

BETTERS OFFERING ODDS ON QUAKERS

Wagers Made Giving U. of O. 15 Points--Pennsylvania Grads Seem to Be Confident.

MANY TO VISIT PASADENA

Howard Berry and Henry Miller, Both on All-American, Make Up Most Dreaded Parts of Bob Folwell's Attack.

Although Oregon football players and enthusiasts are not going to be defeated by Pennsylvania without a Herculean struggle, the bettors are making Penn a substantial favorite in the wagering, both in California and in the Northwest.

This big inter-sectional affair of the year is set for New Year's day at Pasadena. Although the game is still 12 days away, quite a number of Oregon backers are already preparing for it.

Odds Given on Quakers. Yesterday, at a local betting stand, a Pennsylvania graduate laid 50 to 40 and gave Oregon 10 points.

Berry Has Able Successor. This new phenomenon is Sherman Landers, who entered Penn this Fall from the Oregon, Illinois, High School.

His most notable feat was his victory in the pole vault in the National senior championships last year. Landers won the event with a leap of 12 feet 9 inches.
