates go into effect it will establish a precedent, too, in the practices of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific. Heretofore those roads have made efforts to confine the local business to their own lines in Minnesota and North Dakota to mills on their own lines in Western Washington and in Portland.

PEACE PARADE BILLED, TOO

Rival Factions at the Dalles to Try to Outdo Each Other. THE DALLES, Or., June 20.—(Special.)—Two parades, one in favor of preparedness and one in favor of peace, will be held in the Dalles today. The preparedness parade will be led by a drummer, a fife and a color-bearer, representing the "Spies of '76," while the peace parade will march to the accompaniment of "I Did Not Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier" and other anti-war songs.

The sentiment here was so strong in favor of a preparedness parade that the committee in charge of the celebration was compelled to compromise it. A strong sentiment among members of the committee was opposed to preparedness and, to soothe their feelings, it was also agreed to have a "peace" parade. The rival factions are now working energetically to surpass one another by enlisting recruits.

NOTED TEACHER HERE

MISS SARA D. HARKER RENEWING PORTLAND FRIENDSHIPS. Family of Pioneer Stock, but Sisters Now Conduct Select Boarding School at Palo Alto.

A distinguished guest in Portland is Miss Sara D. Harker, of Palo Alto, Cal., who was formerly of Portland.

Miss Harker's professional life was social in character. Her activities among Portland's most exclusive and oldest families, and being renewed after an absence of 19 years from this city.

For several years she was a teacher at the Bishop Scott Academy and her mother, Mrs. Sara E. Harker, taught in the Portland public school for 28 years.

Her father was of the well-known business firm of Harker Brothers, who later grew into a union, Taber Harker, was the head of the San Francisco business.

The Harker family is of the pioneer stock of Oregon. Her grandfather, Polk, and his family came across the plains when Portland was hardly started.

At the Dalles he stopped to build a raft for the women and children to cross over, while he, with the men of the party, came around the foothills with the wagons. It was here that he contracted a cold and died.

His body is buried somewhere between Portland and the Dalles, but because it was carefully hidden to keep the Indians from molesting it, Harker descendants have never been able to locate the resting place.

Mrs. Sara E. Harker, a daughter and her two daughters, Miss Catherine Harker and Miss Sara D. Harker, are all members of the Oregon Association of Pioneers and even during their absence from Portland have taken keen interest in all its activities.

Her father was a Vassar graduate and who taught successfully for five years at Mills College, is associated with the school, now in its fifteenth number among its pupils and graduates girls from the best families all over the United States, including several Portland girls.

Miss Harker is renewing her social life in Portland and numerous teas and dinners are being given for her. She is domiciled at the Hotel Vancouver until her departure July 1 for Palo Alto.

CLICQUOT CLUB GINGER ALE Maybe you don't know good ginger ale at all. There is such a thing as ginger ale that is made of ginger, and the best ginger at that. Clicquot Club, instead of being a small local ginger ale, is the National Ginger Ale of America—sold in every state—because it is a real ginger ale. It has the character, the flavor, the sparkle and life, the purity and all-round excellence that it had to have before it could gain the recognition and approval of the thousands of families that buy it and drink it and like it.
