IDAHO MAN EXONERATED GIRL REFUSES TO TESTIFY IN WHITE SLAVE CASE. Dagna Larson Balks Attempt of Government to Prosecute John H. Wright, of Coeur d'Alene. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—Dagna Larson today brought to a sudden close the attempts of the Federal authorities to launch a white slave charge against John H. Wright, of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, by her refusal to testify against the man she loved. Rousing from the state of complete collapse into which she had fallen this morning, the pretty Norwegian girl effectively blocked the hand of the Government when she declared that nothing in the world could force her to take the stand against the man with whom she was arrested, at Venice several days ago. "I would rather spend my life in jail than say one word against him," she cried when questioned by Special Agent Webster, of the Department of Justice. Miss Larson declared that she paid for her own ticket to California, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, and that Wright had nothing to do with it. Miss Larson and Wright filed a writ of habeas corpus through their attorney, Fred Morrison, and obtained a hearing before Judge Craig this afternoon. No visitors are allowed to see her for fear that her condition may become worse and she is not permitted to talk about the case or to discuss its possible outcome. Read The Oregonian classified ads.
