Colorado Tungsten Wealth Grows.

DENVER, Sept. 15.—Colorado marketed 1505 tons of ore and concentrates of tungsten valued at $2,23,000 the first six months this year, according to figures made public here today.

Speaking at the kincheon yesterday of the committee, held at noon in the Y. M. C. A., T. T. Geer, exposed his approval of the fact that the committee is representative of the various dry many who would otherwise work in the forces of the state and does not include one party or organization only.

He said he had been actively interest-

He said he had been actively interested in the dry campaign two years ago, and that so far as he knew "not even a hint" of the subsequent provision in the dry law permitting importation of certain quantities of liquor had been given by any speaker.

"It was an astounding thing to me and to many of the people of Oregon," said Mr. Geer, "that half of the victory was thrown away by the provisions of the present law. It was not as the people intended and I am now, as I have been, for 'Oregon dry as a bone."

SPOKANE, Wash, Sept. 15 .- (Speial.)-Attempts were being made today to get an understanding reached between heads of the regular Republican organization in Spokane and Senator Miles Poindexter, Thomas Corkery, and other former progressives who have been nominated for important of-fices in the Republican primaries. Results have been inconclusive. Charles Hebberd, county chairman, and Charles P. Lund, state committeeman, went into conference with L. Roy Slater, former Progressive state chairman, and Arthur W. Davis, also active in Bull Moose party affairs locally, to discuss the differences. While Progressives who have won the Republican nominations are doubtful about urging the matter, the disposition to demand that party officials identi-fied with the campaign of stalwart Republicans defeated in the primaries be replaced by men who were in sympathy with the victors, has been plainly expressed at conferences of the winners. At the same time a check of the county central committee member-ship shows that 75 per cent of it con-sists of men who remained with the
