

AD CLUB HIGH JINKS IS ONE LONG FROLIC

King Yam and Queen Yama Informally Reign Over 150 Loyal Subjects.

NEW BOARD IS INTRODUCED

Presidency of Organization Settled by Boxing Contest Between W. D. Whitcomb, Retiring Head, and S. C. Bratton, New Chief.

King Yam and Queen Yama reigned at the Benson Hotel last night; but not after the fashion of formal dignified royalty, for about 150 of these "Yams" and "Yamas" who attended the Ad Club high jinks made such a thing impossible. Besides the democratic instincts of "Bill" Strandberg and the democratic principles of S. C. Bratton, J. L. Duffy and R. H. Atkinson would forestall anything regal. The result was that staid formality took a night off and perfect abandon and rhythmic ease took its place. There was a touch of Bohemianism. The atmosphere was surcharged with a spirit of goodfellowship. The entire programme with its varied entertainment brought about exactly what was expected—a delightfully good time.

Presidency Up to Boxers.

After an hour of dancing, W. P. Strandberg took charge of affairs, announcing that the next feature would be the installation of officers. John T. Dougal was introduced as the "Lord High Executioner and Lord High Incubator." Each of the retiring directors was asked if he had any excuse for living and was tapped on the head with a pink stocking filled with excelsior, then dragged away by two husky bullies. George L. Baker and Frank M. Case.

The orchestra played a dirge and Coroner Dammasch was asked to give the club special reduced rates on a "job lot of inquests over a first-class bunch of ancient and useless stiff." The matter of presidency of the club was settled in a retelling three-minute boxing contest with real gloves between Walter D. Whitcomb, retiring president, and S. C. Bratton, new president. The new president obtained a knockout (by request).

Policies Not Outlined.

After the new board had been introduced and "My policies," ex-President Whitcomb was restored to life and presented with a life membership in the club. Charles E. Stone, ex-president, making the presentation speech. The retiring board was: Walter D. Whitcomb, president; E. S. Higgins, first vice-president; J. L. Duffy, second vice-president; J. L. Duffy, secretary; R. H. Atkinson, L. R. Bailey, H. J. Elasing, M. Mosesohn, Miles Standish, W. P. Strandberg, Hartridge Whipp, directors.

The new board is as follows: S. C. Bratton, president; J. L. Duffy, first vice-president; R. H. Atkinson, second vice-president; S. W. Mills, secretary; Percy Arlett, Roy O. Burnett, D. C. Freeman, H. E. Lee, J. M. McLoughlin, M. D. Stone, Dr. S. E. Wright, directors.

ORPHEUM STAR AUTHOR

WILLIAM M. CRESSY TO APPEAR IN OWN SKETCH.

With Well-Known Writer of Playlets Will Be Blanche Dayne—Production Is New One.

Cressy and Dayne, Who Will Be at Orpheum Next Week.

William M. Cressy and Blanche Dayne, one of the most popular couples in big-time vaudeville, after an absence of two years, will return to Portland next Sunday. They are joint headliners of the new Orpheum show to begin a four days' engagement Sunday afternoon. Mr. Cressy is the most prolific author of playlets in the world. He has written 142 sketches, all successful, and in one season 86 of these were being presented in vaudeville theaters in the United States.

The vehicle of Cressy & Dayne this season is a brand-new production. It is called "A City Case," and built so that Cressy appears as a squire similar to his character in "A Village Lawyer," "Bill Biffins' Baby" and "The New Paper" and Miss Dayne in Genevieve Montmorency, like her characterization in the Cressy classic, "Town Hall Tonight."

GENERAL WHITE IS HERE

HEAD OF OREGON NATIONAL GUARD HOME FROM BORDER.

To Appear Before Legislative Committee in Behalf of State Forces Is Object of Visit.

Adjutant-General George A. White returned to Portland late last night from Calexico, where he is in command of Troop A. He came north for the purpose of appearing before the legislative and means committee of the Legislature in the interest of the National Guard.

When shown reports that a new state military code had been prepared by certain parties for the purpose of eliminating him as Adjutant-General and that he had brought with him a new code of his own, General White merely laughed.

He said he had no code and had no intention of presenting one, that he did not come here in his own interest but to aid in securing certain appropriations for the maintenance of the National Guard. He declined to discuss military matters in detail until he has gotten more closely in touch with the situation here.

E. A. CLARKE IS NAMED

Progressive Business Men Nominate and Hear Address.

Earl A. Clarke, a prominent Portland realty man, yesterday was nominated as president of the Progressive Business Men's Club. Other officers and trustees nominated are: First vice-president, Frank Hilton; second vice-president, H. G. Ellinger; treasurer, F. H. Kneeland; re-nominated; secretary, Harold C. Jones; trustees, B. F. Boynton, J. P. Jaeger, T. H. Sherrard, C. H. Farrington, J. E. Tomlinson, E. T. Richards, L. L. Buzze, Frank Uphaw, Dr. George H. Gardner and Sidney C. Rasmussen.

Universal Training Urged. The need for universal military training to stimulate a patriotism stultified by a lack of individual responsibility in the Nation's safety and to give this country an adequate defense was urged last night before a gathering of young attorneys at the Benson Hotel by Edgar B. Piper.

Mr. Piper reviewed the tactical mistakes made during the Civil War by volunteers who were lacking in organization and said that many thousands of lives would have been spared had universal military service been a reality in this country at that time.

MR. PORTER SPEAKS

Lecture on Christian Science Largely Attended.

SAME TALK IS TONIGHT

Healing and Redemption Work of Science Held to Afford Proof That Results Are Not Fragmentary or Haphazard.

A large and attentive audience heard the free public lecture on Christian Science, delivered in the edifice of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Nineteenth and Everett streets, last night, by William W. Porter, C. S. B., member of the board of lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The lecture will be repeated at the same place this evening at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Porter said in part: "That it is the undoubted right and privilege of every person to know the truth is a proposition with which all will readily agree. Therefore we may be assured in the outset that it is a right thing for us to be here seeking to know the truth—seeking to know something of the healing truth involved in Christian Science."

"It is not the purpose of the lecture rudely to challenge or compel the relinquishment of any cherished religious principle, or the abandonment of any sustaining or upholding ideal, opinion or thought, which may have heretofore been a source of comfort and help to anyone."

Will of God Held Good. "It should be universally recognized and known that the will of God must be good."

"There are hundreds of thousands of men and women and children in all lands who have learned and are learning daily in Christian Science that God's will is—good."

"Whatever humanity has known or believed concerning God in all ages has determined the happiness, harmony, health, peace, prosperity, progress and development of humanity."

"And right here is encountered a fact the significance of which may never be forgotten by the student of Christian Science; that with the true idea of God which Christ Jesus inculcated came his many mighty works of healing and redemption, as well as those of his students and followers which continued upwards of three centuries thereafter."

"It would be impossible to conceive of God except as all-wise, or infinite mind; and as there is no place where mind is not, God, who is all-wise, infinite mind, is omnipresent, hence incorporeal."

God Is Love, Is Declaration. "In language inspired and inspiring, John, who fulfilled so wonderfully the great trust reposed in him by the master—this beloved disciple declares that God is love. Love that is without beginning and without ending, the same yesterday, and today, and forever, as defined and interpreted by principle and truth."

"How much humanity has needed to know this God who is infinite love. And all of the teachings of Christ Jesus point clearly not only to the propriety, but to the imperative necessity for gaining a true understanding of God, and of truly understanding man's unity with God."

"The healing and redemptive works of Christian Science afford proof to thoughtful persons that the results in question are not fragmentary or haphazard in their nature and occurrence; but by reason of their magnitude, multiplicity and permanence, they belong to and are rightly classified as the effect of law."

"The term law may be and is variously defined, but in its true and highest meaning law may be said to be that which manifests or makes known the enduring stability of truth, the perfect continuity of life, the unchanging

ONE PARTNER FOOLS AUDIENCE, OTHER EXPOSES METHOD.

Clever Dancer, Good Singing Act, Pretty Girls and Charming Frocks Make Bill Pleasing.

Temperamental, ornery and wholly dependable is Felix, the phlegmatic fortune telling duck who—or which—tops the entertaining new bill at the Hippodrome.

Felix is a real quack and an imitation quack at one and the same time. He waddles on all done up in canvas and proceeds to stage an Anna Eva Fay stunt in telepathy that is received with shrieks of mirth.

The Van Der Koor, two alert chaps sponsor Felix, in fact, one of the Van Der Koor is Felix. Before his advent on the scene the two boys present a clever series of illusions and magic tricks. One Van Der Koor executes a trick and his brother exposes it. The act abounds in comedy and is exceedingly novel.

A sensation is sprung by the advent of Bob, a boxing kangaroo who employs the Jim Corbett tactics of being a puncher and maintaining a gentlemanly demeanor at the same time. Bob has three pals, a pretty little girl and the Gordons, two athletic men. One of them is Bob's sparring partner and the other is his trainer. There's plenty of fun in this act and it really proves a knockout.

A pretty young maid, Jean McElroy, sings sweet melodies the while she plays on a big golden harp. She has a splendid knowledge of music and touches the heart strings quickly. She is good to look upon as well. Her artistry is greatly appreciated.

A pair of pleasant entertainers are Arthur Du Male, a natural, easy-going comedian of the frock coat variety and his slender Titian-tressed partner, Jewel Floyd. Both have excellent singing voices and a line of new patter exchange and brilliant repartee. Miss Floyd dresses smartly. Two dancemasters are Powder, who has explosive feet and Capman, who is the fuse that sets both to sparking. Their dance steps are clever, so, too, is their singing and fooling around.

The two Loves are a pair of comedy rope manipulators who chatter the while they spin the rope.

"The Final Chapter" brings to its close the serial photo play "The Shielding Shadow." Beside this there is the Pathe News series and a comedy film.

Douglas County Sportsmen Busy. ROSEBURG, Or., Jan. 11.—(Special.)—A bill having for its purpose the enlargement of the present North Umpqua River hatchery and the establishment of a new plant here for the propagation of trout was drawn in Roseburg today and will be introduced in the Legislature some time next week. The legislation was authorized by the various sportmen's leagues of Douglas County.

The Super-Malignant Germ

This is the germ that kills; that is so virile, so full of malignant power that it baffles all the skill of medical science. It is the bacillus that is fatal to human life in tuberculosis, pneumonia, diphtheria and all serious germ diseases.

For the principles of human life and germ life are about the same, and the drug has not yet been discovered that will destroy all kinds of germs and yet be harmless to the human body.

But you can kill the super-malignant germ and all other kinds of germs, before they enter the system, by using Lysol.

Make your home germ-proof the same way hospitals do: disinfect with Lysol. Then you will make a better fight against disease than it can make against you and yours.

Use Lysol in sinks, drains, cesspools, toilet and bath to prevent your home from being invaded by typhoid and other infections.

Use it in scrubbing water—soap alone will not kill malignant germs. Use it to disinfect dark, sunless corners—germs thrive in such places.
