Schumann-Heink Is Amazed at Rich Farms and May Buy Nickum Ranch.

DALLAS GIVES WELCOME

Children Please Prima Donna, Who Sings for Them and Promises to Return—Friends Living at Ecola Receive Visit.

DALLAS, Or., Aug. 20.—(Special).—"It is a wonderful country," said Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink today as she stood on the crest of Hillside Hill, near Dallas. As far as her eyes could reach the famous prima donna saw orchards and hop yards and those things she loves best—farms with children on them.

Return Trip Promised. "If I had my music I would sing more," she said, and Dallas knew she meant it. She promised she would come back to Dallas and sing for her.

In the tonneau of the prima donna's automobile were piled flowers that the children had given her. There were many flowers that she asked the Mayor to stop at the Catholic Church. She decorated the Virgin's altar and remained alone five minutes in prayer.

From the church the run was made to Hillside and then to the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Ecola. Ecola, Madame Schumann-Heink's son and Phil Patterson were classmates at Culver Military School and the doctor and Patterson boy became great friends.

Nickum Ranch Pleases. In search of a home where she can pass her vacations now, and a permanent home for the years after, she continues her career. Madame came to Polk County. She is in love with the Nickum 800-acre stock ranch on Mill Creek near Ecola, which she has not purchased the property, she has formed plans for the further stocking of the place.

HANDS-AROUND-PACIFIC MOVEMENT GAINS FAVOR

Enforcement of Universal Peace and Infusion of Ideas for International Development Chief Objects of Propaganda.

Mr. Alexander Hume Ford and Jack London

BY LAURA BALDWIN DOOLITTLE. (Copyrighted, 1916.) ONOLLETT, Aug. 18.—(Special).—The hands-around-the-Pacific movement that originated in the fertile brain of Alexander Hume Ford was organized seven years ago in Honolulu and is now attaining such worldwide interest that one wonders whether it is not really the advance guard of a peace tribunal that will enforce universal peace and prevent a recurrence of war such as we have today.

Its slogan is "The Universal Brotherhood of Man" and its club and weekly luncheons, established for the purpose of getting together in a spirit of helpfulness, without the feeling of "I am better than thou," have brought about a spirit of friendship and friendliness between all nationalities in Honolulu. At one of these luncheons there were 18 different nationalities present, each one having a separate table and a speaker. A Russian priest, the speaker at one table, was so enthused over the spirit of universal brotherhood that he promised, should he be returned to his native Russia, to spread the doctrine of the hands-around-the-Pacific movement among his people.

Hawaiian Originator of Plan. Mr. Ford is a man of such great mental activity and energy that he is a veritable dynamo, starting vital currents that are reaching out all around this great Pacific Ocean, electrifying the people and charging the whole atmosphere with a spirit of helpfulness. This man is one of Herbert Kaufman's dreamers, one of those who accomplishes the marvelous and the enthusiastic he imparts to others in beyond conception.

Six years ago he established in Honolulu the Mid-Pacific Magazine, that gives him a medium through which he reaches the hearts of those to whom he wishes to send his messages for this great around-the-Pacific movement. The men of affairs of Honolulu finally realized his unselfish motives for promotion and sent him on a trip around the world to propagate his idea. The result of this trip was organized or helped to organize in almost all the countries about the Pacific the Hands-Around-the-Pacific Club, which pledged themselves to unite in bringing all nations together in peace and helpfulness. Their plan now is to unite all the Pacific nations in a universal peace movement, with a clearing-house in Honolulu. The clubhouse already is guaranteed and here they are to have a permanent club on each nation.

Unity of Nations Aim. When on his trip Mr. Ford interviewed the rulers of nations, dined them and put his proposition to them that it is a matter of getting together and not a matter of exploitation that the nations of the Pacific need.

From the very first it was foreseen that all the great travel bureaus must band together and work for the common good. It is their plan to issue invitations to one person most active in these bureaus to attend a convention as the guest of the Hands-Around-the-Pacific Club. This invitation not transferable, although each bureau may send as many delegates as it wishes. The club also will extend invitations to the representatives of all the great transportation companies of the Pacific, steamship and railway.

Tourists to Be Sought. Tourists are more often the first to carry the news of opportunities for homes and investments, and the prosperity and upbuilding of one country means the prosperity and upbuilding of all. FAMOUS JURIST IS OUT FOR HIGHER

Judge Grosscup, of Chicago, Says Nominee Stands for Needed Protection.

ABILITY EQUAL TO DEMAND

Easterner Declares Republican Candidate, if Elected, Will Prevent Utilization of Government for Gain.

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 20.—(Special).—There will be no utilization of the Government for private gain should Hughes be elected President. He is emphatically against that condition. His policies have a definite concrete purpose, and he has the firmness and strength of character to enforce them without vacillating in the least. In this way Peter S. Grosscup, of Chicago, former Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, who is one of the most famous jurists in the country, expressed his belief in the fitness and ability of Charles E. Hughes for chief executive of the Nation.

"Judge Grosscup is visiting his brother, E. S. Grosscup, of Tacoma. Judge Grosscup is well acquainted with Mr. Hughes, having known him before he was Governor of New York. He prefers to call the Presidential nominee, "Governor" rather than by any other title, he explains, laughingly. "We ought to have by all means a Republican protective policy," he continued, expressing his views on the greatest need of the country after the European conflict ends. "We want a protective policy, not one merely so-called as a business, such as is the Democratic policy. "We must have principles. The Democrats stand for revenue only, while the Republicans stand for protection. The details of these two policies are as different as are the principles themselves. "We have developed manufacturing in this country eight times over since the Civil War, but our population has not doubled. We want to give away that excess which we now have? "The war is in itself a protective measure which will carry out the protective policy without fear or favor. He has the strong will and determination, as well as the intellectual ability needed for this purpose.

ROAD LESSONS LEARNED. HOOD RIVER RESIDENTS FIND NEW HIGHWAY METHODS.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Aug. 20.—(Special).—Just home from long automobile tours, both Dr. H. L. Dumble, Mayor of Hood River, and E. W. Birge, an influential West Side rancher, have seen on the roads abroad principles in road building and methods of appealing to the touring automobile party that they will work for in Hood River County.

ROAD LESSONS LEARNED. HOOD RIVER RESIDENTS FIND NEW HIGHWAY METHODS. Dr. Dumble, accompanied by Mrs. Dumble and Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Coolidge, toured a total of 1000 miles while away. Leaving here he traveled to Portland, and thence to the Williams Valley to Eugene. Dr. Dumble visited automobile parks at Eugene and the famous Ashland camping place for the motor tourist.

"Hood River must have an automobile park," he declared today, "and I am going to put a proposition before the City Council. We have adequate sites west of town. If the people of Hood River do not feel that a park can be provided by taxation next year, then we will provide it by private subscription."

Mr. Birge, with his wife, has returned from the circle tour by way of White Salmon, Goldendale, North Yakima, Ellensburg, Seattle, and thence back to Portland. "The trip demonstrates to me," says Mr. Birge, "that a member of the automobile committee of the Hood River Commercial Club, that we must build more roads from gravel. We'll use gravel as far better roads than Oregon, and where money has not been available for hard-surfacing with concrete asphalt, gravel has been applied. We have already experimented with gravel here, and the best roads we now have are those of our West Side orchard districts, built by Roy D. Smith with gravel."
