IRVINGTON MATRON WHO ENTERTAINED WITH LARGE CARD PARTY AND DANCE MONDAY NIGHT.

Mrs. David Harriman Rand

MRS. ALLEN BUTTERFIELD NOYES (Greta Butterfield) was a dinner host last night complimentary to her brother, Horace E. Butterfield, who will leave on December 27 for Racine, Wis., where he will assume his duties with the Mitchell Automobile Company.

The table was decked with Christmas favors and novelties, the central feature being a basket of luscious fruits in the deep red, orange and brown shades.

Covers were placed for Jack Day, Dr. Noyes, Joseph Hammond, Walter H. Korell, Lieutenant Oswald Day, and the honoree, the guests all being former schoolmates of Mr. Butterfield.

To honor Miss Evelyn Magruder, the latest of the season's debutantes, Miss Helen Platt yesterday entertained with a charming tea, about 30 of the younger contingent shared in the festivity, the charming hostess being assisted by Miss Isabella Gaud and Miss Evelyn Carey in the drawing room.

Refreshment at the tea table, which was decked artistically with Christmas greenery and flaming poinsettias, were Mrs. Charles Thornton Ladd and Mrs. Henry Wessinger. Assisting in the dining-room were Misses Amy Robinson, Dornine Wild, Martha Hoyt and Consuelo McMillan.

A large and formal party is planned for the close of the holidays given during the month of December at Irvington Club for the members and their friends.

Company C, of the Third Infantry, Oregon National Guard, will hold another of its enjoyable military dancing parties at the Portland Armory Wednesday night, December 27.

The last party given by Company C was one of the most successful National Guard affairs ever held in the city, more than 100 couples attending the dance.

The coming dance is in charge of the following committee from the company: Sergeants John Somerville, Grant Reddick, U. A. Keppinger and Robert DeV. Maynor; and privates, L. M. Mitchell, Ed. Freberg, Wendal Hurlbut, George Muller, Clarence Grey, George Ross, Ramsome Cook, Donald Cook and Myrtle Hollinger.

Ben Butler Post and Corps will hold their annual Christmas bazaar tomorrow at Davy's Hall, East Third, fourth and Yamhill streets. A cafe luncheon will be served from 11:30 to 2:30 o'clock, after which a regular corps meeting will follow.

The letter men of Washington High School will entertain the alumni letter men of the gymnasium on Friday evening, December 29, at 8:30 o'clock.

MAIL CONGESTION BEGINS

Postal Receipts Much Heavier Than This Time Last Year.

The fast mail train, No. 5, was more than 12 hours late yesterday, and in consequence all the Eastern mail will be a day late in delivery. A few days before Christmas transcontinental mail trains are almost always on schedule. As the timing of local mail delivery is suited to the arrival of mail trains there will be some congestion this week in mail handling.

The postal receipts of Monday were several hundred dollars in advance for the same day in 1915. Postmaster Myers estimated the receipts to be $8500 in round numbers.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

By EDITH KNIGHT HOLMES

CLUBS' CALENDAR FOR TODAY.

West Side Lavender Club—Central Library, 2:30 o'clock.
Woman's Society—White Temple, 2:30 o'clock.
Central W. C. T. U.—Library, 2 o'clock.
Llewellyn Parent-Teacher Association—Meeting at 2:45 o'clock.
Psychology Circle—With Mrs. W. W. Weisler, Fifteenth and Skiyon streets, 9 o'clock.
Coterie Club—Hotel Multnomah, 11 A. M.

"FRANCE" will be the subject of Friday's meeting of the Portland Woman's Club. The Rev. Father Langlard, of Seattle, will give the address. This programme is one of a series in which the various leading nations of the world are being exploited in song and story in the club. Dr. Langlard has a wide circle of friends who will be glad to hear him on Friday. The musical programme will be directed by Mrs. Warren E. Thomas. Mrs. Jane Burns Albert will sing a group of French songs.

A business session will open at 2 o'clock; program at 3 o'clock, and social hour at 4 o'clock.

A business meeting of the Woman's Society of the White Temple will be held today at 2:30 P. M.

Central W. C. T. U. will meet at 2 o'clock today in room A, Library. At 3 o'clock a programme will be presented. Mrs. M. L. T. Hadden will preside.

The West Side Lavender Club will meet today in the Central Library. Women over 50 years of age are eligible to membership. A number of prominent matrons are planning to attend.

The Llewellyn Parent-Teacher Association will hold its regular meeting in the schoolhouse this afternoon at 2:45 o'clock. Miss Harriet Wood, school librarian, will give a talk on Christmas books. A representative of the Gillespie School of Expression will entertain with readings, and a short musical programme will be given. Parents are urged to attend.

Mrs. Frederic Schoff, of Philadelphia, president of the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations, has issued an appeal to the mothers throughout the United States asking that they remember the motherless boys who are stationed along the Mexican border and see that each one has a personal greeting on Christmas day, and that they also remember the boys who are giving not only their time and their lives to protect us in our homes, but they, in countless numbers, have sacrificed their business future to serve their country. We mothers have an opportunity to show our appreciation and regard for this service by taking to them the mother-love and influence which every boy needs.

At the Homemaker's conference, Corvallis, January 2 to 6, Mrs. Arlaine Peltz, Mrs. George W. McMath, Mrs. C. W. Hayward and Mrs. Millie Trumbull will be among the speakers. They are members of the board of the Oregon Congress of Mothers.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE

By LILIAN TINGLE.

BY LILIAN TINGLE.
PORTLAND, OR., Dec. 19.—Miss Lilian Tingle: Will you please publish recipes for apricot nougat, chocolate chips and fluffy rice, using glucose?

MRS. R. A. CHAMBERS.
CHOCOLATE CHIPS—Boil 2 cups light brown sugar, 1/2-cup glucose, 1 tablespoon butter and 1/2-cup water, to 250 or 300 degrees Fahrenheit, or to the "crack." Pull in the usual way, but finally stretch the candy into very thin, flat strips about one inch wide and cut in two-inch lengths. When quite cold and crisp, dip in chocolate. The most important points in chocolate dipping are: 1. Skill and practice. Do not expect to become an expert dipper by reading a recipe. 2. Good dipping chocolate. 3. Correct temperature of the "dip." Never heat chocolate above blood heat and only over warm (not boiling) water. 4. Thorough working and mixing before beginning to dip. Learn to recognize the correct texture for dipping. 5. Rapid cooling. Dip in a very cool room and chill the chocolates at once. I hope the following is what you mean:

Fluffy Ruffles Fudge—Two cups sugar, 1/2-cup glucose, 1/2-cup water, egg whites, 1 cup black walnut meats, 1/2-teaspoon clove extract, a few drops pink coloring. Boil the sugar, glucose and water together to about 250 degrees, or to the "small crack." Pour on the stiff, beaten whites of the eggs and beat until adding the flavors, coloring and nut meats. Pour into a tin lined with paraffine paper and cut in squares; or beat a little stiffer and drop in "blobs" or "rocks" on paraffine paper, as preferred. Other nuts and flavoring may be used if liked.

Apricot Nougat—Two cups thick, smooth pulp from canned (or dried and soaked) apricots, 2 cups sugar, 1 1/2 level tablespoons gelatine, soaked in 1/2-cup cold water and dissolved over hot water, 1/2-pound (or more) blanched and cut-up almonds. Cook the pulp and sugar until it drops in little lumps from the spoon, or "sets" when dropped on a cold plate. Then add the dissolved gelatine and almonds, mix thoroughly, and turn into a greased pan dusted with cornstarch or lined with rice-wafer sheets. When cold turn from the pan and cut in bars or squares. If the wafer-sheet is used, roll the candy in cornstarch or dip in chocolate or in fondant. This is the only recipe I have under this name, but ordinary white nougat (for which the recipe was given very recently) may have cut-up glace apricots in it instead of or with nuts. It might then be called apricot nougat.

WHAT YOU CAN MAKE AT HOME

By MRS. PORTLAND.

"ISN'T it really wonderful," said Mrs. M. to me when I ran in there the other day to borrow a pattern, "how children like home-made toys so much better than the ones you buy them?"

"Now there are the rag dolls that a dear old lady down at the beach

"Can I get ANY size I want?" You can! Any size that Eastman makes.

"How much will I have to pay?" Please yourself; we have them from 75 cents to $65; most people pay seven, eight and ten dollars.

"Will you do developing for me?" Madame, "developing" is our middle name—and WE CHARGE YOU NOTHING FOR IT! Two and three men busy in our dark rooms all the time.

"Which size would you recommend getting?" Please come in and let us talk with you personally about this; the answer is much too interesting and too long to print here.

last Summer made for Midget and her little chum. Do you know they think far more of them than any of their expensive bought dollys. The old lady told them about a wonderful dollhouse she had when she was a tiny girl; everything in it was made by her sisters and brothers and father and mother and other relatives, and Midget had been begging her to make her dolly some furniture like the dear old lady's dollies had. So Mack and I have been hard at work on some things for her in that line. And we've been just like two children ourselves over it—we have enjoyed it so.

"Here's a set of drawers—a chiffonier, I suppose you might call it—that I am making. As you see, I am using small match boxes to make it. I set six boxes together in a couple of tiers of three each and glued them together. I took some thin strips of wood from the top of an old basket and fastened one at each corner of the boxes, allowing them to extend below far enough to make the feet, and the two strips of wood at the back extend up far enough to make a frame for the tiny mirror which I cut with a glass cutter from some pieces of broken looking glass. I put two pieces of the wood strips across at the back between the two high upright pieces and that completed the frame for the mirror, which I pasted to a piece of pasteboard and fastened to the frame. This ceiling paper with the tiny pink and blue stars on a cream ground is just the right color for Midget's belongings, so I covered the sides, top and front of the boxes with it and painted the corners and the wood strips with gilt paint. And I am sure that Midget will think when she sees it Christmas morning that it is just the place to keep her dolly's belongings."

ROSEBURG, Or., Dec. 19.—(Special.)—The East Side Bank of Portland, has filed suit here to recover $1450 from W. D. Sleep, also of Portland, on a promissory note executed in Portland July 7, 1911. Besides a judgment for the principal, the bank asks for interest, attorney fees and an order authorizing the foreclosure of a mortgage on property owned by Mr. Sleep in Douglas County.

The Rev. David Jordan Higgins, of Pasadena, Cal., former Geneva M. E. Church pastor, was 39 September 17. He is believed to be the oldest minister in the United States who is still active as a minister and a writer.
