RAIN AIDS WHEAT OUTLOOK Mare Than Inch Falls in Country Adjacent to Milton. MILTON, Or. June 22-(Special.)A to- tal of 1.04 inches of rain has failen here in the last 24 hours, adding much to the prospects for a good wheat crop during the coming harvest. Although in a few fields where wheat was unnumily rank, the beavy rains caused some damage, generally the rain was a money-maker for farmers. Most of the wheat is silvady in the head, and with plenty of moisture the heads will fill out to an unusual plumpness, making up for part of the thin stand. Metal Markets.
