

DRY VOTE PUT OFF UNTIL JANUARY 9

Parliamentary Display on Part of Friend of Bill Causes Delay in Senate.

DEFEAT IS FEARED NOW

Senator Ashurst Physically Withdraws Land Measure, for Which Bill is Set Aside, but Returns It to Clerk.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—A parliamentary display by one of its friends late today upset plans for an immediate vote on Senator Sheppard's District of Columbia prohibition bill and advocates of the measure were obliged to agree that it go over until after the Christmas holidays for final action.

The Senate agreed to a final vote on the measure January 9 after its opponents had been sustained by the chair in contending that it lost its place on the Senate calendar by the action of Senator Ashurst in securing unanimous consent to consider a land bill.

Friends of the prohibition bill have admitted a fear that postponement of the vote until the Christmas recess would impair its chances of passage. The opponents of the prohibition bill were quick to take advantage of the opportunity to contend that it had been displaced before the Senate and was supported by a ruling from the chair.

Bill Withdrawn Physically. Senator Ashurst then sought to withdraw the land bill and to physically step by stepping to the desk and putting the document in his pocket.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, insisted that such a method of withdrawing bills was new in parliamentary procedure. "If men are permitted to dispose of legislation by physically applying strong-arm methods and grabbing bills out of the possession of the Senate," said Senator Reed, "legislative business then will resolve itself to grabbing and running. Under those circumstances the many who can grab the most and run the fastest would be the greatest statesman. If we are proceeding under the rules of the Senate, it is time we knew it. We may even descend to packing-house rules, which I understand, permit using the thumbs and even the feline method of scratching with the finger nails."

Senator Ashurst declared he was not disturbed by Mr. Reed's attack. "The Senator from Missouri," he said, "is incapable of carrying out here or elsewhere any thrust he makes against me or against anyone else. He is fond of a joke against anyone else, but when it is on himself, he dances around like a rat on a griddle trying to get off."

He declared that if Senator Reed were fair about the prohibition bill he would allow it to come to a vote. "The saloon lost out in Arizona and elsewhere," he continued, "by such tactics as these. He is not a statesman when it spread the slime of politics like this on itself."

"It will become the Senator from Missouri to use his brilliant ideas and motions against this bill."

As he concluded the Arizona Senator walked slowly down the aisle and waved the bill over his head and restored it to the clerk's desk.

The Indiana of Oklahoma may suffer, but whiskey will still reign in the National Capital," said he. The debate which followed took on the nature of a filibuster.

POWERS ASKED FOR TERMS

"The President, therefore, feels altogether justified in suggesting an immediate opportunity for a compromise of views as to the terms which must precede those ultimate arrangements for the peace of the world which all desire and in which the neutral nations, as well as those at war, are ready to play their full responsible part. If the contest must continue to proceed towards undefined ends by slow attrition until the one group of belligerents or the other is exhausted, if million after million of human lives must continue to be offered up until on the one side or the other there is no more to offer, if resentments must be kindled that can never cool and despairs engendered from which there can be no recovery, hopes of peace and of the willing concert of free peoples will be rendered vain and idle.

Life of World Affected. "The life of the entire world has been profoundly affected. Every part of the great family of mankind has felt the burden and terror of this unprecedented contest of arms. No nation in the civilized world can be said in truth to stand outside its influence or to be safe against its disturbing effects. And yet the concrete objects for which it is being waged have never been definitely stated.

"The leaders of the several belligerents have, as has been said, cited those objects in general terms. But, stated in general terms, they seem the same on both sides. Never yet have the authoritative spokesmen of either side avowed the precise objects which would, if attained, satisfy them and their people that the war had been fought out. The world has been left to conjecture what definitive results, what actual exchange of guarantees, what political or territorial changes or readjustments, what stage of military success even, would bring the war to an end.

"It may be that peace is nearer than we know; that the terms which the belligerents on the one side and on the other would deem it necessary to insist upon are not so irreconcilable as some have feared; that an interchange of views would clear the way at least for conference and make the permanent concord of the nations a hope of the immediate future—a concert of nations immediately practicable.

"The President is not proposing peace; he is not even offering mediation. He is merely proposing that soundings be taken in order that we may learn, the neutral nations with the belligerent, how near the haven of peace may be, for which all mankind longs with an intense and increasing longing. He believes that the spirit in which he speaks and the objects which he seeks will be understood by all concerned, and he confidently hopes for a response which will bring a new light into the affairs of the world."

The note to the entente group will be delivered to Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Russia, Belgium, Montenegro, Portugal, Roumania and Serbia. That to the central allies will be delivered to Germany, Austria-Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria.

It is being delivered to all neutral governments for their information.

MEDICAL BODY ELECTS

DR. J. M. SHORT CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF SOCIETY. Dr. George Whiteside Declares Chief Purpose of Profession Is to Heal and Not to Get Money.

Great interest was aroused among members of the local medical profession last night at the annual meeting of the Oregon Medical Society at the Grand Hotel, Thirteenth and Mill streets. The election of officers, over which considerable excitement was developed, resulted in the choice of Dr. J. M. Short for president.

Other officers were selected amidst an excitement, several ballots being necessary for the decision of the close races. Those finally chosen are as follows: Dr. C. J. McCusker, vice-president; Dr. J. Guy Strohm, secretary, re-elected; Dr. Katherine C. Macion, treasurer; council, Drs. David N. Roberg, Ralph Fenton, Mary McLaughlin, H. M. Green and C. C. Moore. Delegates were chosen to represent the society at the meeting of the Oregon State Medical Society at Astoria, Dec. 27-29. The delegates are Dr. J. M. Short, Dr. C. J. McCusker, Dr. J. Guy Strohm, Dr. Katherine C. Macion, Dr. David N. Roberg, Dr. Ralph Fenton, Dr. Mary McLaughlin, Dr. H. M. Green, Dr. C. C. Moore, Dr. J. M. Short, Dr. C. J. McCusker, Dr. J. Guy Strohm, Dr. Katherine C. Macion, Dr. David N. Roberg, Dr. Ralph Fenton, Dr. Mary McLaughlin, Dr. H. M. Green, Dr. C. C. Moore.

The general policy which the medical society had pursued for the past year was reviewed by Dr. George Whiteside, the retiring president of the organization. "Since its organization a number of years ago," said Dr. Whiteside, "the medical society has established the path in which all physicians should walk. The foremost purpose of our profession is to heal, and money matters should be of secondary consideration. Those physicians who concern themselves more over their fees are doing harm to three classes of individuals: first, to the patients themselves; second, they injure their brother physicians, and third, they menace the welfare of their patients."

He then made a warning against the temptation to perform unnecessary operations. In mentioning the class of surgeons who sometimes perform operations for the sake of fees, he recommended that all organs removed from patients in hospitals be sent to the professor of pathology of a medical school, who should see that it had not been removed unnecessarily.

"I hope," he said, "that all physicians will refuse to take the patients from this class of doctors," he said, in referring to those who are known to perform operations unnecessarily.

NEW LAWS CONSIDERED

CREDIT MEN ADVOCATE LEGISLATION AGAINST BAD CHECKS. Association Also Decides Not to Compromise Case of Business Failure Without Examination.

A resolution that members of the Portland Association of Credit Men should not individually or collectively compromise a case of business failure unless the case was first examined by a credit men's committee and found to be a fraud, was adopted last night by the association at its meeting at Hotel Benson. The resolution was signed by a number of members of the association and it is expected the sentiment will be upheld unanimously or practically so.

The association took up proposed legislation, particularly as it will have to do with a bad check law, which Oregon at present does not have; a law against the making of false statements, homestead and exemption law and the fire marshal law, and urged favorable action by the Legislature on the measures now pending.

Professor G. Robert McAusland, of the University of Oregon School of Commerce, was the principal speaker, discussing the advantages of fire work in credit granting.

Those present were A. L. Brown, E. A. Schoenert, G. Robert McAusland, Bert M. Denison, F. C. Wasserman, F. J. Brennan, Mr. Cater, H. S. Montgomery, L. W. Scott, E. S. Anderson, L. W. J. 200 AMERICANS FREED CITIZENS HELD IN SYRIA TO BE HELD AT BEIRUT FOR MONTH. Internment Ordered by Turks to Make Valueless Any Military Information Captives May Have.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The 200 Americans detained in Syria and Palestine by the Turkish military authorities have permission to leave via Beirut on condition that they intern at Beirut for a month to make valueless any military information they may possess, the Associated Press reported. The United States has repeatedly made diplomatic efforts to free the Americans, some of whom are missionaries and others naturalized citizens, and until now such effort has been thwarted by the Turkish military commander. Ambassador Elihu, at Constantinople, reported the Porte's action to the State Department today. Efforts will be made to have the time of internment shortened.

SPYING ONLY TASK, SAYS BOPP'S WIFE

Agents of German Consulate Not Paid to Dynamite, Declares Witness.

SMITH'S STORY ATTACKED

Informer Declared by Counsel for Defense to Have Told Relatives He Would Make $20,000 by Tale of Conspiracies.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—E. H. von Schack, vice-consul of the German consulate, who with Consul-General Franz Bopp is one of the group of defendants in the Government's conspiracy suit over the blowing up of entente munitions shipments, took the stand in his own behalf today. Mr. von Schack testified that the German consulate had employed C. C. Crowley, another of the seven defendants, to investigate alleged Japanese and Canadian military activities in California and of the alleged building of submarines for the allies at the Union Iron Works here and the shipments of munitions.

"That is all I saw employed Crowley for," he declared. "He had no instructions whatever to dynamite trains, ships or tunnels in the Puget Sound region, in California or elsewhere. On the basis of Crowley's reports, indicating violations of neutrality in America by the Canadians and the Japanese was made representations to the German Ambassador at Washington," von Schack said. "These resulted in a verdict lodged with the State Department."

"Crowley discovered for us that many Japanese, using powerful field glasses, were patrolling the California coast the first year of the war on the lookout for German warships. Their information was sent to the Japanese ships, particularly the cruiser Idzumo, by portable wireless stations installed in automobiles.

Activities Are Defended. "The reported building of submarines for our enemies, and the recruiting campaign waged in San Francisco by Canada, were also inquired into by Crowley and myself. His activities were all legitimate."

The references to the alleged Japanese and Canadian activities, as well as the alleged submarine building, were introduced after a heated controversy between Chief Counsel Roche and United States District Attorney John W. Preston.

Consul-General Franz Bopp is expected to take the stand tomorrow. Because of the various expressions employed by him and not dynamiter, Mr. Roche declared that the Government's case for alleged dynamite conspiracy falls apart.

Mr. Roche declared in his opening statement that he was prepared to prove that the Union Iron Works, of San Francisco, built submarines here during 1915 for the entente allies and shipped the parts to Canada for assembly.

He declared British war vessels had transferred Japanese from San Francisco, placing them aboard Japanese warships training in the Pacific. He also important objects by the defense to continuance of the trial on the ground that the Government had not made out a prima facie case was swept aside by Judge William H. Hunt.

In outlining his defense Mr. Roche added that C. C. Crowley, Lewis L. Smith, J. H. Van Koolbergen and Mrs. Margaret Cornell, conspirators, were not made out a prima facie case was swept aside by Judge William H. Hunt.

Spies Hired by Von Schack. As for Mr. Bopp, Mr. Roche said he was in Europe until March 15 and that Von Schack hired the spies. Von Brincken, Mr. Roche said, volunteered his services to the consulate.

Smith, having turned informer, told of trips he and Crowley made to Tacoma and Seattle where a dynamite barge was exploded on the night of May 21, 1915, and during trips to Chicago, Detroit, Canadian points and New York. Mr. Roche said of these.

"Smith will prove that Crowley was engaged in following the shipments of American-built submarines across Canada to Montreal and that he went to Montreal to report to Captain Franz von Papen."

Captain von Papen was at that time military attaché to the German Embassy.

Chief Counsel Takes Stand. Crowley's trips to the Northwest, Mr. Roche said, were simply to get information about the sailing of munition ships for Russia.

"It will also prove," said Mr. Roche, "that Crowley was in Tacoma the night the barge exploded in Seattle, and the chief counsel took the stand himself to establish the alibi.

Mr. Smith told his family in Wheeling, W. Va., he expected to make $20,000 by revealing the alleged conspiracies was also charged by Roche, who testified that $300 was paid Smith by the German Consulate on Crowley's advice, to avoid threatened notoriety. Smith testified that he had received $125 for his pay as an alleged dynamiter.

at Second and Burnside streets December 8 on a charge of violating the prohibition law, was convicted and fined last night in the Municipal Court. Mr. Harris was assessed $250 and his wife $200.

Biologist in Field Addresses Boys on Preservation of Life.

Library Hall was packed with Boy Scouts last night to hear William L. Finley, State Biologist, explain the preservation of bird life. "The Home Life of the Birds" was illustrated with pictures from some of the picturesque spots of Oregon during the mating season.

The lecturer told how a beginner might find interest in outdoor life. The building of nests for birds, which has been encouraged in the schools, was explained. Pictures taken near Portland of singing birds were included in the film.

"The Boy Scouts should cultivate a knowledge of all bird life," said Mr. Finley. "And first of all it is his duty and pleasure to learn of the birds in Portland and throughout Oregon. The bird life on the Pacific Coast is abundant. We hear much of the great colonies of seabirds, but they are not so notable as in our own state."

The lecture was given under the auspices of the Reed College Extension Department.

MYSTERY GIRL GOES HOME

Miss Clara Rauscher Still Unable to Tell of Fall From Hotel.

SALEM, Or., Dec. 20.—(Special.)—Miss Clara Rauscher, who sustained severe injuries about two weeks ago in a fall from a hotel window here, has left the hospital and gone to her home at Sublimity, her physician, Dr. W. B. Morse, said today.

Despite the lapse of time, and the fact that her memory has cleared somewhat, she still cannot remember the events surrounding the accident and officials remain as much in the dark as when she fell.

While the physician expressed hope that her memory may become clearer, he was not at all certain but the details of the accident itself may be permanent loss to her.

LAMP IN SLEIGH KILLS TWO

At Least Three Others Expected to Die From Burns and Cold.

EMERSON, Mass., Dec. 20.—One child was burned to death, another so badly burned that death followed in an hour later and three others suffered burns which are expected to prove fatal, when a sleigh carrying a family of Russell Matthews and Mrs. G. Gates caught fire from an overturned oil lamp late last night.

Other members of the party of 15 may die from the shock of long exposure in a temperature of 40 degrees below zero.

SUNDAY MOVIES ARE LEGAL

Ruling Affects Large Part of New York, Including Metropolis.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 20.—Sunday movie picture shows are legal within the jurisdiction of the first and second departments of the State Supreme Court, according to a decision handed down here today by Justice William P. Platt.

The decision, which was the outcome of an effort to close a theatre in Oseining on Sunday, will apply to all of the islands, Greater New York and Hudson River towns below Ulster and Columbia counties.

LONDON LIKELY TO REPLY

(Continued From First Page.) has been received there from Berlin that Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German Imperial Chancellor, in response to the German peace offer preceding his announcement of Germany's peace offer in the Reichstag, was given full powers to conduct peace negotiations without further consultation even with the party leaders.

"The Chancellor," says the dispatch, "refused to sign to give the peace terms, although he stated bluntly that these terms would not take any concrete form until the various expressed wishes of the numerous parties within the empire. When the leaders objected to granting the Chancellor's demands for full powers to negotiate, Dr. Bethmann-Hollweg countered with the statement that he would resign forthwith unless his demands were met."

Resignation Threat Wins. "After a long argument the leaders voted the powers the Chancellor wished, explaining later to followers that they were compelled to do this because of the fear that Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg resigned he would be succeeded by Admiral von Tirpitz."

An Amsterdam dispatch quotes the Cologne Gazette as saying: "The language of the British Prime Minister must not be taken too seriously. It is a mere bluff. The British reflections on English peace conclusions in the past, such as that in which she lost the United States and peace negotiations were conducted at Washington, the blindest obstinacy finds itself confronted with the impossible, and this limit is being brought nearer and nearer by our statesmen. Any possible contingency compelling England to make peace would be the accession of one of her allies."

Compulsory Use of Labor Possible. The most important points in the domestic policy of the new government foreshadowed by the Premier was the general mobilization of labor for war and the vital industries. Mr. Lloyd George indicated he meant to begin with a voluntary plan, and that if this failed he would ask Parliament to give the government compulsory powers to place all the labor of the state at its service. His proposal therefore follows somewhat on the line of the German mass levy.

When Mr. Lloyd George invited the labor representatives to join this cabinet, this scheme was put before them, but they deferred judgment until details were given.

Support of Workmen Needed. While expressing the opinion that, after compulsory military service, industrial conscription is a desirable, but the labor leaders are dubious as to its success, feeling the outcome depends entirely on how the workmen take it. If there is hostility in the rank and file of organized labor the scheme, they believe, will fail.

The last allied to Neville Chamberlain, who has been appointed director-general of national service, of scheduling certain industries as indispensable and supplying them with the necessary labor and material and at the same time putting the indispensable industries on fixed allowances of labor, raw material and man power, is considered a stupendous one, but Mr. Chamberlain's great experience in business is expected to carry him through.

He will, it is believed, direct or under him to conduct recruiting for the army and a civil director in charge of recruiting for industry.

PAPER MILL BUILDS Hawley Company Announces Second Big Addition. $40,000 TRACT BOUGHT Oregon City Council is Asked for Vacation of Street and Dozen Buildings Are to Be Razed to Make Room for Plant.

OREGON CITY, Or., Dec. 20.—(Special.)—It became known tonight that the Hawley Pulp & Paper Company will begin soon the construction of a second additional unit to its mill here. The company, through C. D. and D. C. Latourette, its attorneys, appeared in a Council meeting tonight and asked for the vacation of Fourth street from Main to the Southern Pacific tracks, part of the site of the new plant. The Council unanimously passed on first reading the ordinance vacating the street.

The paper company today acquired the half block bounded by Main street, the Southern Pacific, Fourth street and an alley, from James Tracy for $40,000. The new buildings will extend from Third to the alley between Fourth and Fifth streets, almost 400 feet on Main Street.

The new mill will probably contain about 100,000 feet of paper-making machinery, necessary equipment, such as beaters and finishing equipment. Reinforced concrete will probably be used in its construction.

The company is now completing a $750,000 addition to its plant—two big buildings, one along Main street and the other on the island, near Mill A. W. P. Hawley, Sr., announced several months ago that he intended to build ultimately a mill which would employ 1000.

Two hundred more men will be employed in the plant which will be completed next month and this second additional unit will probably add another 200 men to the payroll, bringing the total number of hands in the company's mill up to 800, and the number of men employed in the paper industry at the falls of the Willamette to 1700.

The Council expressed its desire to do anything to aid in the upbuilding of industries here. A large part of the property on which the new mill will stand now is vacant, but a dozen buildings must be torn down or moved to make room for it. The freight shed of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, standing on the corner of Third and Main streets, is probably the largest structure on the property. The old Armory, used now as a storehouse by the paper company, stands on the site.

Bank Robbers Get $10.75. NIWOT, Colo., Dec. 20.—Ten dollars and seventy-five cents is believed to be the amount of cash secured by three robbers who last night broke into the Niwot State Bank, blew open the vault and rifled the safety deposit boxes. From one of these boxes it is reported the robbers obtained $300 in stamps left there by the postmaster.

WOMAN ROBBED OF WATCH Theater Ticket Agent Says Timepiece Is Taken From Booth. Mrs. Winifred A. Tibbets, ticket-seller at the Alhambra Theater, East Forty-ninth street and Hawthorne avenue, reported to the police last night that a man had robbed her of a watch while she was sitting in the booth in front of the theater.

The watch lay on the ticket desk just inside the booth. Mrs. Tibbets said that the man thrust his hand through the aperture for handing out tickets, seized the timepiece and fled. "I'll have that, thank you," she says the man told her. Patrolman Myers searched the neighborhood.

DRIVER IGNORES VICTIM Auto Fells J. A. Emerson, 78 Years Old, and Keeps on Its Way. J. A. Emerson, aged 78 years, was knocked down by a motor truck at Fifth and Alder streets early last night, and his hand was crushed under one of the wheels. The driver of the truck did not stop to assist his victim, and the police are searching for witnesses of the accident.

Mr. Emerson was taken to his room in the St. Charles Hotel. He is a timber cruiser.

Burglars Enter Realty Man's Home. Burglars last night entered the home of Cord Songstake, realty dealer, who lives at 354 Tenth street, and obtained a suit of clothing, a pair of opera glasses and minor articles of jewelry. Entrance was made by prying open a window. Detectives Tichenor and Maloney and Patrolman Dairyple investigated.

Greek Arrested as Masher. Gust Vondickis, a Greek, was arrested at Second and Burnside streets last night by Patrolmen Nelson and Barker, and charged with violating the masher's ordinance. Mrs. Harry Hill complained that the man had taken her by the arm and tried to persuade her to go for a walk.
