The squad included Captain Bangs, Fishback, Finney Leonis, Zimmerman, R. Finney, Loomis, Zimmerman, R. Finney, Leomis, Zimmerman, R. Hanley, L. Hanley, Doane, Hamilton, Brown, Skadan, M. What should have been but a scrimmage for Washington State against Idaho was really a struggle won at great cost, for three valuable parts to Dietz's machine have been shattered beyond all repair in time for Satur-day's game with Bezdek's men. Added to broken bones in the right shoulders of Loomis and Zimmerman, both all-star prospects, is the injury to Guard Finney's foot, not discovered until yesterday. Three bones are broken and if he plays Saturday against the Oregon line he should acquit himself beautifully for he would be rein-forced with two hardwood crutches with which to repel the oncoming Ore-

Zimmerman May Play.

Physical Director Bohler, respected custodian of the physical condition of the eleven, has declared emphatically the eleven, has declared emphatically that neither Loomis nor Finney would be in condition to participate Saturday, but that he had hopes of starting Zimmerman. L. Hanley, freshman, will attempt to fill Loomis' berth and Hamilton, another first-year man. Will start at guard in place of Finney.

In an interview today Coach Dietz remarked that Oregon played one of the best defensive games at critical periods against Washington that he had ever witnessed. A slow field when the locals tangle with Oregon Saturday, may mean that Captain Bangs and R. Boone, who will be de-pended on to advance the ball consistently, will be no more valuable than mediocre halfbacks. "I am expecting Durham to come through for me Saturday," said the chief, "with a couple of drop-kicks. If the team plays well defensively and advances the ball to within 30 yards of the uprights, then I am going to depend upon Durham to boot one over."

Arrangements are complete to run a special train carrying the college band, students and townspeople to Portland, the train to leave Thursday ovening. By means of donations from local business firms, student dances, and funds procured from the college, it has been possible to assure the 40-piece band's presence, which will be augmented by at least 200 rooters. This campaign has raised student fervor here to a white heat.

CONFERENCE MEN DECIDE

Battle on Multnomah Field Saturday Is Not Affected Because Other Eleven Is Not Member of Intercollegiate League

Johnny Parsons, Oregon's sensational halfback, has been declared ineligible to compete against the Oregon Aggles on November 25 at Corvallis. After the Coast conference eligibility com-mittee had refused to indorse its first protest, the University of Washington dug up evidence that Parsons had not completed his final semester at Oregon in the Spring of 1915.

This is a breach of the new Coast conference rules and the committee announced yesterday that it would have to rule against Oregon on this new technicality. There is no specific rule in the Pacific Northwest conference by-laws covering the point, it is said, and Par-sons therefore will be eligible to play against Washington State College Saturday on Multnomah Field. Washing-ton State is not a member of the Coast conference Decision Is Announced

Dean A. R. Priest, of Washington and Dr. A. D. Browne, of the Oregon and Dr. A. D. Browne, of the Oregon Agricultural College, are the members of the advisory committee of the Pa-cific Coast conference. Dr. Browne was a Portland visitor yesterday and to an interviewer admitted that the committee had been forced to rule against the Oregon star on the latest

"I voted in Parsons' favor in the first protest," said Dr. Browne. "The point involved was whether Parsons' case should come under the rule requiring an athlete to complete his athletics overhauled at the annual meeting this coming Winter.

The advisory committee's statement follows:

We find that Mr. Parsons registered at Oregon regularly in September, 1914, for his fourth year, having been in residence during 1911-12, 1912-13, 1913-14. According to Murray.

"Marples and Loughlin are the pick of the faculty athletic committee of Oregon Mr. Parsons completed his work for the first semester of 1914-15 in a satisfactory manner. The official records of the university give no evidence that Mr. Parsons registered for the second semester of 1914-15 in a record card shows him marked at "withdrawn," but no date of withdrawal is attached. Mr. Parsons himself says that he has no memory of registering the second semester, but that he continued to attend classes after the second semester began, February S, 1915.

He says that he feared that he would not have sufficient funds to enable him to continue in college, so he thinks that he did not officially register. On April 10, 1915, more often two months after the opening of the second semester, he represented Oregon in an athietic meet at Portland, and won first place in the broad jump. The Oregon Emperald, the college paper, under the date of April 29, 1915, reports that Parsons was leaving college for Alaska the next day. April 30. It, therefore, seemed that Parsons had sufficient funds to remain in attendance through 11½ weeks but not enough to remain for the five weeks necessary to complete the semester.

Attendance Is Not Doubted.

Attendance Is Not Doubted.

The advisory committee finds that both in letter and in spirit Mr. Parsons was in attendance at the University of Oregon during the second semester of 1914-15; that he has no credits for said semester; that the conference agreement of the Pacific Ceast intercollegiate Association, under the heading "Intercollegiate Relations" major D. No. 1. minor b, holds that a student to be eligible to represent an institution in the conference shall have passed 11 hours of work for the semester of residence previous to participation; that the second semester of 1914-15 is for Mr. Parsons the previous semester of residence, since he was not at college during the year 1915-16; that finally in the light of these facts he is, therefore, inclights to represent the University of Oregon in any time during the first semester of 1916-17.
