NEWS ITEM IS POTENT Oregonian Story Reunites Old

Friends From Ohio.

How far a little news item casts its influence is new well understood by Mrs. Mayme Deaton, 1027 East Seventh street North, who has met a close friend of her family through a little account recently published in The Oregonian of the election of four of her relatives to the Ohio State Senate. The account mentioned that Dr. Van Deaton, of Troy, C., was one of the Deaton family so honored.

The name awoke old memories and recalled to Mrs. Louis Hess, 953 East Sixteenth street North, that when she lived in Chio she was a friend of the family. Consequently she sought out Mrs. Deaton, of Portland, and in a short time they had revived a family friendwhich had been lost sight of in recent years.

NATIVE OF KENTUCKY PASSES IN PORTLAND AT AGE OF 71.

Coming to Oregon by Way of Plains in 1863, He Later Returned, to Come West Again in 1905.

A descendant of an old Virginia family was William Hamilton Fleece, who died at his home, 2080 East Yamhill street, September 30, at the age of 71 years. He was a son of Dr. Clinton Bluford Fleece, and on his mother's side was a descendant of the Ficklin family, which went to Virginia from England in 1720. He was born in Mercer County, Kentucky, February 18, 1845.

In 1863 the late Mr. Fleece left Tren-ton, Mo., and crossed the plains to Cali-fornia, then coming to Oregon. Elizabeth Kennedy, his sweetheart, was in the party and they were married two years later and located near Browns-ville. Three years later they returned years later and located near Brownsville. Three years later they returned East, traveling the Pahama route.

Although he had few opportunities to obtain an education, Mr. Fleece, being of a studious nature, acquired a broad practical knowledge. He studied and practiced law in Indianapolis and was postmaster for a number of years.

The longing to return to Oregon remained with Mr. and Mrs. Fleece and in 1905 they came back, living at Baker for two years and coming to Portland ten years ago. He was made a Mason at North Bend, Ind., in 1869 and was an earnest and active member of that order. He was a past master of the North Salem lodge. His funeral, held October 3, was conducted by the East Gate Lodge of Masons, No. 155.

His widow survives, together with two daughters, Mrs. George W. Robbins, of Corvallis, and Mrs. Minnle P.
Masters, of Portland. Three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren are also members of his family.

E. V. Littlefield Makes Strong Plea for Re-election of Mr. McArthur and Latter Assails Administration on Several Counts.

E. V. Littlefield and C. N. McArthur, Representative in Congress from this district, were the principal speakers at an enthusiastic raily held under the auspices of the Hughes-McArthur Republican Club, at the North Portland Branch Library, Saturday night. The meeting was well-attended and enthusiasm ran high.

Judge Littlefield discussed National Issues particularly the foreign policy.

issues, particularly the foreign policy of the Wilson Administration. He spoke at some length on the Mexican situation, declaring the "kept us out of war" slogan of the Democrats to be a fraudulent and insincere campaign argument. Judge Littlefield also spoke on party loyality and the importance of gument. Judge Littlefield also spoke on party loyalty and the importance of maintaining the direct primary law by supporting its nominees.

He said that he had engaged in the contest for the Congressional nomination with Mr. McArthur, but that the latter had been fairly nominated and was entitled to the support of all Republicans. He scored A. W. Lafferty for coming out as an Independent after having lost the primary nomination.

for coming out as an Independent after having lost the primary nomination, and pointed out the danger of sending to Congress any candidate other than the Republican nominee. He declared that Mr. McArthur could be depended upon to support Republican principles in Congress and thereby correctly represent the views of an overwhelming majority of the people who reside here. Mr. McArthur read figures from the official reports of the Department of Commerce, showing how the war in Europe has created such a demand for American-manufactured products and candidates for County Clerk and Com-missioner, respectively, also addressed the meeting.
