BY EARL R. GOODWIN. Washington High School has started, what its followers term a drive for the 1916 football championship of the Portland Interscholastic League. The first victim was the James John High School eleven, which put up a stubborn battle, but went down to defeat, 43 to 0.

When the first half ended the coun stood 7 to 0 in favor of the big fellows and they had to buck the line for that one touchdown, Phillips scoring the six points and "Spud" Normandin kicking the goal. In the third quarter seven more points were added when Charley Parsons went through the James John and "Spud" Normandin again kicked goal.

The fourth stanza was nothing but a parade for the Washingtonians. They made four touchdowns, kicked three of made four touchdowns, sicked three of the goals and added two markers for a safety when Snodgrass downed Day behind his own line. Coach Earl did not attempt to show any open plays, for he knew that there were "spies" from the other Interscholastic League camps trying to get a line on his

It was a dogged undertaking the James John athletes were up against in their opening game of the year, but they went to it as if they were used to it. They were pitted against too much strength and experience and weakened in the final quarter.

Jower, the Chinese boy, along with R. Smith, was the big star of the game for the losers. He played quarterback and defensive center and there were mighty few downs that he was not sandwiched in somewhere. R. Smith, weighing but 118 pounds, and playing in his first "big" game, was afraid of none of them. He tackled like a veteran. With more weight he will be one of the best ends in the circuit in a cou-

Coach Earl switched his backfield during the third period and then sent his regulars in at the beginning of the eventful fourth affair. The game was free from unnecessary wrangle and no serious penalties were inflicted by Referee "Spec" Hurlburt or Umpire Martin

Another Game Is Tomorrow. The only serious accident of the day was recorded in the last frame, when Bob Snodgrass, of the winners, was kicked in the head. He was removed from the game and did not regain his bearings until a few minutes afterwards in the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club dressing rooms.

The next game of the league will be Multnomah Field. The stars of yesterday's game for Washington were:
