BANDON ATTORNEY KILLED BY ENEMY

Assailant Then Shoots Self; Death Near.

OLD FEUD CAUSES TRAGEDY

Without Word, Joseph Coach Fires on G. T. Treadgold.

SLAIN MAN PROMINENT

Former Liquor Dealer, Once Prosecuted by Lawyer, Attacks Him Day After Wife Brings Action for Divorce.

MARSHFIELD, Or., Oct. 19.—(Special)—Joseph Coach, of Bandon, walked up to G. T. Treadgold, a Bandon attorney, tonight and, without a word, shot him dead, stepped a few feet away, turned the automatic on himself and sent a .32-caliber bullet into his own left temple. Treadgold had just gone for his car at the Coquille garage when Coach approached and shot him.

Coach is in the Baxter Hotel, unconscious, and there is no hope of his surviving.

On approaching Treadgold when he fired the fatal shot, Coach did not say a word. Nothing passed between the men, according to A. A. Powell and F. M. Perkins, witnesses of the tragedy.

Tragedy Follows Short Talk.

Coach and Treadgold had held a short conversation a few minutes before on the steps of the Baxter Hotel, but no loud words were exchanged, nearby persons said:

The killing is the outgrowth of a feud which has existed between Treadgold and Joseph and Arthur Coach for the last five years. Coach had said he had been persecuted by the attorney.

Coach was the son of a wealthy timber owner, who died five years ago, and inherited one-third of the property amounting to several hundred thousand dollars. The Coach brothers got into litigation on several instances and Treadgold was frequently opposed to them.

Liquor Case Augments Bitterness.

Two years ago this Fall, Treadgold, as prosecutor, brought about the conviction of Joseph Coach at Bandon for selling liquor to Ruby and Lolita Simpson, and Coach's saloon license was revoked by the City Council. Resulting from that prosecution, a libel suit was started by G. T. Treadgold against a Coos County daily newspaper. Subsequent to the conviction at Bandon, the Simpson girls said on oath that they were coerced by Treadgold into swearing that liquor was given them by Coach, and Coach was released from an indictment in the Circuit Court.

Yesterday Joseph Coach was served with a suit for divorce by his wife, and it is supposed he believed Treadgold had something to do with promoting it.

Treadgold Not in Case.

Treadgold had taken the case at first but later turned it over to Claude Giles, of Myrtle Point, and Treadgold's name did not appear in the papers.

G. T. Treadgold had been a practicing attorney at Bandon for the past nine years, was married, and leaves a wife and two children. His father and a brother and sister are residents of the Bandon neighborhood.

Witnesses who were about the garage said that Coach had been drinking before the shooting. The affair caused a profound sensation at the county seat where Treadgold had been attending a session of the Circuit Court.

Liquor Crusade Hits Coach.

Treadgold was 33, and had been a successful practitioner. He was City Attorney at the time of his death, having been appointed two years ago by Mayor George P. Topping, when there was a need felt for cleaning up some of the rough saloons in the city. The result of the first crusade was the closing of the Joseph Coach and another saloon.

Joseph Coach has a sister in Coquille, Mrs. Leo J. Carey, and a brother, Arthur Coach, of Lampa Creek. He was about 35 years of age, and was married last year to a Portland woman, who the day before the tragedy sought a separation from him.

Much of Coach's fortune was expended in litigation, and his brother was also a victim of several costly legal affairs. The property of the Coach heirs consists of ranches and timber lands in Coos County, mostly in the neighborhood of Lampa Creek.

The schooner Richard W. Clarke, is of 503 gross tons and is owned by A. A. Corey, of New Bedford, Mass.

Late in August the American fishing schooners Maxine Elliott and Lizzie Griffin were seized while fishing off the coast of Iceland and taken to Lerwick, Shetland Islands, but were later released.

CONVICTS ESCAPE IN MOTOR TRUCK

ONE IN UNIFORM OF GUARD DRIVES ALL TO FREEDOM.

Six Inmates of Sing Sing Leave in Daylight and Abandoned Vehicle Gives First Intimation.

OSSINING, N. Y., Oct. 19.—Six inmates of Sing Sing drove past a guard in a prison automobile truck and made their escape about noon today, Warden Calvin Derick announced tonight. The finding of the abandoned truck a half hour after the escape gave the first intimation that the men, all of whom were serving sentences of from 15 years to life, had fled.

Acting Warden Derrick, who took charge of the prison only this week upon the resignation of Thomas Mott Osborne, said that Richard Hyler, the guard at the prison gate through which the truck passed, had been suspended pending an investigation.

The truck, which was supposed to be used exclusively inside the prison walls, was driven by a convict who wore the uniform of a guard. Another man, in the regulation prison garb, sat beside him, while the four others were hidden within the truck. The guard, Warden Derrick said, did not stop the truck nor look to see what it carried.

MUTES FIGHT BY SIGNS

Couple Take Quarrel for 8-Year-Old Daughter to Court.

A contest, not over the divorce, but over possession of a pretty girl of 8 years, was conducted in the courtroom of Circuit Judge Kavanaugh all day yesterday. The contestants are deaf mutes.

The suit was filed by George W. Kreidt against Effie L. Kreidt, whom he married in Pendleton in 1906. The child, who is in full possession of her faculties of speech and hearing, is Georgia E. Kreidt. Property to the value of $4700 is involved.

One of the allegations of the divorce complaint of the husband is that his wife "in a mad rage would call him all kinds of names."

MAN, SHOT, WINS DAMAGES

Seattle Jury Finds for Victim Mistaken for Burglar.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 19.—(Special.)—Because John Slocum mistook him for a burglar and fired a bullet at him inflicting a flesh wound in his hand, J. J. Hancock today obtained judgment against Slocum for $100 by a jury in the Superior Court. Hancock sued Slocum for $7500 damages.

Several months ago Hancock went to a house in the Green Lake district to visit a friend and found the friends absent. Slocum, who occupied an adjoining house, saw Hancock on the porch and commanded him to hold up his hands. Hancock put up his hands but retreated into the shadow of the porch and Slocum fired at him.

BABY IS BADLY BURNED

Child Pulls Lighted Lamp Into Its Carriage.

LEWISTON, Idaho, Oct. 19.—(Special.)—The 16-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Settler, of Lapwai, is in St. Joseph's Hospital at Lewiston suffering from burns caused by a lamp exploding near its carriage.

Mrs. Settler had gone to the woodshed and left the child near the lighted lamp, which was placed on a small table. The baby grasped the table cover and pulled the lamp into the carriage. The lamp exploded when it upset, spreading the burning oil over the child's body.

MOOSE KEPT ON BALLOT

Requests to Have Names Stricken Cannot Be Granted in Iowa.

DES MOINES, Oct. 19.—W. S. Allen, Secretary of State, in an announcement today informed candidates for office on the Progressive ticket throughout the state that he had no authority to order the names removed from the official ballot for the coming general election.

Mr. Allen said that more than half of the Progressive candidates in the state have written him asking that their names be stricken off.

DETINUE SYSTEM IS ENDED

San Francisco Prisoners Not to Be Held Incommunicado.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Chief of Police White abolished today the police detinue system, under which persons are arrested and held incommunicado without any charge being placed against them.

The order means the last of the "detinue book," where in were entered the names of the victims of the practice. All persons are to be brought before magistrates now and specifically charged.

RUSSIA MAY CURB IMPORTS

Washington Disturbed by Report, Regarded as Trustworthy.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Oct. 19.—Government officers were perturbed today when informed unofficially but confidentially, and from a trustworthy source, that Russia tomorrow probably will prohibit the importation into Russia of a long list of commodities, with a view to conserving cargo space for war munitions.

The effect of this on trans-Pacific trade is regarded as harmful.

PRESIDENT HELD FRIEND OF LABOR

W. B. Wilson Addresses Filled House at Baker Theater.

WALL STREET POWER LESS

Secretary of Labor Says New System Prevents Panics and Provides More Flexible Financial Strength for Country.

Before an audience that completely filled the Baker Theater last night, even to the stage, William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor in President Wilson's Cabinet, discussed the labor laws enacted under the present Administration and declared they entitled Woodrow Wilson to re-election on his record.

He said more social justice legislation had been passed in the three years of President Wilson's incumbency than in the administration of any previous President.

Progressive Votes Sought.

On this statement he based an appeal for the votes of Progressives, whom he divided into three classes: hero worshipers, disgruntled Republicans and "real Progressives" who were dissatisfied with the Republican party in 1912 and didn't quite trust the Democrats.

He declared the Clayton anti-trust act to be the greatest piece of emancipatory legislation ever enacted, and defended the Administration's stand on the Adamson law with much vigor.

Address Lasts One Hour.

Though he discussed each of these topics and many others in much detail, Secretary Wilson gave probably the shortest campaign address that has been heard in Portland this Fall. He talked just one hour.

The meeting opened at 8 o'clock, Secretary Wilson began speaking at 8:15 and at 9:15 he had completed his address and was shaking hands with admirers who crowded to the platform.

Judge Samuel White, Democratic state chairman, called the meeting to order. Otto Hartwig, president of the Oregon State Federation of Labor, presided and introduced Secretary Wilson.

In his introductory remarks, Mr. Hartwig told how Secretary Wilson began working in the coal mines when he was only 9 years old, how he later became a labor leader and a member of the National executive board which organized the United Mine Workers of America in 1890, and how in 1913 he became the Nation's first Secretary of Labor.

"Secretary Wilson," said Mr. Hart-

BRIDE-TO-BE COMES ALONE FROM GREECE

19-YEAR-OLD GIRL TO WED MAN WHO IS STRANGER.

Voyage of 8000 Miles Will End at Baker—Greek Priest Will Perform Marriage Next Month.

BAKER, Or., Oct. 19.—(Special.)—Nineteen-year-old Elene Spiropolis is near the end of her 8000-mile journey alone, to wed a man she has never seen. She is expected to arrive at Baker next Saturday and soon afterward meet 26-year-old Nicholas Spiropolis, of Durkee, her future husband.

Faith in friends and relatives has brought her on her long journey into a strange land to meet this strange fiance. Elene left her home in Athens, Greece, and sailed from Tripoli, September 25. She arrived in New York the first of this week after being detained at Ellis Island two days while authorities ascertained her destination.

Next month there will be a wedding at the home of Thomas Spiris, of Baker, at which a priest of the Greek church from Portland or Pocatello will officite, and soon afterward there will be a new bride at the home of one of the four Spiropolis brothers near Durkee, who together own 7000 head of sheep and many hundred acres of grazing land.

Mr. and Mrs. Spiris were Cupid's aids, for when Nick last June asked Tom if he knew of a good wife, Tom recommended Elene to Nick and wrote to James Spiropolis, Elene's father, about how manly a fellow Nick was. Instead of the usual dowry, Elene's father paid her way to her husband, the transportation being nearly $500, and gave her a beautiful trousseau.

HEN LAYS TWICE SAME DAY

Forest Grove Man Has Fowl That Breaks All Records.

FOREST GROVE, Or., Oct. 19.—(Special.)—While Oregon hens are making records, some of them laying an egg and a half a day, a Forest Grove man comes forth with a hen that beats all records thus far given. Hugh Smith, of this city, owns a hen that today laid two eggs inside of 10 minutes.

While Mr. Smith was feeding his fowls at the noon hour he noticed a hen that was acting in a peculiar way. In a moment she laid an egg. Mr. Smith picked up the egg and went on feeding the chickens. In a few moments more, the hen laid another egg, all of which Mr. Smith is willing to verify on oath. The eggs were both perfect. With the egg market climbing skyward, Mr. Smith is setting out to propagate this species of hen.

SUGAR 24 CENTS IN ITALY

Government Raises Price to Curtail Consumption.

ROME, Oct. 19.—A government decree issued today increases the price of sugar from 20 cents a pound to 24 cents. The reason for this action, it is said, is the urgent necessity of limiting national consumption, in view of the increase in oversea freight rates.

A sugar card system of distribution will be introduced throughout Italy. It has been proposed to prohibit the purchase by women of expensive garments and finery. All importation of furs and Oriental carpets has been prohibited.

WOMEN PROTESTING WILSON TRAMPLED

Chicago Mob Routs Silent Demonstrants.

HAIR PULLED, CLOTHING TORN

Banners Opposing President's Re-election Destroyed.

BATTLE RAGES FIERCELY

In Three Speeches of Day, Mr. Wilson Addresses Press Club Women and New Citizens—Dawn of Patriotic Era Predicted.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—(Special.)—President Wilson's visit to Chicago was marked by a riot in which about 100 women, members of the National Women's Party, were attacked, knocked down, trampled and badly used by a mob that objected to their banners advising women not to vote for Wilson because he is against woman suffrage.

The suffragists were staging a "silent protest." They were grouped around the Congress Hotel, some in automobiles and others on foot. They did not utter a word, but held up their banners. President Wilson was seated in an automobile a few hundred feet distant when the riot began, but he passed into the building and was not a witness of the fierce battle that followed.

Banner Torn to Shreds.

As the President's automobile drew up to the hotel an automobile loaded with women from the Women's Party headquarters also drew up. They carried a huge muslin banner bearing the inscription: "Women voters — vote against President Wilson. He opposes National woman suffrage." In the car were Mrs. Minnie E. Brooks, of Chevy Chase, Md.; Mrs. A. R. Colvin, of St. Paul, and Miss Caroline Katjenstein, of Philadelphia. In other automobiles and on foot were nearly a hundred women of Chicago and nearby cities.

A Wilson woman dashed up to the leading auto, poked her umbrella through the banner and tore it to shreds. This was the signal for a general attack by the Wilson women upon all banners and their bearers.

Suffragists Are Outnumbered.

The suffragists fought back as best they could, but were outnumbered ten to one, and were soon vanquished. Hair was pulled and clothing torn, eyes and faces scratched and fisticuffs were plentiful. The women kicked, clawed and screamed at each other, and when it was all over the street-cleaners gathered up a large assortment of face veils, combs, hairpins, bits of clothing, three shoes, vanity cases, a number of coins and other debris.

When the battle was at its height the suffragists massed into a compact

COUPLE JUST WED DIFFER POLITICALLY

WITNESS STOPS DEBATE SO HONEYMOON CAN BEGIN.

Marrying Justice and Bride Agree Hughes Is the Man, but Bridegroom Sticks to Wilson.

OREGON CITY, Or., Oct. 19.—(Special.)—Christina Newman and Peter Kilburg did not exchange loving words and kisses as soon as they were married by Justice of the Peace Sievers this afternoon. Instead they began a political argument, and H. H. Staub, one of their witnesses, was forced to step in and put an end to the discussion.

Justice Sievers had just completed the service when he noticed a Hughes button on Mrs. Kilberg's coat. Now, Sievers is secretary of the Clackamas County Republican Central Committee and a Hughes supporter through and through. "Well, I see that you are starting your married life right politically," he said to the bride.

"Yes, I am a Republican and I am going to vote for Hughes," she replied.

The bridegroom, noticing the political views of his wife, stepped up. "I am going to vote for Wilson," he declared.

"You are going to vote for Wilson in spite of all his mistakes in the last three and a half years?" cried the bride in amazement.

"Yes, I am," he said, "and I'll have you in favor of his re-election before morning, too."

George Hall and Mr. Staub, the witnesses, and Justice Sievers listened to the argument, which kept growing warmer for several minutes, when Mr. Staub separated the couple.

WILSON WAITERS WIN RISE

Pay Increase Granted to Prevent Strike at Lunch for President.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Negro waiters employed at the Press Club utilized the presence of President Wilson at lunch there today to gain for themselves an increase in wages, without investigation and without compromise.

Just before the President was due to arrive 30 special waiters who were to serve the luncheon put on their coats preparatory to walking out. They had not asked for more pay, but when stopped by the steward they told him they had decided they must have a 50 per cent increase on the contract price before they would begin their duties.

The advantage was theirs and the increase was granted.

U. S. Armored Car Tested.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—An armored railroad car, described as a "moving blockhouse," designed for patrol work and for action against mobile troop organizations, had a trial test at the Sandy Hook proving grounds today.

The car, said to be the first of its kind built for the United States Army, weighs 40 tons, mounts on its top one three-inch field gun and has ports in its armored sides, from which 20 machine guns can be operated.

HUGHES REITERATES LUSITANIA POLICY

Unequivocal Reply Is Made to McAdoo.

FIRMNESS WOULD SAVE DAY

Administration Does Not Know Words Mean What They Say.

BAKER IS TAKEN TO TASK

Rating of Washington's Soldiers With Mexican Bandits Is Scored. Deplorable Record in Mexico Is Reviewed.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 19.—Charles E. Hughes, reiterating that he meant what he said in Louisville the other night about the course he would have followed with reference to the Lusitania, tonight replied to a recent utterance of Secretary McAdoo with the declaration that apparently it seemed impossible to the Administration that one could mean what he said.

"Now rises the Secretary of the Treasury to complain that this was not a statement of what I would have done had the sinking occurred," Mr. Hughes said, after reiterating that he would have stated his position "unequivocally" in advance of the sinking.

Lusitania Would Not Have Been Sunk.

"I was under the impression that when I said what I would have stated in advance as to what I would do, everyone would know that I stated what in fact I would have done in the described event. The secretary's remarks show in an illuminating way this Administration's conception of the value of words.

"It apparently seems impossible to this Administration that one can mean what he says. That is its difficulty. With it, a threat of action does not seem to mean anything but words. My position is somewhat different.

"I mean what I say and because this would have been well known and we should already have had a reputation for firm and correct policies, I repeat that the Lusitania would not have been sunk."

Reply Made to Baker.

Mr. Hughes spoke before an audience in the theater here. He also replied to a statement attributed to Secretary of War Baker in a recent speech in which Washington's soldiers in the march to Valley Forge in the days of the American Revolution were said to be just as bad characters as the Mexicans.

"I never supposed the day would come," Mr. Hughes said, "when the representative of American administration would say that of those who gave us our liberty."

After quoting the statement attributed to Secretary Baker, Mr. Hughes read from Secretary Lansing's description in June last of the atrocities in Mexico, contained in a note to the de facto government of Mexico. Mr. Lansing's recital of the civil strife in Mexico, with its attendant loss of American life and destruction of American property, and that portion of the note relating to the Santa Ysabel massacre was read by Mr. Hughes verbatim.

Apology Declared Shameful.

"An administration imbued with the spirit of true Americanism," Mr. Hughes said, "would be incapable of the statement attributed to the Secretary of War. It must bring the blush of shame to the cheek of every American that apologies for the deplorable record in Mexico should be made after this fashion."

Mr. Hughes' speech here tonight was the last of his third presidential campaign trip. He left here at 11 P. M. for New York, where he is due tomorrow afternoon. The day was spent traveling, with three short addresses, at Bay City, Saginaw and Flint, Mich. It was raining and the damp weather affected the nominee's voice.

Rights of Citizens Surrendered.

In his speech here tonight, Mr. Hughes said:

"The President of the United States is the trustee of executive power. Placed in control of our agencies of International intercourse, he is the guardian of the rights of the American citizens. He has no authority to surrender them, no right to impair them. Upon his firmness in maintaining them depends our security and our peace. The Democratic platform four years ago promised that the Constitutional rights of American citizens should protect them on our borders and go with them throughout the world. When it promised full protection for American lives and property abroad, it stated an established American principle.

"One of America's greatest jurists, speaking for the Supreme Court of the United States, said many years ago, another privilege of a citizen of the United States is to demand the care and protection of the Federal Government over his life, liberty and property when on the high seas or within the jurisdiction of a foreign government.

American Doctrine Reversed.

"Now we are told that the Administration has turned its back on the American doctrine of full protection. That is what its leading apologist finds its record in Mexico to mean. It is a reversal without authority and in violation of the specific pledge upon which it was elected. Instead of fol-
