BY GERTRUDE P. CORBETT

MEMBERS of the Woman's Exchange and the board of directors, as well as the long list of patronesses and committees now being selected, are devoting all their energies to making the annual charity ball, which will be held in the Multnomah Hotel on Thursday evening, January 18, a huge success, even greater than the previous ones, which are among the most notable events in the history of Portland society.

This year's ball will be notable for two features, the excellent supper that will be supplied by the consignors to the exchange, which assures a delicious menu, and the music. The music is a special privilege, granted by the management of the Multnomah Hotel, because of the interest in the work of the exchange. They, for the first time, have given their consent to permit the entire orchestra from the grill to play for the dancers. This orchestra is probably the most popular in Portland with the dance contingent, and the fact that the annual charity ball, by having this wonderful music proclaims a large attendance. Portland folk are becoming critical about dance, and the fact that the annual charity ball, by having this wonderful music proclaims a large attendance. Portland folk are becoming critical about dance, and the fact that the annual charity ball, by having this wonderful music proclaims a large attendance.

Mrs. E. L. Thompson and Mrs. Holt C. Wilson are at the head of the arrangement committee, and are working faithfully for the event.

Knights of Columbus, fourth degree, Portland Assembly, will give their annual ball on Friday evening, January 19, in the Multnomah Hotel. It will be an elaborate affair, and all Knights and their friends are invited to attend.

Patrons and patronesses are: Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McDougall, Mr. and Mrs. H. Korn, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Albers, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Kalvelage, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Sweeney, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Hanley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Zeran, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Phelan, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas J. Drew and Mr. and Mrs. William M. Delle.

Reception committee—Frank J. Lonergan, chairman; James P. Clarkson, Daniel J. Maloney, Joseph Jacobberger, Michael F. Brady, Roger B. Sinnott, J. H. Sangunet, John P. McIntee, Charles W. Stinger, J. Andre Foulhoux, John F. Kavanagh, Frank E. Jones, John C. McChie, John D. McGowan, Dr. Andrew C. Smith, John M. Gearing, Dr. Ben L. Norden and James P. Cooke.

Committee on arrangements—Robert J. O'Neill, chairman; William E. Prudhomme, Edmund J. Madigan, John J. Beckman and Anton R. Zeller.

Mrs. W. P. Morris, of Albany, Or., is the house guest of Mrs. J. B. Gentry. She came to attend the King-Gentry nuptials.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Leadbetter with their children, the Misses Dorothy and Betty and Master Pitcock Leadbetter, have been passing the holidays at the Greenbrier White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Mr. Leadbetter and his son have been frequently on the links, going over the 18-hole course almost every day.

Mrs. Leadbetter has started for New York with Miss Dorothy and Master Pitcock to place them in school for their second semester, and Mr. Leadbetter has departed for California, where he had taken his youngest daughter for the winter.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized Saturday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Gentry when their daughter, Edna Mae, was wedded to Charles Clark, of Corvallis, Or., by Rev. Mr. Chambers, of the Episcopal Church. The house was decorated with ferns and orchids. The young couple will be home after January 20 at Corvallis, Or., where Mr. King is in the postoffice department.

The annual banquet of the Portland Alumni Club of the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity was held Saturday evening in the blue room of the Multnomah Hotel. Under the guidance of Toastmaster Wallace McCannant a highly enjoyed program of brilliant speeches was displayed.

At the annual election the following members were elected to hold office for the year: Miles Standish, president; F. C. Howell, vice-president; Arthur S. Olsen, secretary; W. M. Huntington, treasurer; Ralph W. Wilbur, chaplain.

Colleges from all parts of the country were represented, the members present including: Mrs. W. H. Smith, Mrs. Lewis, Charles M. Hemphill, J. C. Miller, Leland V. Belknap, Maurice A. St. Ann's Society will meet Thursday afternoon at 151 North Twenty-first street with Mrs. R. Breeze as hostess.

STYLE TIPS FROM PORTLAND STORES

A FEW new Spring dresses are finding their way to the local shops, and attractive they are, indeed, with their horizontal stripes and Georgette sleeves. Of the several models to arrive all are silk and most of them striped, with the stripes running east and west. The sleeves are quite full above the cuff, and there are collars of various types on the frocks, and a few vest effects.

One good-looking frock has a V-shaped effect in front with white Georgette vest with little odd buttons. The skirt is slightly circular and comes in points at the sides that hang a bit longer than the rest of the skirt. The material, also with horizontal stripes. There are big plaits on each hip, and the skirt is straight in front and in the back. The sleeves are of Georgette crepe, dark blue, and the silk is also blue, with the stripes of golden, brown and green.

Big collars that square in the back and rippling are on many of the new dresses, and white collars may be worn over them. Cords and buttons and pockets are very popular; braiding and embroidery still hold good, and checked and convention designs, achieved either by cutting the material or by embroidery, are good.

The collars shown at the shops are of diversified design and many colors. Mustard shades, yellow, burnt orange, tan, gray and pink and the new lavender are colors that may be had in silk and satin collars of new design. The new collar, with the round effect in front and buttons in the back and with rippling square or circular collar, are among the popular ones. There are many of distinctive models with tiny black or colored borders. These, with cuffs to match, are excellent for suits.

Portland Woman's Research Club will hold a luncheon on Thursday in the hotel. Mrs. Philip Gevurtz will be chairman. The program will be Judge Stevenson and Walter H. Evans will speak. Mrs. Jane Burns Albert will sing.

Elton Watkins will speak today at the meeting of the Political Science Club in the library. "The Illegitimate Child" will be the subject. "Women as Jurors" also will be a topic of discussion.

WOMEN'S CLUBS BY EDITH KNIGHT HOLMES

CLUBS' CALENDAR FOR TODAY.

Tuesday Afternoon Club—With Mrs. E. H. Whitney, 1384 Mission street, 2 to 4.

Peninsula Parent-Teacher Association—In the school, 2:30 P. M.

Corriente Club—With Mrs. J. F. Kinder, Alexandra Court, this afternoon.

Political Science Club—Library, this afternoon.

Franklin High Association—Tonight, 8 o'clock.

Alberta Woman's Club—Ver-non School, tonight.

Delphin Matrons' Club—With Mrs. E. R. Kirkpatrick, 1000, tonight.

Oregon Equal Suffrage Alliance—Library, tonight.

EXCELLENT work of a wide range is shown as the accomplishment of the Visiting Nurse Association, of which Mrs. Robert G. Dieck is president, in the report given at the last meeting, held a few days ago.

The report of the association for the month of December follows:

General work—Total number of patients cared for during December, 178; total visits to patients during December, 508.

Tuberculosis work—Total number of patients cared for during December, 102; total number of visits to patients, 255.

The superintendent reports that through the efforts of the association, 324 children, representing 84 families, in which the Visiting Nurses had patients, were cared for at Christmas.

There were many cases of children, where they received clothing, toys, etc., and there were baskets of edibles and clothing for the whole family.

Besides the above baskets of food and clothing were sent to seven old people.

The association will have for a visitor the latter part of January Miss Mary E. Lent, assistant field secretary of the National League for Public Health Nursing. Miss Lent was formerly superintendent of the Visiting Nurse Association of Baltimore, Md. Upon invitation of the city of Los Angeles, she went there one year ago to reorganize the public health nursing of that city under the auspices of Health. Los Angeles is now employing a large staff of nurses, over 30 in number. Miss Lent is now returning to headquarters of the Public Health Nursing League in New York City. She is speaking on public health matters in cities of California, Washington, Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Missouri.

The Visiting Nurse Association reports a good start has been made in the business of collecting waste paper. Members and friends of the association are saving old newspapers and magazines, which are called for at regular intervals and sold. It is hoped that the conservation of waste paper will please call Main 4087, or the Oregon Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, Main 5442.

The president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Joseph Evans Cowles, announces that Baby week for 1917 will be held from May 1 to 6. A representative of the children's bureau under the charge of Miss Julia Lathrop, is in conference with the departments of civics (chairman Mrs. Bessie Leach Priddy), home economics (chairman Mrs. Joseph Gawler) and public health (chairman Mrs. Elmer Blair) to make out the most effective way in which clubwomen everywhere can help in this special campaign for the welfare of children.

Every state chairman of civics in the country has received from Mrs. Priddy, the National chairman, a list of suggestions for the threefold activities in civics work, namely, in the National fields urged by the General Federation, as the betterment of the motion picture situation, rural work, junior education, Americanization, cleanup; second, in the work for municipal centers, child labor, good roads, household educator for immigrant women, etc.; third, for municipal civics work. All individual clubs can in turn get these suggestions and a remarkable bibliography on these subjects by applying to their state chairman.

Portland Shakespeare Study Club will entertain members and friends to-morrow at a elaborate luncheon in the Hotel Multnomah. Mrs. Anton Gleibisch will give the address of welcome. Mrs. Julia C. LaBarre will preside as toastmistress. Short talks and toasts will be given. Mrs. J. C. Elliott King will speak on "The Humor of Shakespeare." Miss Yella Winner will respond to "The Drama and the Press." Miss Eileen Brong will give a reading and Miss Nola Lawler will sing. Mrs. S. Townsend will speak on the club and its work and Edith Knight Holmes will respond to the toast "Our Friends." Toasts will be responded to with quotations from Shakespeare.

Chapter M. P. E. O. Sisterhood, will meet to-morrow with Mrs. E. Horton, 521 East Twentieth street North.

Ladd School will have an entertainment Thursday night. Superintendent Alderman will lecture. Miss Blanche Cohen will sing and Elma Anderson will play. A candy sale will conclude the evening.

Albina W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of H. T. T. Liberty, 845 Northwick street, today, at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Scott will be the speaker for the afternoon.

Miss Jessie Spafford, recently elected president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, is a graduate of Vassar, a post-graduate student of mathematics and physics in the Polytechnic of Zurich, Switzerland, and in the universities of Chicago and Wisconsin. She taught these subjects at Rockford College and in the nine years in which she has been president of the Rockford Woman's Club has built up its membership from 100 to 1000. The club runs a settlement and a high school luncheon and is planning a $8000 clubhouse.

is Portland going to have that woman's clubhouse, for which a site at East Tenth and Welder street is now available. Mrs. G. F. Frazer is chairman of the committee that has the option.

Delphin Matrons' Club will meet to-day with Mrs. E. R. Kirkpatrick, 1000 East Thirty-fifth street.

Corriente Club will be entertained today by Mrs. J. F. Kinder at her apartments in Alexandra Court.

The West Side Lavender Club will meet today at 2:30 o'clock in the library. Mrs. E. R. Kirkpatrick will preside. The musical program. Refreshments will be served and a social hour enjoyed.

Portland Woman's Research Club will hold a luncheon on Thursday in the hotel. Mrs. Philip Gevurtz will be chairman. The program will be Judge Stevenson and Walter H. Evans will speak. Mrs. Jane Burns Albert will sing.

Elton Watkins will speak today at the meeting of the Political Science Club in the library. "The Illegitimate Child" will be the subject. "Women as Jurors" also will be a topic of discussion.

Mrs. W. E. Pearson will entertain tomorrow. Williamette Chapter, A. R. M. W. Election of officers will be a feature.

The Legislative Council, representing the larger organizations whose headquarters are chiefly women, has established in the city a new organization building in Salem. Mrs. Jennie Kemp, state president of the W. C. T. U., is in charge.

The Oregon Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Association is "mothering" this legislative term. The measures are an amendment to the widow's pension law; the eight-minimum school term bill; an enabling act to establish parent-teacher schools; a bill providing universal suffrage at school elections.

The Council of Parent-Teacher Associations is holding its annual child labor committee in urging that the Parent-Teacher Association observe in 28 and 29.

A programme, a sermon, or at least some reference to the subject is asked. The subject is the child labor of this country. The subject is the child labor of this country. The subject is the child labor of this country.

The National child labor committee, 104 East Twenty-second street, New York, will send free pamphlets for the day upon request.

The executive board of the Y. W. C. A. will meet this morning for election of officers.

TRAINING THE CHILD BY WILLIAM BYRON FORBUSH, PH.D.

(Copyright, 1916.)

THERE are days in every household that may be termed "weather-breeders." The thermometer is high and the barometer is decidedly low. As the forecaster would say: Air close, weather threatening, with probability of frequent thunder showers.

On such days we have with us "the terrible-tempered Mr. Bang," and we should look for "the outburst of Ewerett True."

We generally know early in the morning, when the child is still in bed, what the day will be. The child's snap at each other like young dogs, somebody starts crying before breakfast, and it is not long before you hear a child threatening with probability of frequent thunder showers.

"Brighten the Corner Where You Are." We need not grow long on the subject of the child's snap at each other like young dogs, somebody starts crying before breakfast, and it is not long before you hear a child threatening with probability of frequent thunder showers.

First, for brightness. Unless the weather is impossibly hot make it a little brighter. Brighten the corner where the child is sitting. Brighten the corner where the child is sitting.

ing instead of waiting until evening. Turn on the electricity or send out for candles. Hang a prism in the window to refract whatever sunlight there is. Invite Harold to sit by the window with your toilet mirror and throw flashes of light across the room.

Give the children some symbolical sunshine. Wind up the phonograph for the liveliest dance tune it holds. Start "Brighten the Corner Where You Are" or "Let a Little Sunshine In" as a family chorus at the breakfast table. Get out the brightest-colored picture books and send Marian around the corner for some red paper and gilt paint to play with.

Mother Making Sunshine. This is all sane psychology. It is simply doing what William James used to advise: "giving reasonable ideas a hearing." It is built upon the idea that not only do we laugh because we are glad, but we are glad because we laugh. If you can once get the children to laughing heartily it will at once clear the air.

As the children grow older they ought to co-operate with mother when she starts in to work for fair weather. They should be used to hang out this sign on mornings of disappointment or worry:

The dog is in the pantry.

The cat is in the hammock.

What difference does it make?

This was taken as a signal by all who were true sports that mother was not to be left alone in making sunshine, and it was the immediate duty of each to start to play. Sunshine consists in making everybody else laugh out loud.

Suggestions for Restful Play. Since the muggy days usually are because of fatigue, they suggest the need of play that is Sundayish restful. The child is to be treated as a convalescent, not as a sinner. If the mother has a "Sunday box" of special toys and books she might make an exception by letting it out and openly declare that she is creating an additional Sunday.

If the unrest is because the children are confined by the rain, and they go out and play in the mud and water, let two sensational suggestions be offered, which work. Get some cleanish sheets or a clean towel and lay them out on a sheet of oilcloth on the kitchen floor. Fill the bathtub with warm water and install a temporary ocean. Let the children play in the water, things, if the children's clothes are protected.

fine sunshine-play is the blowing of soap bubbles. Get out the woolen shawl or a blanket, so the children can make the bubbles bound on it. Your own ingenuity will serve you. This is the day to reparer the doll house, to rummage the piece-bag to make dolls out of peanuts or buttons, to play tumbling to make acrobatics for stock children—all sunny and funny things—and restful, too.

Yes, you can change the household weather. You are mother magician, if you try. Long before night the forecaster will put out this bulletin: "Clearing weather, fresh breezes, and fair tomorrow."

The Perpetual Interceptor. To the Editor—Marie annoys me so much by breaking into conversation. This occurs both when she is alone and when we have company. I have reproved her for it over and over, but she forgets and grows no better.

The method of repression does not pay. School teachers tell me that the greatest trouble they have with young children is to get them to talk. One teacher said to me the other day: "Don't parents ever allow their children to talk when they are at home? They are almost tongue-tied when we get them at school." I am convinced that it is most important to persuade children to talk when they are at home. They are almost tongue-tied when we get them at school." I am convinced that it is most important to persuade children to talk when they are at home.

What happens is often this: They have such a small range of observation that their conversation is not interesting, and so we elders let it come in at one ear and go out of the other without giving them any real attention. We interrupt them without compunction and force them to tell things over simply because we did not hear the first time. Their exasperatingly high voices are often due to the earnest desire to be attended to, even at the cost of trying to drown the heavier voices of those who are older. I would often at table play the game of "Taking Turns," during which the family shall agree to speak pleasantly to the little folks, and to apart times when they may come to us and talk confidentially without interruption. I would try to help make their own talk more worth-while by suggesting matters more worth-while for them to investigate. Soon if you are you can train Marie to come quietly to your side and wait there until there is a pause in the conversation or you give her permission to speak.

Shall We Encourage Practical Jokes? To the Editor—Fred has got in the way of preparing practical jokes. He often makes them so funny that they are almost unbearable. I have reproved him for it over and over, but he forgets and grows no better.

I would be thankful that Fred has a sense of humor. It is a rare gift. But I would seek for more comforting methods for its exercise. Your letter tells me that Fred is 10, which makes me think that he is suffering chiefly from excess of animal spirits. I would see that his time when he is about the house is filled with play and work. Explain to him that it is just as funny to play a joke that affords pleasure to all as to him alone. Insist that if he indulges in the other kind you have a few "practical jokes" of your own in store that you would like to try on him. Tell him that such tasks as bringing in the coal, cleaning up the cellar, etc., and assign him to them whenever he has done anything that has caused annoyance to others. Make the treatment positive all the way through. Don't punish him by confinement or forced idleness. Co-operate with him in getting up surprises that will give pleasure to the rest of the household and take him in on all plans for family festivals.

Auditor Barbur Wants Deferred

Fines Listed as City Debts.

City Commissioner Bigelow may become sponsor for a city ordinance which has been recommended by City Auditor Barbur changing the system of handling installment fines in the Municipal Court and placing the Municipal Judge under bond. Auditor Barbur report covering the lax methods now existing in the court system will be before the Council tomorrow morning and will be referred to Commissioner Bigelow.

Auditor Barbur after a detailed investigation of the financial end of the court system has reported that only a small part of the installment fines imposed by the court are collected. He says there is no apparent effort made to check up on the installments or to force payment. He has recommended that the fines which when imposed become a debt payable to the city, be collected by the Auditor's office the same as other municipal debts. By this means the installments can be followed up carefully.

ALCOHOL LAW IS DESIRED

City Ordinance Deferred Pending

State Action to Curb Sale.

The question of regulating the sale of ethyl alcohol will be left by the City Council to the State Legislature, now in session. Proposed ordinances to curb the sale of the intoxicant were laid on the table yesterday until the Legislature has had a whack at the subject.

Pressing demands for local legislation to curb sale of the intoxicant have been made on the Council by various persons and organizations and an investigation of the proper course has been made. It is thought by the Council now that a state law might be better than a city ordinance. After the state law is enacted, the Council will then be in a position to supplement the state law.
