O. N. Ford, of San Jose, Wins Introductory Prize After Hard Contest.

H. LORENSEN IS SECOND

Four Contestants Divide High Money in Ten Pairs of Doubles Competition—H. E. Poston Breaks 137 Out of 140.

BY EARL R. GOODWIN.

Ties were the order of the day in the opening day's events of the Pacific Coast trapshooting tournament held on the Everding Park traps of the Portland Gun Club yesterday.

Another and still another 20-bird shoot-off was called for before Ford was able to win the Pacific Coast introductory prize, and Lorenson was to be content with the second place cup, McElroy third and O'Brien fourth.

The long run of the tourney so far was placed after the record of Fred A. Dryden, the Spokane professional, who yesterday tied Hugh E. Poston, of San Francisco, for high man in the 100-bird contest, but lost out by one bird in the grand average out of the 140 registered targets.

High Amateur Score Divided. High amateur of the day in the seven 20-target affairs was settled between O. N. Ford, of San Jose, and H. Lorenson, of Newman, Cal., each with 134.

TROOP PAROLS 20 MILES OF LINE

Oregon Soldiers Ride as Near as Possible to Boundary of Mexico.

MEN STEP ON FOREIGN SOIL

But They First Reach Over and Bring Handful of Sand to United States Side and Stand on It.

BY WILL G. MAC RAE.

WITH TROOP A, Calexico, Cal., Sept. 12.—(Special.)—Troop A took a 20-mile border patrol ride today within three feet of the Mexican line.

About half a mile from camp the troop left the main traveled road. At times the dust rose in such columns that only with the most careful watching could the border stakes be seen.

At various points where hats were made, the troopers amused themselves by standing as close to the line as possible. Reaching over the line and gathering up a handful of sand from the Mexican side, they would stand on it and proclaim that they were standing on Mexican soil.

Discharged Men Leave. Lance Corporal Thomas Sweeney and Trooper Thomas H. French, the two members of Troop A who received their discharges at Campo while en route to Calexico, and who are about to leave for their discharge reconstructions by the War Department, will leave tonight for Portland.

Because the troop cook, Guy E. Chapman, applied for a discharge and it was granted, there have been several changes in the messhouse. Richard R. Vineyar, who has held the position as mess sergeant since the start of the march, on his own request has been reduced to ranks and Corporal George S. Durant, was appointed mess sergeant.

Shoe Salesman Troop Cook. The position of troop cook has been filled by Trooper Cyril P. Maginnis. Trooper Maginnis in private life is one of Portland's star shoe salesmen, but he has shown that he knows just as much about cooking as he does about the quality of shoe leather.

Both Captain Helme and Captain Helme, received telegrams from Portland today requesting that both commanders telegraph Camp Withcombe to have the troop A men sent to the place of their discharge. Captain Helme asked that 28 recruits be sent to the battery and before the artillery soldiers returned to camp they had covered a distance of 20 miles.

The battery crossed over a great number of bridges thrown across the big irrigation ditches, with the approach on either side of the bridge to teach the wheel horses to hold back the big guns and the caissons without the use of a brake.

SOME GUARDSMEN REFUSE

Withcombe yesterday. For a time it threatened to become serious. Company M of the Portland, the first to complete its muster roll and to take the oath. The boys, evidently feeling that they were in the line of duty, the first, formed in a serpentine column and started to parade through the streets of the other companies, calling out their commands as they filed in line and follow their example.

Football Rush Excites. The men of the other companies greeted them with cheers and laughter. All proceeded well until they reached Company M's street. There they encountered a barricade of men across the street entrance.

Company C stood back for a moment, then formed in football formation and rushed. A sharp struggle followed. In an instant scores of men were sprawling on top of one another on the ground.

Sergeant Waburn seemed to be the leader of the invaders. He urged the men to repel the invaders. Eustice Groce, formerly Captain of the Lincoln High School football team and a member of Company C, sent the sergeant to the ground by executing a flying tackle. Private Groce is suffering some severe bruises on his ribs. Members of his company say that he was kicked when he was down.

Minor Casualties Reported. Roy Lawrence, of Company C, is nursing a black eye. A few other minor injuries complete the casualty list. It is apparent, though, that the incident has engendered considerable feeling between the members of the two companies. Evidence of this is the expressed determination of Company C to make another raid on Company M's street.

CHINA IS PICTURED

Federal Agent Says Republic Idea Is Not New.

Julian P. Arnold, Who Has Lived in Orient for 20 Years, Tells of Growing National Spirit and General Awakening.

A republican form of government is not a new experiment in China, according to Julian P. Arnold, United States consul at Hankow, China, who is lecturing before the School of Commerce of the University of Oregon.

China had a republic between 3000 and 4000 years ago, even before the Greeks and the Romans had begun to consider the first principles of popular government, and now, after a cycle of thousands of years, they are back trying it out again.

This was only one of an innumerable array of interesting facts about China which Mr. Arnold gave, for he has been in the Orient for nearly 20 years and he knows his China "like a book," having traveled throughout all its provinces, even to the far districts of Tibet.

The new emergence of a National spirit is a matter of only a few recent years, he said. "When I first went to China the people took no notice of National holidays and the Chinese flag was never displayed. Now everywhere the flag is in evidence and there is a growing spirit of nationalism."

The unconquerable quality of the Chinese he showed by calling attention to the fact that they have twice passed under the control of other races—and that in both cases the Chinese race has absorbed its conqueror without apparent change in its own characteristics.

"America is held in the highest regard in China. In my travels, when I told anyone I was an American, he would raise his thumb, indicating 'top-notch; the very best,' but when I began to experiment by giving my nationality as something else, I noticed that the thumb did not come up."

Mr. Arnold illustrated his lecture with a series of beautiful scenes showing the great roads, the river traffic, architecture and the massive scenery along the great rivers of China. He will go today to Eugene, where he is to lecture before the School of Commerce of the University of Oregon.

On Monday evening a meeting of the members of the Hillsdale community was held and plans for the organization of a Community Club were discussed. A J. Ray was elected temporary chairman. Next Monday the organization will be effected. Hillsdale expects to be recognized as an important suburb, as the Capital Highway and the new Hillsboro Highway to be built next Spring, will converge at that place.
