SOCIETY NEWS

BY GERTRUDE P. CORBETT

ONE of the most charming home weddings of this season was that at which Miss Mildred Nichols plighted her troth to H. Bailey McAfee yesterday. The ceremony was solemnized at 4:30 o'clock, and the bridegroom's father, Rev. Lapsley A. McAfee, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Berkeley, Cal., read the impressive service. A few intimate friends and relatives of the couple attended the pretty function. Miss Vida Nichols, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and her little niece and nephew, the Clifford Nichols' twins, Delia and Clifford, acted as ring bearers, and Robert W. Macdonald, of Berkeley, acted as best man.

An improvised altar was erected in the drawing-room with a background of bamboo, trailing clematis, intermingled with shaggy yellow chrysanthemums. All about the room were great clusters of chysanthemums and fernery, while in the dining-room a color scheme of pink was developed with fluffy chrysanthemums and lacey ferns.

The bride was gowned in a handsome creation of ivory satin and rare old lace, with pearl embellishments. She wore her mother's wedding veil, arranged high on her coiffure with a spray of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a shower of bride's roses. Miss Nichols' gown was a pretty model of a deep cream tone. A splash of artistic coloring was added by the violet girdle and bouquet of violets.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held and a buffet supper served. Presiding at the daintily appointed table were Mrs. J. L. Walpole and Mrs. E. P. Nichols.

Mr. and Mrs. McAfee left for a brief wedding trip, and upon their return they will be at home in Camas, Wash., where Mr. McAfee's business interests are centered.

STYLE TIPS

FROM PORTLAND STORES

VEILS are a fascinating part of milady's wardrobe. Despite the contentions of a few that veils are attractive only to certain types, the fact remains that about the first affection of the maid, after she buds into long skirts, is for a veil. And she wears it from that time on, for she loves to be screened behind a coquettish bit of figured net, and doesn't at all mind if it does hide part of her pretty face. It is said by the girls who sell veils behind the counter that an attractive veil deepens the color of the eyes and cheeks.

Just this season veils have become especially popular. From the nose veil to the long, flowing curtain veil there are a multitude of styles and veil ideas. The nose veil began as a fad and grew to an established fact, and is now one of the most popular of the veils. Many of them are figured. For instance, a spider clings to net meshes just under the left eye of a new nose veil. The edge of the veil is bordered with a spider-web design. A number of more demure, less daring ones have a beauty spot or a flower under the eye, and some of them have figures that go right on the nose.

The curtain veil is draped from the hat, and has, as a rule, a rather heavy border. Many of these are of plain net, with a row of figures near the bottom. Bugs, spiders, birds and various other animals and insects are used to ornament the 1916 veil. The motor veil is still in a distinct class. The new motor veils may be had in all sorts of colors and styles as numerous as those for regular wear.

A number of the dark veils have white or colored figures, dots or squares on them, and some are scattered over with snowflake dots, really close together.

A lot of the new veils are in blue and browns. White veils with black figures, however, are dashing and dressy. Some of the more ingenuous of womankind have taken to wearing hair nets as veils. They are much finer and daintier than the regular net veils, and, if care is taken of them, will wear a long time. However, they advise that when the hair net is worn as a veil it should not be tied tightly, as the meshes may stretch into holes.

The brown veil is attractive to almost any type of woman, and the lines and shadows it gives are far softer than the black.

John Day Stocks Up.

JOHN DAY, Or., Nov. 16.—(Special.)—The carrying of the dry amendment has made Prairie City the most popular place in the county. Automobile parties from all parts of the county are visiting the express office there daily, preparing for the impending "dry spell." More than 70 packages of liquor were delivered Monday.

Doris Blake's Advice

Telephoning Men.

LAST evening I threatened the operator and pleaded with the manager in a vain attempt to communicate with a friend over the telephone.

I was finally forced to take an inconvenient streetcar journey to her home without even the assurance that she would be there when I arrived. My friend, however, greeted me at the door and I began to inquire about her telephone service.

She has two sons, one 19 and one 21, and I could not imagine boys of their vigorous type spending much time in senseless gossip over a telephone. I also knew their mother's disgust for useless words, and so was puzzled when she said, "Come and listen for yourself."

Tom, the younger son, was at the phone, and his conversation was a succession of weary grunts and disheartened giggles punctuated with gestures that the other end of the dialogue could not have greatly appreciated.

"But who on earth?" I exclaimed.

With a sigh Tom hung up the receiver and answered, "'Bout the biggest ninny in skirts!"

"Tom, Tom," reproved his mother, "you must never say anything about a girl." But by that time Tom had vanished up the stairs three at a time and when he was well out of hearing his mother sighed.

"I don't blame him much," she said. "That girl calls up almost every evening and it's almost impossible to get rid of her without insulting her. Once I spoke to her and said that Tom was out and she asked me if I could tell her where he had gone. She is not the only one, however. There are a group of girls at the school Tom attends. He tells me he has never spoken to them in his life, but they call him up three or four nights a week at dinner time and refuse to give their names."

"It is not only because it is such a nuisance that I object, but it makes it difficult for a mother to inculcate the proper respect for girls in her sons when the girls themselves act so brazenly.

"One evening my husband had to work, so he got several tickets for the theater, intending that I should go with a friend, and he would meet us afterwards and take us home. But he was unable to reach me by phone because these silly girls were on our wire. The tickets were wasted and I was worried for several hours.

"However, I will not allow Tom to be rude to them because I do not think their foolishness would excuse any lack of respect on his part."

Girls who subject themselves to insult by unnecessary and cheapening telephone conversations with young men do not deserve the courtesy that these silly girls received at the hands of my friend's son. Did you ever think, girls, that you never know who is listening to you and that you can't even tell that the person you are talking to is not laughing at you?

There are a few occasions when it is proper for a girl to call a young man up, and then a note would be more dignified and ladylike.

DIVORCE WON IN HOUR

MRS. FRANK J. RICHARDSON SAYS PARTIES OFTEN SCANDALIZED.

President of Land Company Said to Have Remained Away From His Home for Days at a Time.

A divorce from Frank J. Richardson, president of the Terwilliger Land Company, was granted Bertha Irene Richardson by Circuit Judge Gatens yesterday within an hour of the filing of the action in the office of County Clerk Coffee. There are no children, and property rights were adjusted out of court.

The Richardsons were married in Portland in 1907. For the past two years, according to the complaint of Mrs. Richardson, Mr. Richardson, at intervals of one or two months, would leave his home in company with convivial companions and remain away days at a time, returning only when tired or sick.

He also, his wife charged, scandalized neighbors by passing all day and sometimes all night in his automobile in his garage next to his home at the conclusion of some of these parties.

Mrs. Richardson expressed the fear that her husband's actions would lead to the dissipation of his health and fortune. When undisturbed, Mr. Richardson was a man of dignity of character, asserted Mrs. Richardson.

Divorces on the grounds of desertion were asked for in the Circuit Court yesterday by Grace Bartel from Paul G. Bartel and Orilla J. Barnard from Walter F. Barnard.

CHARITY VOTE ARRANGED

GREATER PORTLAND ASSOCIATION PLANS COMPLETED.

Day Set Aside for Observance Is Assured of Success, Says Chairman Isaac Swett.

At its regular weekly luncheon yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce the Greater Portland Association perfected plans for Greater Portland Association day, November 28. Isaac Swett, chairman of the committee, reported details and it is assured, he said, that the event will be a big success.

Numerous charities have organized forces of workers to obtain votes of shoppers who make purchases on Greater Portland Association day. The Salvation Army, the Women's Exchange, the Visiting Nurse Association and St. Joseph's Home for the Aged have organized groups of ten, who will work for votes, the offer of the association being to donate $500 in three prizes to the charities proving the most popular through the votes of shoppers.

Ballot boxes will be established at the newspaper offices, where the votes can be cast. Each purchase of 10 cents in any store holding membership in the Greater Portland Association will entitle the shopper to one vote for his or her pet charity.

Only purchases made November 28 will win votes and all votes must be cast not later than the night of November 30.

2 WITH I. W. W. BILLS HELD

Frank Mitchell and Jack Kennedy Are Arrested for Law Violation.

Frank Mitchell and Jack Kennedy, deckhands, were arrested yesterday at Second and Burnside streets by Patrolman Henson for violating the city ordinance forbidding the distribution of printed advertising. The two were passing handbills announcing a protest meeting on the I. W. W. battle at Everett, to be held in the Public Library.

While Kennedy was being "booked" at the desk he stepped to a radiator and spat behind it. Patrolman Ed Burke promptly arrested him on a second charge, that of violating the anti-spitting ordinance.

CHURCH WILL CELEBRATE

Fortieth Anniversary of Founding of St. Francis Institution Is Sunday.

The 40th anniversary of the founding of St. Francis' Catholic Church will be celebrated on Sunday with the Rt. Rev. Abbot Adelhelm, O. S. B., officiating.

Many of the clergy of the city will be present, and some of the oldest members of St. Francis parish will serve as ushers. A special choir of selected voices will render the elaborate musical features. The pontifical high mass will be at 10:30 A. M.

St. Francis was blessed 40 years ago by the Archbishop, the most Rev. F. N. Blanchet. The Rev. A. J. Glorieux, now Bishop of Idaho, was one of those who officiated at the ceremonies. The public is invited to attend the solemn and impressive service next Sunday.

JURY CONVICTS DRUGGIST

C. F. Yielding Found Guilty of Selling Alcohol to Drunkard.

C. F. Yielding, proprietor of the Russell Drug Company, at Union avenue and Russell street, was found guilty by a jury in the court of Circuit Judge Davis yesterday of the sale of a pint of pure ethyl alcohol to a man of known intemperate habits. He was appealing from a fine of $100 given by Municipal Judge Langguth.

Sentence was not pronounced yesterday, but the maximum is a $500 fine or six months' imprisonment.

The alcohol was sold to Pat Kennedy, classed in local police circles as a habitual alcoholic. Two policemen testified to seeing Kennedy stagger as he entered the drug store to make his purchase. The defense was ignorance of the habits of the man.

COURT INSISTS ON TRIAL

Judgment Is Given Against Employment Agents.

"This sort of thing ought to stop. I don't care if there is 10 cents or $10 involved, this is no time for settlement. The case goes to trial."

This was the announcement of Circuit Judge Davis yesterday when A. Lee Lewes and C. C. Shoemaker, proprietors of an employment agency at 241 Couch street, offered to settle with R. Alford, complaining witness, for $50 if the action brought against them was dropped.

The agency men had appealed to the Circuit Court from fines of $25 each levied by District Judge Bell for accepting a fee from Alford, who is crippled and 70 years old, and sending him to a job that did not exist. A judgment for $50 was given by Judge Dayton against the men in a civil suit brought by Alford recently.

Nujol For Constipation

THE MAN on the GIRDER HAS HEALTH

The man at the desk often lacks it.

Are you an office worker? Are you obliged to guard your health against the consequences of too much indoor brain work and not enough out-door exercise?

Constipation is dangerous. The laxative habit is even more so, because it tends to make constipation chronic.

Nujol relieves constipation effectively and without forming a habit. It prevents the contents of the intestines from becoming hard, and in this way makes natural movements easy. It acts in effect as an internal lubricant.

All druggists carry Nujol which is manufactured only by the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey). Avoid substitutes. Write today for booklet "The Rational Treatment of Constipation."
