

ROUTES OFFERED TO JITNEY UNION

Acceptance or Rejection Promised by President Within Short Period.

FRANCHISE DRAFT PENDING

If Drivers Refuse to Conform With Demands of Council, Operation Will Cease November 15. Counter Proposition Likely.

A list of proposed jitney routes extending over streets not now covered by streetcars and into well settled districts not now amply provided with transportation, was submitted yesterday by City Commissioner Dieck to A. A. Thielke, president of the Jitney Drivers' Union. He said he would consider the routes and announce within a day or two whether the jitneys would accept them or not.

The move is now up to the jitneys. If they say they will not take the routes as outlined, Commissioner Dieck will report to the City Council, probably on Friday, that there is no use preparing an extensive franchise, because the jitneys have refused the basic part of the franchise, the routes the Council is willing to give.

Mr. Dieck says the routes as submitted to the City Council are purely his own ideas of where jitneys should operate and that changes might be made. He says, however, that he is opposed to granting the jitneys a franchise to operate over streetcar lines merely within the close-in territory, as at present, and he is backed up in this position by Mayor Albee and Commissioner Baker and possibly Commissioner Bigelow, forming a majority of the members of the Council.

Mr. Bigelow's Stand in Doubt. Commissioner Bigelow's position on the jitney had not been announced yesterday. The only comment he has made on the subject is that he does not believe the jitneys should dictate what the provisions of their franchise shall be.

It is expected at the City Hall that the jitneys will make a counter set of routes to submit to the Council at the time the Dieck routes are submitted. It is not expected, however, that the routing suggested by the jitneys will be acceptable, because the basis of jitney operation has been the operation along the principal lines of the streetcar company, leaving the unprofitable haul for the streetcar to handle alone. The jitney competition has been competition for the cream of the business only.

It is expected the negotiations between the Council and the jitney leaders will be hurried, inasmuch as November 15 is the time set for jitneys to cease operation unless they have a franchise.

Continuation in Doubt. If it is seen by November 15 that the jitneys are unwilling to accept a franchise bearing conditions of service and regulation comparable with those imposed on streetcars by that time it is considered certain that the jitneys will be put out of business. If, on the other hand, the jitney is willing to submit to regulation the service will be continued, probably on the present basis, until a franchise can be put into effect.

The list of routes submitted to the jitneys by Commissioner Dieck was as follows:

Division-street line—From Third and Alder streets across Hawthorne bridge to East Water, East Clay, East Twelfth, East Morrison, East Adams, Division to Sixth and return.

Lents line—Same as Division-street line to Twenty-first and Division, thence to Powell Valley road to East Fifty-third street, Powell road to Lents and return.

East Stark-street line—From Third and Alder streets across Morrison bridge to Grand avenue, to Stark street to Montavilla and return.

East Thirty-ninth street—Cross town from Division street to Sandy boulevard and return.

Tulson Park line—From Third and Alder streets to Columbia street, to Water, East Grover, Macadam, to Virginia street and return.

Holgate-street line—From Third and Alder streets across Hawthorne bridge to East Water street, Clay, Eleventh, Powell Valley road, Sixteenth street, Holgate to Forty-second and return.

Irvington line—From Third and Alder streets across Burnside bridge to East Twelfth street, Holladay avenue, Thirteenth street, Knott to Thirty-third street, or as a variation, Thirteenth to Tillamook to Thirty-sixth to Hancock to Fifty-third and return.

Alameda Park line—From Third and Alder streets across Broadway to Corn and streets, cover avenue to Fremont street to Forty-second and return.

Entries for Portland Show Are on Way.

ARMY ALSO COMPETES

Horses to Be Displayed Will Represent Ideas of Most Valuable Stock for Military Purposes and Give Hint to Breeders.

James H. Murphy, president of the Portland Hunt Club, which is staging the forthcoming Horse Show for the benefit of charity, yesterday received a telegram from W. S. Holland, of Vancouver, announcing the shipment of eight jumping and high school horses as entries for the big society event.

The animals are from the stables of Messrs. Drysdale, McCormack & Holland, of Vancouver, and the entry by Mrs. Gilman, a prominent society leader of Victoria. They comprise the cream of the show stock of British Columbia, and will be contenders for the cups and other trophies offered at the Horse Show Friday and Saturday nights. The Drysdale entry practically assures the competition of Miss Drysdale, the charming society equestrienne of Vancouver.

The Canadian shipment will be on the waters of Puget Sound today. Tonight they will arrive at Seattle, where J. D. Farrell, president of the O.-W. H. & N., is personally arranging for their reception and transportation to Portland. The bluebloods will travel by express to Portland and in cars that have been equipped with padded box covers.

Mr. Murphy also received yesterday the entries of Captain E. K. Newcomer, of Vancouver Barracks, representing the United States Army. The Vancouver officers will have five mounts in the class, which will demonstrate the most suitable animals for use of the Army.

The entries by the officers of the Army is attracting unusual attention from horse breeders over the Northwest. The reason is that the war in Europe has taken nearly all of the horses in the short-grass country, and those owners who had especially desirable animals received enormous prices for them. While they are at it, the growers intend to provide an animal that will command those prices in the future. They are told that Oregon's climate is suitable for monopolizing the horse-growing industry of the West, that it is a competitor with Kentucky for growing the thoroughbreds and that it is a money-making industry at this time.

In the eyes of many in Portland the Horse Show is therefore taking on a practical, as well as social, aspect. Its importance is enhanced just that much.

Culdesac Corn Show Success.

CULDESAC, Idaho, Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Large crowds, perfect weather, excellent exhibits and a good amusement programme has made the Culdesac annual Corn Show a great success. The balloon ascension and parachute drop was one of the finest spectacles of the kind ever witnessed in this section.

SHOW HORSES DRILLED

ELABORATE PREPARATIONS MADE AT ICE PALACE, AND TICKET SALE BEGAN YESTERDAY.

Twenty-seven of the riders who are to participate in the horse show at the Ice Palace Friday and Saturday of this week were at the palace yesterday putting their horses through their paces in preparation for the event.

The floor at the palace has been covered with three inches of loose dirt and two inches of sawdust to insure good footing. Other preparations are also being rushed.

The building is being decorated with festoons, flags and emblems of the Portland Hunt Club. The work of arranging stalls for the out-of-town horses is also in progress.

The Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club has donated one of the finest cups ever given at such an exhibit in Portland. A large number of other trophies have been donated.

The ticket sale for the show began yesterday at 10 o'clock at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music house, and will continue all through the week.
