

SUBMARINES SINK BRITISH WARSHIPS

Battleship Cornwallis Is Lost in Mediterranean and 13 of Crew Are Missing.

SEAPLANE CARRIER GONE

Converted Merchantman Doing Service With Fleet Is Victim of U-Boat—Explosion Accompanies Its Attack on Fighter.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The sinking of the British warship Cornwallis by a submarine in the Mediterranean Tuesday was announced today by the Admiralty. The seaplane carrier Ben-My-Chree also has been sunk.

Thirteen men from the Cornwallis are missing and are believed to have been killed by the explosion.

The warship referred to apparently is the British battleship Cornwallis of 14,000 tons. The last previous reports showed that she was in service in the Mediterranean.

There is also a Cornwallis in the Z class, consisting of warships retired from active service, but the fact that she was sunk in the Mediterranean indicates that it is the battleship which has been lost.

The battleship Cornwallis was laid down in 1907. She was 405 feet long and was armed with 4 12-inch, 12 six-inch and 12 three-inch guns, six three-pounders and four torpedo tubes. Her normal complement was 750 men.

The Ben-My-Chree was a converted merchantman of 2551 tons gross.

Progress of the War.

THE Turks apparently are receiving hard usage at the hands of the British in the Mesopotamian and Egyptian theaters. Following up their advance northeast of Kut-el-Amara, on the Tigris in Mesopotamia, early in the week, the British have again attacked and captured Turkish guns, six three-pounders and four torpedo tubes. Heavy casualties on the Ottomans.

On the Sinai Peninsula, 30 miles northeast of El Arish, Egypt, six lines of Turkish trenches in front of the town of Rafa have been captured by King George's men.

Hard fighting is still in progress in the region of Riga, in northwest Russia, but the exact situation is still not clear owing to the divergent reports of the Russian and German newspapers. Petrograd asserts that the Russians south of Lake Babit captured a village near the town of Kaluzin and repulsed German counter-attacks farther east.

Berlin says that all Russian attacks were completely repulsed. Admission is made by Petrograd that the Russian and Roumanian forces in Moldavia have made further retirements in the Oltz, Kasaula and Sinitza regions, but it is asserted that the Teutons who crossed the Putna River north of Pokshan have been driven back across the stream, suffering heavy casualties.

On the other fronts nothing but minor operations and artillery duels have taken place. The British on the front in France have at several points penetrated the German trenches, inflicting casualties on the defenders.

STOLEN VIOLIN RECOVERED

Valuable Instrument Taken From Auto Found in Pawnshop.

A violin, valued at $500 and stolen from the automobile Miss Lillian Morgan was driving, while she went into the Friedner building Wednesday morning, was recovered yesterday forenoon in a pawnshop on Third street. It had been pawned for $5 by a man giving the name of August Wagner.

Miss Morgan, the daughter of W. L. Morgan, had left the violin in the rear of the machine, covered with a sweater coat. She went into the lobby of the building and was not gone more than five minutes. When she returned the instrument was gone.

LOAN IS LAUNCHED

Tremendous Enthusiasm Is Shown at London Meeting.

POPULARITY IS PREDICTED

Bonar Law Hints at Forced Loan if This One Fails—Country That Gives Sons Will Not Refuse Money, Is Keynote.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The new British loan was launched at a great mass meeting at Guild Hall today, when the Premier, David Lloyd George, supplemented his appeal for subscriptions with a brief and confident review of the war situation, and Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, discussed the financial end of the plan.

Tremendous enthusiasm was displayed by the crowds of people. Supporting the principal speakers was an enormous assemblage of statesmen and commercial and financial leaders.

It was the Prime Minister's first public engagement since he took his present office and as he has just returned from the Rome conference, curiosity to hear his speech outweighed even that to learn the terms of the new loan, which is commonly called the "win-the-war loan."

Bonar Law Strikes Keynote. Mr. Bonar Law explained the new loan, which, briefly, gives the option of a 5 per cent taxable loan at 95 or a tax compound loan at 4 per cent at par, which apparently is liable only to a super-tax. Both loans will be free of income tax if held outside the United Kingdom.

The keynote of the meeting was to be found in a phrase used by Mr. Bonar Law, "will it ever be said that this country is willing to give its sons, not its money?"

This was greeted with red-echoing cheers. The reception of Mr. Bonar Law's statement seemed to predict the great popularity of the loan, but a still greater reception awaited Mr. Lloyd George, whose report of the great confidence felt at the Rome conference in ultimate victory aroused a storm of cheers.

Mr. Lloyd George made an eloquent appeal to the nation to subscribe to the new loan, and it is believed his appeal is not likely to fall on deaf ears after the plain hint from Mr. Bonar Law of a forced loan, should this loan not attain its object.

ASTORIA COUNCIL SPLITS

Noisy Session Held Over Question of More Policemen.

ASTORIA, Or., Jan. 11.—(Special).—A split in the City Council occurred Monday night over Mayor Harley's recommendation that three additional members be added to the police force. A majority report favored the appointments, but a minority report opposed it. A whirlwind of abuse followed, in which several of the Councilmen participated. Profane language was used freely, and a fight seemed likely, when the Mayor rapped the obstreperous lawmakers to order and instructed the chief of police to remove any individual who forgot his dignity.

The minority report was lost by a tie vote, and the majority report was referred back to the committee.

The law as at present amended requires that the witnesses be visited and questioned in person.
