BY GERTRUDE P. CORBETT

THE Army and Navy were represented last night at the attractive dinner party for which Dr. and Mrs. John Forest Dickson were hosts at Alexander Court. The affair was planned as a compliment to Mrs. Peacock and her sister, Mrs. King, who are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cotton, and renewing old friendships in this city. Mrs. Peacock's late husband, Captain Peacock, U. S. N., and she were stationed in this city some years ago, at which time they were popular and identified with all the social affairs of Portland. Mrs. Peacock and her sister are now making their home in Los Angeles, and as they have a host of friends among the older residents of Portland, they are being delightfully entertained.

Covers were placed for 18 at an artistically decorated table, the predominant in the floral decoration, which included old-fashioned varieties. The pink shaded candelabra were circled with garlands of variegated blossoms, and the central feature was also of the soft tones, arranged in long, low effect.

Mrs. Eleanor Martin again was honored last night, when Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Burrill presided at a small dinner.

Mrs. Frank A. Heltkemper will entertain Friday with a bridge party, in honor of Mrs. Elwood Brown, who will leave soon for California.

Waverley Country Club is again coming to the rescue of the society folk, as well as a number of out-of-town visitors, in the shape of a tennis tournament. The tournament, which includes entries from several states, including Washington, Idaho, California and a number of towns in Oregon will open Monday, and continue until Saturday. Mrs. Landon R. Mason, Jr., is chairman of the social committee for the week, and the social committee will form a part of the tournament. She has appointed a number of prominent women to preside at the tea table each afternoon, who, in turn, will choose their own assistants.

Mid-week will be celebrated with a "tennis ball," which will be more or less informal, sports clothes and tennis gear being in order, as well as semi-evening dress for the women. In addition to the ball, on Wednesday night, there will be the dancette Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons from 4 until 6 o'clock, and, of course, each affair will close in the big dinner dance on Saturday night, which always is a gala event during the season. Croquet golf will be played each day, the committee not yet having been appointed by Mrs. Mason. Those who will be in charge of the teas and the days on which they will serve follow:

- Monday—Mrs. J. D. Farrell and Mrs. A. D. Norris.
- Tuesday—Mrs. Richard Wilder and Mrs. D. W. L. MacGregor.
- Wednesday—Mullinohah Club day.
- Thursday—Mrs. A. M. Ellsworth and Mrs. A. D. Katz.
- Friday—Mrs. Irvington day.
- Saturday—Mrs. Victor A. Johnson and Mrs. William MacMaster.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Nelson, of 112 East Forty-fifth street, were hosts recently for a birthday party in honor of Mr. Nelson's sister, Mrs. F. A. Swanson, of Minneapolis, formerly of Portland, who is here on an extended visit. The rooms were beautifully decorated with roses and sweet peas, the color scheme being pink and blue. Refreshments were served and the evening spent in music and talking over "ye olden times." Among those who participated in the happy event were Mr. and Mrs. W. Waller, Miss Blanche E. Waller, Mr. and Mrs. A. Almgren, Mrs. M. Almgren, Miss J. R. Nelson, Miss Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eland, Mrs. F. D. hundred thousand years, for I see none of my friends left in the stream from which I came."

"Somehow it did not seem odd to hear this creature talk. So Bobby replied quickly: "The reason you were wakened up is that the men are blasting a deep hole here, and that probably got the dirt loose around you."

"Don't know about that," said the funny object. "But I do know this—I wish I were back in the water; the air makes me creepy. I am an Umbak and have all kinds of muscle power in the mud at the bottom of the stream, but none in the air. If you will throw me back, I will grant any wish you make as soon as I strike the mud."

"Done," said Bobby, and he pitched the Umbak back into the creek, saying out loud: "I wish I were in a place where there was never anything to do but play."

"Whisk! Bobby felt himself carried off like an arrow to one of the white clouds floating overhead. Then he was gently dropped. He found himself in a beautiful island, green as an emerald and like a vast flower garden. On the lawn were games of all kinds, the ball diamond was marked out clearly, there were tennis courts and marble rings and every conceivable sport imaginable. But Bobby noticed that the people of the place sat about stilly under the trees.

"What do you call this place, anyway?" he asked of a boy who seemed more gloomy than the rest.

"It is called the Island of Idleness," replied the boy. "And no work is done here—nothing all day but play, and we never get anything real done. Wish I were anywhere but here. I would like work—some real, hard work—for a change."

Bobby grew tired of it, too. The constant playing of games, the having no work in which to take an interest, wearied him. There was nothing new, nothing being done. From day to day it was just the same round of games and eating.

"What's that?" Bobby said. "I wish I was back at home and mending father's fence," he sighed. Then he felt himself drop and a loud splash of cold water dashed in his face.

"Well, but I am glad that was a

DEPENDABLE PIANOS AT LOW PRICES

Good, dependable pianos at very reasonable prices may always be seen at our stores. They are pianos of character and quality; built to sell and satisfy and to retain their newness in case and tone in the after years, that are the real test of piano worth.

Cheaper pianos than we sell there are, but your safety lies not in seeing how cheap an instrument you can buy, but seeing just how much value you can secure for each dollar invested.

It is for giving real value—a full dollar's worth for every dollar expended—that our House has become celebrated. "You Money's Worth or Your Money Back" is our slogan, and it is religiously lived up to. Comparatively, we sell pianos on a more economical basis and at a greater real saving than you can buy elsewhere.

Carefully investigate our pianos, our prices, our terms—then decide.

JURY TO PROBE RIOTS
Tacoma Strike Troubles Are to Be Investigated by Court.

TACOMA, July 19.—Four Judges of the Superior Court united today in calling a grand jury to investigate strike riots in Tacoma. Forty-five names were selected from which the grand jury will be drawn, returnable Friday.

Judge Ernest M. Card said he and three other Superior Court judges had ordered a grand jury called to investigate longshoremen strike riots because disinterested citizens should have protection. He declared that law and order must be maintained, and he believed the only solution of the trouble and the only method by which wrongdoers might be ferreted out was by official investigation.

County Prosecutor Remann said that it was impossible to force witnesses to tell names of those they saw in the mob at an inquest held to determine who was directly responsible for the death of Royal Leiman, strikebreaker, who was killed last Sunday. Because of this he thought an inquisitorial body would prove beneficial.
