and in the course of his speech he said that never before had there existed such a crisis, and that never before had so much depended on how the vote was cast.

He said the country would be flooded with foreign goods after the war and urged a protective tariff.

He made the assertion that the present prosperity was caused by war, and that if Wilson is elected he would veto any change in tariff.

He also predicted coup houses all over the country if Wilson is elected.

He accused the Democrats of extravagance and broken platform pledges.

He also denounced Wilson's Mexican policy, saying that if Republicans were elected they would adopt Taft's Mexican policy.

At the close of his speech he made an appeal for the election of Hughes and received considerable applause.

Mr. Hawley intended to speak at the Halley Fair, but arrived too late.
