

GERMANS RECOVER FROM FIRST SHOCK

Allies Repulse Fierce Counter Attacks and Maintain Furious Drive.

TEUTONS REINFORCE FRONT

Troops Rushed to Battle Lines on East and West—Guns Taken by British Bear Date of 1874. Verdun Fight Resumed.

LONDON, July 12.—The Anglo-French offensive is maintaining itself as rigorously as ever against the most determined attacks, which the Germans are now delivering against the front in Northern France. The Germans have thrown reinforcements into the breach, having had ample time to recover from the first shock and the unexpected strength of the British and French attacks.

There is no doubt the Germans had supposed the French to be enfeebled greatly south of the Somme because of the number of troops needed in the defense of Verdun against the forces of the German Crown Prince. The fact that the allies are progressing so methodically and even against German attacks gives the people of the British and French nations the greatest satisfaction.

British Retake Lost Ground. No events of a sensational character on the front in Northern France were announced today, but General Haig in a brief bulletin tonight recounts the recovery by the British of all the ground lost yesterday. The Germans have repulsed two heavy German attacks against Contalmaison and of steady progress by the British in the Trochu Wood, the scene of much heavy and desperate fighting during the past few days.

Incidentally General Haig comments on the heavy casualties sustained by the Germans in their attacks against the British forces north of the Somme. From General Haig's bulletin it is seen that the British are driving steadily towards the crest of the ridge commanding the wide Bapaume plateau. According to the view of French military experts there are no less than 600,000 German bayonets opposing the advance of General Haig's forces.

German Use Old Guns. The Reuter correspondent at the British front reports that two German field guns bearing the date "1874" have been captured by the British. The correspondent wonders whether, without attaching undue importance to the incident, these guns do not indicate the straits to which the Germans are beginning to be reduced in order to find sufficient armament.

On the Russian front the battle continues along the Stokhod River with the same determination to win. The Germans are reported to be bringing up all possible reinforcements, and guns in an endeavor to save Kovel, against which the Russians are advancing.

PARIS, July 12.—Although the battle in Picardy which has been raging for ten days is absorbing most of the attention of the German commanders, they were able yesterday to revive the struggle at Verdun, making some advances there and delivering several sharp local attacks in the Lorraine and Vosges sections, probably to conceal the transfer of troops to the Somme region.

German Left Advances. Having maintained their grip on the Thiaumont work, but failing to debouch therefrom, the Germans are now trying to push forward their left flank. Their artillery was busy all day yesterday; all night and this morning they worked up the bombardment to a pitch equal to any that has gone before. Then the bombardment ceased, making way for the infantry.

One column sought to work its way along the railroad which runs around Hill 320 towards the Fleury station situated in the eastern extremity of the village, but it melted away before the French fire, as did another column attacking Chapire Wood.

Teutons Gain Some Advantage. Columns debouching from Vaux fort, however, succeeded in getting a bare footing after intense fighting in the Fumin wood to the west and in the ruined Damloup battery, one of the subsidiary outer defenses of Verdun which lies three-quarters of a mile southwest of the village on the edge of the Lauffee plateau.

The advantage which the Germans obtained was not great, since the battery is swept by guns from Souville, Tannes and Bourvaux.

Tuesday's operations on the Somme were confined to completing the work of Sunday and Monday of clearing the Germans out of the few isolated positions they still held in the bend of the Somme opposite Peronne. The French troops on the north of the Somme are continuing their preparations for the next movement.

On the left bank of the Meuse a rather spirited artillery action occurred in the sector of Le Mort Hamme. On the right bank the Germans undertook this morning a strong effort in the direction of Fort Souville. About 10 o'clock, after intense artillery preparation, a strong attack with effectives of six regiments debouched from the sector of Fleury and the Vaux and Chapire woods. Notwithstanding the violence of the assaults, which were launched in massed formation on a front relatively narrow for the day, succeeded at the cost of enormous losses in gaining only a little ground in the neighborhood of the chapel of Sainte Piere at the intersection of the Fleury and Vaux roads. The bombardment continued with great violence in the whole region of Souville, Chenois and Lorraine. An attempt against one of our trenches east of Badonvillers was completely repulsed.

Italian. ROME, July 12, via London.—An official report given out here today says: "Yesterday in the region of the Adige Valley we made some progress north of the Serra Valley and in the region of Malga Zugna. On the slopes north of the Pausio we partly reoccupied positions on Monte Corneo, which we lost on July 10. "On the Isonzo front there were artillery duels. Our batteries set fire to encampments of the enemy on the Isorecck-Barkeux under an enemy column

OFFICIAL WAR REPORTS

German Western Front. BERLIN, via London, July 12.—German troops on the right bank of the River Meuse yesterday pushed forward their positions to a point near Souville and the Lauffee works, taking 39 officers and 2196 men, says the official statement issued today by the German army headquarters staff. The statement says: "The fighting, which began on the afternoon of July 10, on both sides of the Bapaume-Albert road near the Contalmaison and Mametz wood, as well as in fighting in Trones wood and south thereof, is continuing with bitter stubbornness. "South of the Somme the French suffered a check in a great attack which they prepared on the Bellefleur court front. The attack broke down completely under our fire and weak forces which had been thrown against the Massonne-Barleux sector fled to their starting point with heavy losses. "At several points on the Champagne front east and southeast of Rheims, northeast of Massiges and northwest of Fleury, partial French attacks were repulsed. "In the Meuse region there were only small engagements to the left of the river. To the right of the river, we pushed forward our positions nearer Souville and the Lauffee works, capturing 39 officers and 2196 men. A strong counter-attack was repulsed completely. "German patrol engagements southwest of Dixmude and southwest of Cerny, in the Aisne region, and also east of Bataillon were successful. "An English biplane was compelled to land within our lines near Athies, south of Peronne. An enemy aeroplane fell to earth near Soyecourt. Another was brought down by our anti-aircraft guns near Chateaucourt. In the vicinity of Dombasle, west of the Meuse, a captive balloon was shot down by our airmen."

German Eastern Front. BERLIN, via London, July 12.—Russian troops which attempted to establish themselves on the left bank of the Stokhod River in the advance toward Kovel were attacked by German troops and defeated, the War Office announced today. The statement follows: "An attempt to cross the Dvina made by weak Russian forces west of Friedriehstadt and attacks south of Narocz Lake were frustrated. "On the Stokhod front the position generally is unchanged. Russian detachments which attempted to establish themselves on the left bank of the river near Janowka were attacked. Not a single man of these detachments got on shore. The Russian continues its activity in attacks east of the Stokhod. An enemy captive balloon was shot down."

French. PARIS, July 12.—The Germans delivered two attacks last night on a French position in the neighborhood of Deadman Hill on the Verdun front. The War Office announcement of today says that both these assaults failed, breaking down under French fire. East of the Meuse, the French retook part of the ground won yesterday by the Germans. "In the operations east of the Meuse the French took 80 prisoners, of whom 40 were officers. There were no developments last night on the Somme front. "The French conducted successful raids in the Champagne and in Lorraine. "The statement says: "On the Somme we captured prisoners in the course of a small operation near Cerny. Also we delivered successful surprise attacks on trenches of the enemy between Malsona de Champagne and Le Calveir, north of Ville sur Tourbe. "On the left bank of the Meuse two attacks upon one of our trenches at Thiaumont Hill failed completely under our fire. "On the right bank a night counter-attack delivered by our troops east of the Fumin made it possible for us to reoccupy a portion of the territory taken yesterday by the enemy. We took 40 prisoners, including one officer. "In the Lorraine district, sector of Reillon, we drove the Germans back from certain trenches, where yesterday they had been attacking us. "Since the commencement of the battle, the enemy has received large reinforcements. The announcement says: "Yesterday and last night strong hostile attacks were made against several points of our new positions. "Between the main battlefield and the sea we have been actively engaged in bombarding the enemy positions and raiding his front line. Southeast of Loos a party of Royal Irish Fusiliers penetrated the enemy's trenches at a point where they were in another portion and remained there for 20 minutes, during which time heavy fighting took place in the trenches. "Many Germans were killed. Our casualties were slight. "Opposite the Hohenzollern redoubt two companies of Seaforth Highlanders forced their way into another portion of the enemy trenches after a stiff fight. Many Germans were killed or wounded. A hostile machine gun was destroyed. Several dugouts were stowed with the enemy were successfully bombed and some prisoners were taken. "Several combats in the air took place on July 10, as a result of which we destroyed one German machine, while one of our own machines was brought down by the enemy's gun fire. "A supplemental communication issued tonight by the War Office reads: "On the Somme front there was nothing to report during the course of the day. "On the left bank of the Meuse a rather spirited artillery action occurred in the sector of Le Mort Hamme. "On the right bank the Germans undertook this morning a strong effort in the direction of Fort Souville. About 10 o'clock, after intense artillery preparation, a strong attack with effectives of six regiments debouched from the sector of Fleury and the Vaux and Chapire woods. Notwithstanding the violence of the assaults, which were launched in massed formation on a front relatively narrow for the day, succeeded at the cost of enormous losses in gaining only a little ground in the neighborhood of the chapel of Sainte Piere at the intersection of the Fleury and Vaux roads. The bombardment continued with great violence in the whole region of Souville, Chenois and Lorraine. An attempt against one of our trenches east of Badonvillers was completely repulsed."

Turkish. CONSTANTINOPLE, via London, July 12.—The Russians have attempted to check the Turkish troops in the Caucasus by means of counter-attacks, but the War Office announced today that these onslaughts had been beaten off. In Mesopotamia a small body of British troops was put to flight. The announcement follows: "Trak front—the situation is unchanged. In the sector of Felabie a Turkish reconnoitering party surprised a reconnoitering party of the enemy on the right bank of the Tigris. The enemy fled, abandoning horses. "Caucasus front—Southward of the Tchokur on the day before yesterday hostile counter-attacks on the whole sector were repulsed. Forces of the enemy which succeeded in penetrating our lines were driven off by counter-attacks."

Russian. PETROGRAD, July 12, via London.—The following statement on military operations was issued today by the Russian Army headquarters: "On the whole front (from Riga to Polesie), there was intense artillery and rifle fire. German aviators dropped bombs on the station of Zamiric and the town of Niesavl, where several houses were set on fire. "Persistent fighting continues on the Stokhod front. Near the village of Grouchivka, north of Hulewice, the enemy made his advance on the right bank of the river but later was ejected therefrom. "On July 10, we made prisoners of 24 officers and 745 German and Austrian soldiers. "On the Baltic our torpedo boat destroyers during operations in the delta of the Dvina captured two large German steamers, one of which was loaded with iron ore. They brought both vessels into our port. "Caucasus front—West of the Erzerum center, we made considerable progress and captured a new line of fortified Turkish positions. "Prisoners continue to be brought in. From the second to the eighth instant 107 officers, 1684 men, 1000 horses, 1000 mules, 1000 pack animals, 100000 rounds of arms and war material was left on the line of retreat followed by the Turks. "Following is a supplemental statement issued by the Russian War Office tonight: "Our artillery dispersed Germans who were attempting to bring artillery against the Isakul works. In the sector of the Tschekowka, supported by a vigorous artillery fire, took the offensive, but were repulsed by our counter-attacks. "On the Stokhod there were artillery duels. In the region of the village of Kachovka the enemy attempted to break through the Stokhod, but were repulsed by our fire. "Caucasus front—West of Erzerum our troops having repulsed the Turks, took the town of Mamakhatum by assault. In the course of their retreat the enemy set fire to the town. We took measures to extinguish the flames."

British. LONDON, July 12.—The British have retaken the ground lost last night to the Germans, according to the official statement issued tonight, and now hold all of Mametz Wood. "Two German attacks against Contalmaison were repulsed. The text reads: "The day was marked by sharp local fighting in certain areas of Mametz Wood. We recaptured all the ground lost last night and now hold the whole wood. "We also made some progress in Trones wood. The very large number of German dead in this vicinity shows the costliness of their attack and the open a rapid fire against the enemy. "The Cossack horses are trained to participate in this maneuver and lie down when they are employed to press home an assault but to advance a line of skirmishers rapidly across the danger zone before the actual charge is started. "Horses become breakwaters. "The role of the cavalry is played when the infantry lines reach a point some 500 yards from the Austro-German positions. A swarm of cavalry is widely extended and then flung forward at headlong speed. Soon they find themselves in the ground among a rapid fire against the enemy. "The Cossack horses are trained to participate in this maneuver and lie down when they are employed to press home an assault but to advance a line of skirmishers rapidly across the danger zone before the actual charge is started. "Members of General Von Falkenhayn's staff arriving directly from headquarters could give the associated Press only a general idea of the furious nature of the fighting, confirming the English press reports in this respect, and the German correspondents in the Northern sector of the front. "For some time the correspondents in Berlin have been hearing of the astonishing use of Russian cavalry in the front south of the Swamps, and getting repeated tales of charges of masses of horsemen against entrenched and broken infantry under conditions which would make these tactics appear the height of madness. An explanation now has been received showing that there is a certain amount of method in this madness and that the Russians have devised new tactics which are employed not to press home an assault but to advance a line of skirmishers rapidly across the danger zone before the actual charge is started. "The Cossack ranks being largely used in attempts to force slightly guarded river crossings, though the Russian pioneers have devised a new scheme for the crossing of a country is interested more resistance is looked for. Long slender rafts are moored along the banks of the narrow rivers with which this swampy country is intersected, concealed by overhanging bushes. At the proper moment the upstream end of each raft is released and the current sweeps it across the river, forming a series of narrow bridges for storming parties."

German Flyers Are Defeated in Aerial Battle. FAMED BOELKE Routed. Teuton Lieutenant Returns to His Base After Exchange of 11 Volleys With Sergeant Berry. From New Haven. BY FRED B. PITNEY. PARIS, July 12.—(Special.)—Another thrilling battle has been fought between Yankee and German aviators and the Yankees have won. For the first time in several days the American aviation escadrille in the service of France made a volunteer sortie over German lines and ran into a bunch of Teutons. Corporal Dudley Hill, of Peckskill, N. Y., and Sergeant Kiffin Rockwell, of Atlanta, attacked an observation machine at once. Sergeant Norman Prince, of Boston, joined them while a powerful aviatik rushed up to the aid of the German side. All of the American machines were hit several times. Sergeant Rockwell got a bullet through his machine which took a piece out of his coat over his heart, but he was untouched. The observation machine was driven down inside the German lines and the aviatik fled at the same time. Sergeant Luf Berry, of New Haven, had a fight with Lieutenant Boelke, the famous Teuton flyer, who is always recognizable by his black and white colors. They exchanged 11 volleys and then Lieutenant Boelke returned to his base. Lieutenant William Thaw, of Pittsboro, has returned to the French front after a brief period of recuperation in Paris. Although he has not yet fully recovered from his wounds received in action, he flew on Monday over the German lines. Wisconsin Democrats Pick Men. MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 12.—William E. Wednesday's War Moves. FIGHTING desperately in the face of determined German attacks, the forces under General Haig succeeded Wednesday in gaining control of the entire Mametz Wood, which had entered the previous night by the Germans. In the same region north of the Somme the British made some progress in the Trones Wood and repulsed two heavy attacks against Contalmaison. The Germans are reported to have lost heavily in their attacks on Trones Wood. "The French and German forces south of the Somme apparently are resting, as there has been almost no fighting in the region of Ploisy since the first of the week. "Around Verdun, however, and especially on the right bank of the Meuse, bitter and heavy fighting is in progress between the forces of the German Crown Prince and the French divisions of the front. The Germans, following up their success in the region of the Damloup battery, have undertaken a strong offensive toward Fort Souville, the possession of which would strengthen their position for a further advance on Verdun. "Attacking in mass formation from the village of Fleury and the Chapire and Vaux Woods, the Germans gained ground at the intersection of the Fleury and Vaux roads. The gain, however, Paris asserts, was made at the cost of "enormous losses." Violent bombardments continue in the region of Souville, Chenois and Lauffee. There was relative calm on the left bank of the Meuse. "The fierce fighting which has marked the Russian advance across the Stokhod River toward Kovel appears to have quieted down. Petrograd says there has been fighting on this sector, but mentions only two minor attacks by the Germans which, it adds, were repulsed. There has been no activity north of the Stokhod region, but in Bukowina and Galicia the advance of General Brusiloff's troops seem to have halted for the moment. "The Russians have met with success in Armenia and report the capture of Mamakhatum, 30 miles west of Erzingan, and about the same distance from Erzingan, the objective of the Russian drive in this direction. The Turkish forces in retreating from the town which was taken by assault, set it on fire. "Fighting continues at isolated points on the Austro-Italian front and Rome reports some successes in the Adigio Valley and the recapture in part of positions on Monte Corneo. There were artillery bombardments by both sides at other points on this front."

Russians Sweep On as Austro-Germans Retire to Stokhod.

CAVALRY PLAYS BIG PART

Berlin Amazed by Dashes of Cossacks, Who, Apparently in Sheer Madness, Charge, but Win Ground by so Doing.

BERLIN, via London, July 12.—The Austro-German retreat from the Castroryak salient, just south of the Pinsk swamps, having been completed, the opposing armies have come to grips all along the line of the Stokhod River, where Von Linsingen has elected to stand and cover the approach to Kovel. "Heavy fighting already is in progress along the Stokhod but apparently it is merely a prelude of what later may be expected in the persistent and desperate campaign of the Russian commander, General Brusiloff, to reach this important railway junction regardless of losses. "The retreat, according to advices from Austrian headquarters, was for strategic purposes and the achievement is considered one of high degree. The Russians had worked well around the flanks of the oil position, and if matters and units were to be saved, the retreat over an area of several hundred square miles had to be effected at a good pace. As it was, the Austro-German forces barely reached the positions behind the British lines before they were hammering at the crossings. "Comparative quiet prevails along the rest of the eastern front. The Russian request for a short armistice in order to bury the dead at Barnovichi was granted and heavy fighting has not yet begun. "Batting of the most desperate nature is going on along the front in Picardy, but the only news available here is that contained in the German official bulletins. The German correspondents at headquarters are studying the bulletins as industriously as the neutral correspondents in Berlin, in order to produce about as little independent news of the big offensive. "British Reports Confirmed. "Members of General Von Falkenhayn's staff arriving directly from headquarters could give the associated Press only a general idea of the furious nature of the fighting, confirming the English press reports in this respect, and the German correspondents in the Northern sector of the front. "For some time the correspondents in Berlin have been hearing of the astonishing use of Russian cavalry in the front south of the Swamps, and getting repeated tales of charges of masses of horsemen against entrenched and broken infantry under conditions which would make these tactics appear the height of madness.
