ARGUING AGAINST CONVICTIONS Many Students Doing It Through Compulsion in Debates.

PORTLAND, Jan. 11.—(To the Editor.)

For some time I have been wanting to call attention in The Oregonian to what appears to me to be a mistaken method our city school management has in conducting debates between the high school children. The announced effort of President Foster, of Reed College, to inaugurate a change as far as college debates are concerned gives

A bright youth of my acquaintance, who is frequently called upon to take part in debates, has called my attention to the fact that in a large percentage of the debates in which he takes part he is required to take the side in which he does not believe. The subject is selected and, regardless of the convictions of the debaters, their sides are assigned to them. In my judgment, it is all wrong, while youths are taking impressions that stay with them all their lives, that they should be put up to announce their beliefs and convictions for that in which they do not believe. It has a bad moral effect, but when I have presented that view to some of my acquaintances I get as a reply that "they all do it." as though that were a good argument.

It is a strange thing that our educators have not before this seen that this bright youth of my acquaintance.

There is a law to the effect that the old tale.

railroads must furnish cars to ship-pers upon written application within a stipulated time and penaltics are provided for failure to comply with the law. However, it is said unfavorable railroads must furnish cars to shiplaw. However, it is said unfavorable rulings by the Supreme Court have that it is not enforced. The law provides that a shipper, having freight on hand to load in carload lots, may domand that cars be supplied to the number of five or less in five days, from five to ten cars in not more than ten days, more than ten and not more than 30 in 15 days, etc. Failure to supply cars makes the railroad company liablic to a demurrage charge of $2 for the first 24-hour delay, per car, $3 for the second 24 hours of delay beyond the time specified, and $4 for each additional 24-hour delay. But the law expressly states that the railroads shall not be held liable when egngestion of traffic elsewhere, accidents, delays and other causes for which the companies are not responsicars as required. This provision will, naturally, explain about every delayed delivery of cars in this territory.
