Coal to Advance 25 Cents a Ton August 1.

SUPPLY OF WOOD IS SHORT

Increase of 50 Cents a Cord June 1 Is Likely to Be Followed by Addition of $1 Next Winter, According to Dealers.

Another rise in the price of both coal and wood seems inevitable for the householder. Notice has been given that coal will be advanced 25 cents a ton on August 1, and dealers predict an advance of $1 a cord on wood before the Spring of 1917.

Dealers say that they are unable to obtain a normal supply because of the unusual weather conditions of the past Winter and Spring. It is estimated that for Portland, a community whose normal wood con-sumption per Winter approximates 90,000 cords, there are not more than 25,000 cords available for Winter use. Another cause, dealers say, is that but little wood has been cut this Summer, as when logging operations and lumber mills started the woodcutters flocked to the camps and mills, raising the price of labor for woodcutting. the price of labor for woodcutting.

It has been said by some dealers that shippers find themselves with such limited quantities of wood that all who are shipping to Portland at all are holding the wood at $3.50 a cord, f. o, b. shipping point. Others refuse to ship at all, saying that they have the promise of at least $3.75 a cord, under the same shipping agreements, if they hold their wood until the Winter months. With such conditions existing, dealers look for the prices to soar before the

With such conditions existing, dealers look for the prices to soar before the coming Winter has passed.

During the past Winter a number of manufacturers, needing quantities of fuel, thought of economizing by using crude oil. While the price of gasoline remained around 12 cents they were able to gain some advantage, it is said, but when the price of gasoline started to rise, more crude oil was used for keeping the price of gasoline as low as possible, forcing the price of crude oil so high that dealers say there is little choice now among the kinds of fuel to be used from the standpoint of economy.

Dealers generally declared an advance of 50 cents a cord June 17, as-serting that after that time they would Multnomah Camp No. 77, Woodmen of the World, placed on the roll of honor the following members of the National Guard from that camp, Harry Cooley, L. H. Cooley, P. M. Gonzales, A. E. Smith, H. R. Wythberg, A. C. Tice, L. I. Mitchell, F. F. Griffith, L. A. Williams, K. J. Nordberg, Charles Garland, E. E. White, C. While, W. F. Prestel. At the last meeting of the camp it was voted that their dues be paid, and they were commended for their patriotism by the several hundred members present. Their dependents, if any, also will be looked after if necessary.
