Asquith, However, Tells Commons That Great Offensive Has Only Begun.

HOLIDAYS TO BE OMITTED

Workers Asked to Continue Efforts to Supply Munitions in the Continued and Overwhelming Quantities Demanded.

LONDON, July 13 .- The status of the contending armies in Flanders and France tonight is much the same as yesterday, except that the British War Office reports tonight that minor gains have been made at some points and positions already held strengthened. The French report mentions only artillery duels along the Somme. In a statement to the House of Commons today Premier Asquith said that the entente allied offensive on the western front is only in its beginning. It is commonly reported he was there by invitation of the German government. At any rate, he seems to have had no difficulty in obtaining audiences from most of the higher officials.

Dr. Aked brought back a gloomy report. There seemed to be no thought anywhere that the war would end within another year. The new statement of peace terms that would be demanded by the new dominant "war party," coupled with the governmenta announcement that peace could be had only upon a basis of consideration as to the cause of the war, appears to have hilled even the most ardent of the peace advocates.
